Texas Judge Holds Matusow For Contempt

Lawyer Hiding In Fifth Amendment Tossed Out Court

EL PASO, March 12 — UP — U. S. District Judge R. E. Thomason Saturday held turnabout professional witness Harvey Matusow in criminal contempt of court because he "schemed maliciously and deliberately to obstruct justice."

The judge, however, denied a new trial for New Mexico labor leader Clinton Jencks, in whose conviction Matusow's testimony figured heavily.

Thomason granted Jencks, an international representative of the independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, a hearing on a new trial.

Matusow filed an affidavit in El Paso federal court saying he gave false testimony about Jencks in the union man's January, 1954, trial on a charge he filed a false non-Communist affidavit with the National Labor Relations Board.

Jencks was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison, but since has been free in appeal bond.

Matusow testified during the hearing on Jencks' plea for a new trial that practically all his testimony about Jencks was false. The hearing opened Monday in Thomason's court, where Jencks was convicted.

Thomason said he would sentence Matusow on Wednesday and until that time he must remain under the jurisdiction of the El Paso court. This will give Matusow "reasonable time to prepare his defense before sentence is passed," the judge said.

Maximum penalty for criminal contempt is five years imprisonment, U.S. attorneys said.

Thomason said he believed at the time Jencks was convicted and he believes now that the New Mexico union man received a fair trial. The judge concurred in the sentence of five years which Jencks received.

Thomason, in effect, also kicked

Officers Obtain Confession From Slaying Suspect

A 29-year-old Monroe man last night confessed to the slaying of James S. (Bobby) Wilhite, 32, Negro, former resident of Mangham Friday night outside the Oak Leaf Cafe here, according to Chief of Detectives, Hugh L. Tolbert.

The man, apprehended by sheriff's deputies last night near Sterlington, was identified by Chief Tolbert as James Roosevelt Lemon, Negro, of 913 Oak street.

After Lemon was picked up by sheriff's deputies he was taken to the parish jail where detectives and deputies questioned him.

"He admitted shooting Wilhite," Chief Tolbert said, "and after doing so, left the shotgun, with which he had done the shooting, at the home of a niece, a woman by the name of Wilson."

According to Lemon, the woman told him that he had killed the Negro at the cafe, Tolbert said.

Up until this time, Tolbert said, the Negro stated that he didn't know that Wilhite was dead.

Lemon abandoned his car on Sixth street and made his way out of the city via the Missouri-Pacific railroad tracks toward Sterlington, according to detectives.

Tolbert quoted the Negro as saying that he had hidden out in the woods Friday night.

Information was received today that the Negro had been seen in the vicinity where he was picked up by sheriff authorities, Tolbert stated.

Lemon, who recently served a jail sentence of one year for shooting at a man, stated to deputies and detectives that he shot Wilhite because both he and Wilhite had been "fooling around" with the same woman, and that Wilhite had threatened to kill him, Chief Tolbert stated.

The man is being lodged in the parish jail on a charge of murder, according to Tolbert.

Wilhite was slain about 10 o'clock Friday night with a blast from the shotgun of his assailant parked in a car at the corner of Vicksburg and Oak Streets.

Wilhite lived only a few minutes after staggering into the cafe. He told no one the identity of his slayer.

Balloting On Waterworks District Bond Issue Is Postponed For 60 Days

A special $279,500 bond issue election in East Ouachita Waterworks District No. 1 was postponed for a minimum of 60 days yesterday in keeping with a petition signed by 75 citizens of the area concerned.

The election was originally set for Tuesday, March 15. Agreement to postpone it was reached yesterday afternoon at a meeting between a citizens committee and the board of the waterworks districts.

R. M. Beasley who acted as board chairman at yesterday's meeting in the absence of chairman W. A. Guy, gave a statement last night confirming that the election has been postponed in order to give new citizens in the district time to change their places of registration.

The movement to postpone the election crystalized Friday night when citizens of the waterworks district met at the Lakeshore Baptist Church to Organize opposition to the election date. Another meeting attended by a capacity crowd, was held at the Church last night to discuss further the waterworks system issue.

The citizens' group emphasized that it is not opposed to a waterworks system, that, in fact, it wants one, but contended that citizens of the area were not sufficiently informed about the system proposed by the waterworks board to vote intelligently upon it at the present time.

At the meeting last night the group designated its committee to meet with the engineer appointed by the board to study the system in order to gain assurance that the system proposed would fill the needs of the area.

The citizens group also opposed the original election date on the grounds that a number of families have recently moved into the district and therefore would not be eligible to vote Tuesday.

The proposed bond issue calls for $200,000 in revenue secured bonds and $79,500 in tax secured bonds.

Members of the citizens committee are Ken Wallace, chairman, Drew Anderson, R.F. Cox, Frank Nolden and L.B. Armstrong. Wallace presided at the meetings held Friday night and last night.

Members of the waterworks board are Guy Beasley, the Rev. Horace Taylor, O.N. McNeal and Aaron Parker.

As soon as the engineering plans are available and have been checked by engineers representing the citizens group a meeting will be called for all interested persons to have a complete report from the board of water commissioners and the citizens committee to guide

M'Carthy Seeks Report On Action To Free Airmen

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) asked President Eisenhower today "what, if anything," he was doing to obtain the freedom of American servicemen held prisoner by the Chinese Communists.

In a terse letter to the chief executive, McCarthy said "the mothers, fathers and wives get no information from you on this as though they had no right to know."

McCarthy added, "I submit that you are mistaken in this and would like to hear from you as to what, if anything, you are doing or propose to do to secure the freedom of those young men."

The White House confirmed receipt of McCarthy's letter, but said it would have no comment.

Eisenhower has urged patience in efforts to win the release of 11 American airmen whom Communist China announced she had imprisoned on spy charges, and of four others also held by the Reds. He has rejected demands from some quarters for an immediate blockade of Red China to force release of the men, and said it must be remembered the lives of the fliers are at stake.

Alabama To Try Arch Ferrell For Patterson Killing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 12 (AP)—State's attorneys went ahead today with plans to try ex-prosecuting attorney Arch Ferrell in the slaying of A. L. Patterson despite Ferrell's acquittal on a vote fraud charge linked to the slaying of the anti-vice crusader.

The 38-year-old former circuit solicitor at vice-ridden Phenix City was freed by a jury last night on a charge of attempting to steal the Democratic nomination for attorney general away from Patterson.

Patterson was shot to death in Phenix City last June 18 after winning the nomination for attorney general on a promise to clean up the vice dens at Phenix City.

Meanwhile, ex-chief deputy sheriff Albert Fuller, the first of three defendants to be tried in Patterson's slaying was in the Jefferson County jail here under a sentence of life imprisonment.

Fuller was convicted of first degree murder yesterday less than seven hours before Ferrell was acquitted on the vote fraud charge in another Birmingham court.

Radioactive Dust Causing Concern In Testing Areas

DENVER, March 12 (AP)—Fallout of radioactive dust in Colorado from the Nevada nuclear tests has reached a point where it can no longer be ignored by those concerned with public health and safety, two scientists at the University of Colorado Medical Center said today.

"For the first time in the history of the Nevada tests, the upsurge in radioactivity measured here within a matter of hours after the tests has become appreciable," Dr. Ray R. Lanier, head of the University's radiology department, said in an interview.

"It is not our desire to alarm the public mind needlessly, but we feel it is our duty to say so."

He said his department is studying the fallout, measuring its intensity, and will report its findings to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dr. Theodore Puck, head of the University biophysics department, also pointed out that Geiger counter readings don't tell the whole story of radiation hazard.

"The trouble with airborne radioactive dust is that we breathe it into the lungs," he said, "where it may lodge in direct contact with living tissue."

Junior-Size Bomb Used As Test For Protective Smoke

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 12 (AP)—A junior size atomic explosion was used today to determine whether a smoke screen can substantially reduce nuclear heat radiation.

The fifth detonation in the 1955 series flashed at the desert test site 75 miles from here at 5:20 a.m.

It was brilliantly white, as seen here, and it appeared like a flash of lightning at such places as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Phoenix, Ariz., and Klamath Falls, Ore. It was heard in Bishop, Calif., 135 miles west, and rumbled in Invokern, Calif.

But it was nothing like the whopper which illumined the sky like a sudden sunrise in 11 Western states last Monday morning.

The Atomic Energy Commission, Department of Defense and weather experts planned an evaluation conference for tomorrow morning to decide whether the next test will be ready for firing Monday. There was no indication of the size or type for No. 6.

Today was a smoke pot opera-

Knife-Wielder Threatens Life Of India's Boss

Jumps On Open Car With 6-Inch Blade; Nehru Is Unhurt

NAGPUR, India, March 12 (AP) — A rickshaw boy wielding a six - inch clasp knife leaped on the running board of Prime Minister Nehru's open automobile here today but struck no blows.

Nehru, physically fit at 65, pushed him away and police, fearful of an assassination attempt, grabbed him.

The rickshaw puller was identified as Basu Rao, 32, from the Maharashtra region of western India. A Maharashtra man was hanged for the 1948 assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi. Another man not immediately identified was arrested with Rao.

Unhurt and unruffled by the incident, Nehru described the weapon as a "very small knife and not at all dangerous." He dismissed the episode as of "no significance" and pictured the rickshaw boy as "a cranky person."

There was no official indication of a motive. Nehru himself said he thought at first the man was trying to present a petition.

In New Delhi, government officials declared the incident could not be called an attempt on Nehru's life. They insisted the rickshaw boy might have been aiming at some one else in Nehru's car. They suggested Pandit R. S. Shukla, chief minister of Madhya Pradesh State, whose government controls rickshaws through a licensing system, could have been a target.

The prime minister, who has faced many dangers since he first took up the cause of Indian independence, said he would have taken the knife away from Rao himself "but in the meantime police attacked him and removed the man from the spot."

Nehru was driving from Sonegon Airport to Shukla's residence when the attack occurred. He had arrived in Nagpur, 420 miles northeast of Bombay, shortly before on a flight from New Delhi.

Police said Nehru, standing in the open car with Shukla and the governor of Madhya Pradesh State, pushed Rao as he leaped on the vehicle's running board. A security guard seized Rao as he fell. He was taken to a hospital after being questioned by police.

Speaking in a jovial mood, Nehru told newsmen the whole episode lasted only 10 seconds. He said he saw a cycle rickshaw push across the path of his official procession, then the rickshaw driver came running toward his automobile. Police had the man before he himself could have caught him, Nehru added.

After the incident Nehru spoke at a meeting of state legislators in Shukla's house. While was talking later to newsmen, a woman legislator emotionally demanded better security measures for the Prime Minister. "We cannot afford to take risks," she said.

Boss Parr Billed For Half-Million

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 12 (AP)—Records at the U. S. Tax Court in Washington show George B. Parr, south Texas political boss, has been billed for more than a half million dollars by the Internal Revenue Service.

This was reported today by the Washington Bureau of the San Antonio Express.

Parr already faces two federal accusations involving his income.

LSU Asks $20 Million In Tidelands Oil Funds For Huge Building Program

BATON ROUGE, March 12 (AP) — The Louisiana State University board of supervisors voted today to ask the May Legislature to set aside four million dollars yearly from the state's mineral revenues for a 200 million dollar LSU building program.

The grant would continue five years.

President Troy Middleton said there would be "20,000 students on the LSU campus by 1971" and the buildings required to meet this increased enrollment was the "most serious thing that has confronted this university."

Two legislative committees are planning long-range highway and educational building programs to be financed from Louisiana's rich offshore oil revenues.

But Mrs. Margaret Dixon, board member from Baton Rouge, pointed out that the "education committee unfortunately is thinking only about public schools at this time. I think the university should be included."

Middleton replied, "that's the reason I wanted to get into it and we have worked up this program."

To the program Middleton presented, totalling $17,915,000, the board added a housing project for married students which hiked the total to 20 million dollars.

Theo Cangelosi, board member from Baton Rouge, said LSU is "either going to get it this time when the big melon is going to be cut up or we'll be left out."

Mrs. Dixon suggested that a committee be named to work with Middleton in contacting the Legislature. The board agreed and chairman Lewis Gottlieb of Baton Rouge said he would name the committee later.

In other action, the board:

1. Named Dr. Sidney Butler Smith librarian at Vermont University, director of libraries effective July 1. He succeeds Guy R. Lyle who resigned last August.

2. Approved asking bids for oil, gas and mineral leases on a 1,444.8-acre tract of land on the Ben Hur Plantation in East Baton Rouge Parish.

3. Referred to the committee on athletics and student activities for study a proposal to place the LSU athletic program under direct administrative control of President Middleton. The Board, under its rules, could take no action on the proposal until its April 2 meeting.

The board presented an 18 million dollar construction program to the 1954 Legislature and received six million. The present program represents the 12 million not pro-

Cloudy And Cooler Weather Predicted

U. S. Government weather personnel have forecast partly cloudy weather for Sunday and Monday. It is predicted that it will turn cooler in the extreme north portion Sunday.

C.A.A. communications specialists at Selman Field said last night that the highest mercury reading recorded yesterday was 89 degrees. The low was 64 degrees.

Southern Bell, Union Attempting To Avert Strike

ATLANTA, March 12 (AP)—Negotiators recessed for dinner and then began a night session tonight in a last-minute effort to avert a threatened strike of 50,000 Southern Bell Telephone Co. employes.

Members of the CIO Communications Workers of America have announced they will walkout if agreement on a new contract is not reached before the old contract expires at midnight Sunday.

Such a strike would affect Bell facilities in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

F. M. Malone, personnel vice president, said "the company is making preparations to provide the public the best telephone service possible in the event of a strike."

Automatic dial service would not be materially affected while supervisory personnel would handle long distance calls, he said.

Atlanta police chief Herbert Jenkins reported he swore in "several dozen" special officers employed by a detective agency to protect Southern Bell property in case there is a strike.

Senate Defeat Of Income Tax Cut Predicted

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) predicted today the Senate will defeat by a margin of several votes next week a Democratic "compromise" plan to cut income taxes.

The Republican leaders said the chamber then would pass an administration-backed bill to continue present corporation and excise taxes, scheduled to drop April 1 under present law.

Knowland said his party members would refuse to compromise with the Democrats who have proposed a 908-million-dollar yearly income tax reduction for lower income families.

"We are going to stand pat on the bill to extend present corporation and excise taxes," Knowland said. "There will be no Republican compromise offered."

The House passed a bill extending these levies for one year beyond April 1 but tacked on to the measure a provision for a $20 income tax cut for each taxpayer and dependent.

When this provision was stripped away in the Senate Finance Committee, Democrats came up with a substitute to give lower income persons a $20 reduction for the taxpayer and $10 for each dependent, except a spouse.

Finnish Vessel Takes Jet Fuel To Red Chinese

GOP Leader Asks Use Of Fleet To Halt Red Cargo

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Sen. Knowland of California demanded today that the 7th Fleet act, if necessary, to halt a Finnish tanker carrying jet fuel to Red China, but Sen. George of Georgia disagreed.

George, who is Democratic chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that since the United States is not blockading China "I wouldn't think we had any right to stop any ship going into those ports."

He said that if the Chinese Nationalists want to intercept the tanker Aruba, they could go ahead. But he said he "wouldn't advise" 7th Fleet action at this time.

The vessel is now plodding through the Indian Ocean with 13,000 tons of jet aircraft fuel from Red Romania. Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said the U.S. Navy should stop her if all other means fail.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said the tanker's voyage dramatizes "the failure of our government to do something about this most disgraceful situation" of trade between Western nations and Red China.

McClellan announced he will investigate this trade. He said that in 1954 vessels of this country's allies made more trips to Red China than in any year since 1950, when the Korean War started, and that the trade was still mounting.

McClellan centers his fire on Great Britain rather than Finland, which is not an ally of the United States. He said most trade between Western allies and Red China is in ships which fly the British flag and which "receive protection from the British fleet."

There was no immediate comment from Harold Stassen, foreign operations administrator who has charge of efforts to curb trade with Communist nations. But his aides said their figures indicated that in dollar volume there was a sharp decrease, rather than an increase, in free world trade with China between 1950 and 1954.

Knowland, who frequently has called for sterner measures against Red China than the administration has been willing to take, said:

"It would be folly to permit this supply of jet fuel to be delivered to Red China and possibly to be used against us in that part of the world.

"There are several ways it could be stopped. I hope it will be intercepted by the Nationalists and I am confident they are fully capable of doing it.

"It might be turned aside by diplomatic moves which would deliver the fuel to some commercial firms. But if all other means fail, the 7th Fleet should stop it." He added:

"It would be a grave dereliction on our part to permit the building up of supplies for what is an obvious attempt by the Communists to assemble a jet air force with the obvious purpose of attacking Formosa."

The Chinese Communists have said they will not tolerate any interference with the shipment. The Finnish government says it has no control over the shipment, made under charter from a Red Romanian port.

Stock Probe Shows Nobody Expecting 1929-Type Bust, But All Are Cautious

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Nobody expects a 1929-type boom and bust. But then nobody is saying it can't happen, either. Some people, including a few from Wall Street, think it's time for the government to move in and try to keep the boom from getting bigger.

That just about sums up the testimony to date as Congress' first study of the stock market in more than 20 years comes up to the halfway mark in its preliminary set of hearings.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and his Senate Banking Committee have heard a variety of witnesses, from stock brokers to professors, since they opened their "friendly study" of the bull market March 3.

They're calling the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board William McC. Martin, to the stand Monday. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and other witnesses, including a trade union official and a financial writer, will be heard before the hearings recess March 23.

The idea then is for the committee and its staff to mull over what they've heard, lay out some new avenues to explore and then hold some more hearings to dot the I's and cross the T's of testimony already given.

Up to the midway point, the testimony sorts out along these lines:

Most Wall Streeters, stock exchange presidents, over-the-counter dealers tend to view the high level of stock prices without concern. They're careful to avoid any "it can't happen here" tone when asked about a possible market bust. But they cite volumes of figures to show the economy as a whole is in good shape. And they're just about unanimous in saying the high price level is basically a reflection of public confidence in America's future.

Outside Wall Street, the view expressed has been that conditions do, indeed, look pretty good—but that there may be some danger signals flashing, too. One often-suggested precaution: Let the government put a brake on borrowing for market speculation purposes; the time to stop a runaway boom is before it starts.

Frequently as the hearings have proceeded, the Fulbright committee has consisted solely of Fulbright—a lean, slowspoken Arkansan with a humorously skeptical manner, given to quizzical glances over the top of spectacles well down on his nose.

Sometimes three or four Democratic senators sit in with his two-man show, with Fulbright sharing the long committee table only with his top aide, staff director Robert A. Wallace.

Radioactive Dust Causing Concern In Testing Areas

DENVER, March 12 (AP)—Fallout of radioactive dust in Colorado from the Nevada nuclear tests has reached a point where it can no longer be ignored by those concerned with public health and safety, two scientists at the University of Colorado Medical Center said today.

"For the first time in the history of the Nevada tests, the upsurge in radioactivity measured here within a matter of hours after the tests has become appreciable," Dr. Ray R. Lanier, head of the University's radiology department, said in an interview.

"It is not our desire to alarm the public mind needlessly, but we feel it is our duty to say so."

He said his department is studying the fallout, measuring its intensity, and will report its findings to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dr. Theodore Puck, head of the University biophysics department, also pointed out that Geiger counter readings don't tell the whole story of radiation hazard.

"The trouble with airborne radioactive dust is that we breathe it into the lungs," he said, "where it may lodge in direct contact with living tissue."

Junior-Size Bomb Used As Test For Protective Smoke

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 12 (AP)—A junior size atomic explosion was used today to determine whether a smoke screen can substantially reduce nuclear heat radiation.

The fifth detonation in the 1955 series flashed at the desert test site 75 miles from here at 5:20 a.m.

It was brilliantly white, as seen here, and it appeared like a flash of lightning at such places as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Phoenix, Ariz., and Klamath Falls, Ore. It was heard in Bishop, Calif., 135 miles west, and rumbled in Inyokern, Calif.

But it was nothing like the whopper which illumined the sky like a sudden sunrise in 11 Western states last Monday morning.

The Atomic Energy Commission, Department of Defense and weather experts planned an evaluation conference for tomorrow morning to decide whether the next test will be ready for firing Monday. There was no indication of the size or type for No. 6.

Today was a smoke pot opera-

Knife-Wielder Threatens Life Of India's Boss

Jumps On Open Car With 6-Inch Blade; Nehru Is Unhurt

NAGPUR, India, March 12 (AP) — A rickshaw boy wielding a six - inch clasp knife leaped on the running board of Prime Minister Nehru's open automobile here today but struck no blows.

Nehru, physically fit at 65, pushed him away and police, fearful of an assassination attempt, grabbed him.

The rickshaw puller was identified as Basu Rao, 32, from the Maharashtra region of western India. A Maharashtra man was hanged for the 1948 assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi. Another man not immediately identified was arrested with Rao.

Unhurt and unruffled by the incident, Nehru described the weapon as a "very small knife and not at all dangerous." He dismissed the episode as of "no significance" and pictured the rickshaw boy as "a cranky person."

There was no official indication of a motive. Nehru himself said he thought at first the man was trying to present a petition.

In New Delhi, government officials declared the incident could not be called an attempt on Nehru's life. They insisted the rickshaw boy might have been aiming at some one else in Nehru's car. They suggested Pandit R. S. Shukla, chief minister of Madhya Pradesh State, whose government controls rickshaws through a licensing system, could have been a target.

The prime minister, who has faced many dangers since he first took up the cause of Indian independence, said he would have taken the knife away from Rao himself "but in the meantime police attacked him and removed the man from the spot."

Nehru was driving from Sonegon Airport to Shukla's residence when the attack occurred. He had arrived in Nagpur, 420 miles northeast of Bombay, shortly before on a flight from New Delhi.

Police said Nehru, standing in the open car with Shukla and the governor of Madhya Pradesh State, pushed Rao as he leaped on the vehicle's running board. A security guard seized Rao as he fell. He was taken to a hospital after being questioned by police.

Speaking in a jovial mood, Nehru told newsmen the whole episode lasted only 10 seconds. He said he saw a cycle rickshaw push across the path of his official procession, then the rickshaw driver came running toward his automobile. Police had the man before he himself could have caught him, Nehru added.

After the incident Nehru spoke at a meeting of state legislators in Shukla's house. While was talking later to newsmen, a woman legislator emotionally demanded better security measures for the Prime Minister. "We cannot afford to take risks," she said.

Boss Parr Billed For Half-Million

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 12 (AP)—Records at the U. S. Tax Court in Washington show George B. Parr, south Texas political boss, has been billed for more than a half million dollars by the Internal Revenue Service.

This was reported today by the Washington Bureau of the San Antonio Express.

Parr already faces two federal accusations involving his income.

Stock Probe Shows Nobody Expecting 1929-Type Bust, But All Are Cautious

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Nobody expects a 1929-type boom and bust. But then nobody is saying it can't happen, either. Some people, including a few from Wall Street, think it's time for the government to move in and try to keep the boom from getting bigger.

That just about sums up the testimony to date as Congress' first study of the stock market in more than 20 years comes up to the halfway mark in its preliminary set of hearings.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and his Senate Banking Committee have heard a variety of witnesses, from stock brokers to professors, since they opened their "friendly study" of the bull market March 3.

They're calling the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McC. Martin, to the stand Monday. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and other witnesses, including a trade union official and a financial writer, will be heard before the hearings recess March 23.

The idea then is for the committee and its staff to mull over what they've heard, lay out some new avenues to explore and then hold some more hearings to dot the I's and cross the T's of testimony already given.

Up to the midway point, the testimony sorts out along these lines:

Most Wall Streeters, stock exchange presidents, over-the-counter dealers tend to view the high level of stock prices without concern. They're careful to avoid any "it can't happen here" tone when asked about a possible market bust. But they cite volumes of figures to show the economy as a whole is in good shape. And they're just about unanimous in saying the high price level is basically a reflection of public confidence in America's future.

Outside Wall Street, the view expressed has been that conditions do, indeed, look pretty good—but that there may be some danger signals flashing, too. One often-suggested precaution: Let the government put a brake on borrowing for market speculation purposes; the time to stop a runaway boom is before it starts.

Frequently as the hearings have proceeded, the Fulbright committee has consisted solely of Fulbright—a lean, slowspoken Arkansan with a humorously skeptical manner, given to quizzical glances over the top of spectacles well down on his nose.

Sometimes three or four Democratic senators sit in with his two-man show, with Fulbright sharing the long committee table only with his top aide, staff director Robert A. Wallace.

Knowland Asks Seizure Of Tanker

WELCOMES OPPORTUNITY—Former Texas Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, seated, is shown in Bexar County sheriff's office at San Antonio as he tells newsmen "I welcome the opportunity to make my defense in court." Giles was indicted last Saturday of conspiring to commit theft of $83,500 in state money in veterans lands scandal.

LSU Asks $20 Million In Tidelands Oil Funds For Huge Building Program

BATON ROUGE, March 12 (AP) — The Louisiana State University board of supervisors voted today to ask the May Legislature to set aside four million dollars yearly from the state's mineral revenues for a 200 million dollar LSU building program.

The grant would continue five years.

President Troy Middleton said there would be "20,000 students on the LSU campus by 1971" and the buildings required to meet this increased enrollment was the "most serious thing that has confronted this university."

Two legislative committees are planning long-range highway and educational building programs to be financed from Louisiana's rich offshore oil revenues.

But Mrs. Margaret Dixon, board member from Baton Rouge, pointed out that the "education committee unfortunately is thinking only about public schools at this time. I think the university should be included."

Middleton replied, "that's the reason I wanted to get into it and we have worked up this program."

To the program Middleton presented, totalling $17,915,000, the board added a housing project for married students which hiked the total to 20 million dollars.

Theo Cangelosi, board member from Baton Rouge, said LSU is "either going to get it this time when the big melon is going to be cut up or we'll be left out."

Mrs. Dixon suggested that a committee be named to work with Middleton in contacting the Legislature. The board agreed and chairman Lewis Gottlieb of Baton Rouge said he would name the committee later.

In other action, the board:

1. Named Dr. Sidney Butler Smith librarian at Vermont University, director of libraries effective July 1. He succeeds Guy R. Lyle who resigned last August.

2. Approved asking bids for oil, gas and mineral leases on a 1,444.8-acre tract of land on the Ben Hur Plantation in East Baton Rouge Parish.

3. Referred to the committee on athletics and student activities for study a proposal to place the LSU athletic program under direct administrative control of President Middleton. The Board, under its rules, could take no action on the proposal until its April 2 meeting.

The board presented an 18 million dollar construction program to the 1954 Legislature and received six million. The present program represents the 12 million not pro-

Cloudy And Cooler Weather Predicted

U. S. Government weather personnel have forecast partly cloudy weather for Sunday and Monday. It is predicted that it will turn cooler in the extreme north portion Sunday.

C.A.A. communications specialists at Selman Field said last night that the highest mercury reading recorded yesterday was 89 degrees. The low was 64 degrees.

Southern Bell, Union Attempting To Avert Strike

ATLANTA, March 12 (AP)—Negotiators recessed for dinner and then began a night session tonight in a last-minute effort to avert a threatened strike of 50,000 Southern Bell Telephone Co. employes.

Members of the CIO Communications Workers of America have announced they will walkout if agreement on a new contract is not reached before the old contract expires at midnight Sunday.

Such a strike would affect Bell facilities in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

F. M. Malone, personnel vice president, said "the company is making preparations to provide the public the best telephone service possible in the event of a strike."

Automatic dial service would not be materially affected while supervisory personnel would handle long distance calls, he said.

Atlanta police chief Herbert Jenkins reported he swore in "several dozen" special officers employed by a detective agency to protect Southern Bell property in case there is a strike.

Senate Defeat Of Income Tax Cut Predicted

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) predicted today the Senate will defeat by a margin of several votes next week a Democratic "compromise" plan to cut income taxes.

The Republican leaders said the chamber then would pass an administration-backed bill to continue present corporation and excise taxes, scheduled to drop April 1 under present law.

Knowland said his party members would refuse to compromise with the Democrats who have proposed a 908-million-dollar yearly income tax reduction for lower income families.

"We are going to stand pat on the bill to extend present corporation and excise taxes," Knowland said. "There will be no Republican compromise offered."

The House passed a bill extending these levies for one year beyond April 1 but tacked on to the measure a provision for a $20 income tax cut for each taxpayer and dependent.

When this provision was stripped away in the Senate Finance Committee, Democrats came up with a substitute to give lower income persons a $20 reduction for the taxpayer and $10 for each dependent, except a spouse.

Finnish Vessel Takes Jet Fuel To Red Chinese

GOP Leader Asks Use Of Fleet To Halt Red Cargo

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Sen. Knowland of California demanded today that the 7th Fleet act, if necessary, to halt a Finnish tanker carrying jet fuel to Red China, but Sen. George of Georgia disagreed.

George, who is Democratic chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that since the United States is not blockading China "I wouldn't think we had any right to stop any ship going into those ports."

He said that if the Chinese Nationalists want to intercept the tanker Aruba, they could go ahead. But he said he "wouldn't advise" 7th Fleet action at this time.

The vessel is now plodding through the Indian Ocean with 13,000 tons of jet aircraft fuel from Red Romania. Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said the U.S. Navy should stop her if all other means fail.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) said the tanker's voyage dramatizes "the failure of our government to do something about this most disgraceful situation" of trade between Western nations and Red China.

McClellan announced he will investigate this trade. He said that in 1954 vessels of this country's allies made more trips to Red China than in any year since 1950, when the Korean War started, and that the trade was still mounting.

McClellan centers his fire on Great Britain rather than Finland, which is not an ally of the United States. He said most trade between Western allies and Red China is in ships which fly the British flag and which "receive protection from the British fleet."

There was no immediate comment from Harold Stassen, foreign operations administrator who has charge of efforts to curb trade with Communist nations. But his aides said their figures indicated that in dollar volume there was a sharp decrease, rather than an increase, in free world trade with China between 1950 and 1954.

Knowland, who frequently has called for sterner measures against Red China than the administration has been willing to take, said:

"It would be folly to permit this supply of jet fuel to be delivered to Red China and possibly to be used against us in that part of the world.

"There are several ways it could be stopped. I hope it will be intercepted by the Nationalists and I am confident they are fully capable of doing it.

"It might be turned aside by diplomatic moves which would deliver the fuel to some commercial firms. But if all other means fail, the 7th Fleet should stop it." He added:

"It would be a grave dereliction on our part to permit the building up of supplies for what is an obvious attempt by the Communists to assemble a jet air force with the obvious purpose of attacking Formosa."

The Chinese Communists have said they will not tolerate any interfernce with the shipment. The Finnish government says it has no control over the shipment, made under charter from a Red Romanian port.

Increasing School Burden Discussed At Meeting Here

Addressing district delegates of the Louisiana Classroom Teachers' Association at their annual banquet here yesterday, N. B. (Red) Hackett, executive secretary of the Louisiana Education Association, declared that while the nation's population has tripled during the past 75 years, high school enrollment has increased 90 times.

During the past quarter centry, he continued, the nation's entire school system has been suffering from neglect. He attributed the neglect mainly to the depression and the war, and pointed out that of school funds should be spent for construction, expenditures dropped to as low as two per cent during World War II.

Construction is so far behind, he said, that it would take a one-story building extending from New York to San Francisco to adequately fill the present needs.

Hackett pointed out that while Louisiana is superior to the majority of other states in the administration of its school, there is still quite a bit of room for improvement in other phases of education. Of 23 states giving financial aid to local administrative units for school building, Louisiana is the only southern state which does not have such a program.

He pointed out that while Louisiana ranks 17th in the nation in professional training of public school teachers, and 20th concerning the classroom teachers' average salary, it ranks 30th in the current investment per pupil in average daily attendance. The state also ranks 37th in the ratio of public school registration to number of public school teachers.

However, discussing the past session of the state legislature, Hackett expressed the belief that the legislature would, in the near future, act to make revenue from tidelands oil available for education purposes.

Also appearing on yesterday's program was Dr. J. W. Bordelon, of the Louisiana Tech faculty, who told of the Indo - China educational system, which he, as a member of a three - man team, had inspected for the Foreign Operations Administration.

He explained that although the Asian nation is far behind our own in the field of education, it is making definite strides foward improvement.

C. C. Boardman, standing in front of the Ouachita bank, stated that he had a good story and it all came up when he heard so much interference planned with the workings of the local weather man, in which pertains to rains and rain making.

"Why," said Mr. Boardman, "up in Kansas I heard there was a good story about rain and rain making. It got so dry that all vegetation was as if it had been in an oven with a stiff fire burning. Wheat, the chief product of Kansas, was ruined.

"Then a meeting in a church was called to pray for rain. A throng gathered and they prayed for some hours. Then the meeting was dismissed."

"Why, that's no story," declared a Monroe listener.

"But," said Boardman, "you did not hear its finale, there was one woman in the crowd who had the faith that moves mountains. She came to the meeting with a tiny umbrella. And she was the only person who had the faith to take this precaution!"

A man who had known Ross Zuberbier, prominent oil, gas man and building contractor, the other day chanced to ask him how his family was getting along.

"Family," blasted Ross, "why I never acquired any.

"But, I know you live out near the college and I also know that you have a yard that has some choice fruit trees," his friend declared.

"Yes, that's so but only sister and I live there. Its the only home we have and anyway why bother any further?"

A man who had seen Monroe outgrow swaddling clothes, told us that years ago he had a cafe on DeSiard where the Peoples Homestead is now located.

A man who owned a 50 foot front lot on the 300 block sought to sell his lot for $1,000.

"I told him his price is too high!" ruefully explained the man as he unfolded the story.

"Today," he continued "that lot is worth easily $1,000 a front foot and rents for a nice big figure. I realize my foresight is not equal to my hindsight!"

In a small Georgia town the weekly newspaper editor was out of town on publication day. He left a man in charge of getting out the paper despite the fact that he was one too much addicted to strong drink.

The editor away, the man in question sought comfort in a nearby bottle and it gave him such nerve ease that he drank the contents of several bottles.

There was a job to do and he felt unequal to the task. But he recalled that type forms from last week's paper were still on the press. After a few more drinks, he made a single change—that of the publication date—and let the press roll. Readers were amazed to read an eight column front page streamer saying: "Reprinted by Popular Request!"

Error In Blood Transfusion Kills Tennessee Youth

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 12 (AP)—Jerry Sorter, 19-year-old Chattanooga boy who died while being treated for a bullet wound Friday at Erlanger Hospital, was disclosed today to have succumbed because of a transfusion in which he was given another patient's blood.

Harold L. Peterson, hospital administrator, confirmed the report tonight that the wrong type of blood was given to young Sorter, causing his death.

Sorter died at 12:15 a.m. Friday, about 10 hours after the transfusion, from a bullet wound suffered Feb. 6. The youth accidentally shot himself while riding in a car driven by a friend.

Peterson confirmed this account of the incident:

Sorter, who had been given blood previously, was taken to the operating room about 1 p.m. Thursday for corrective surgery. A transfusion was ordered during the operation, but the blood given to the youth was intended for a patient in an adjoining operating room. The transfusion caused kidney complications resulting in his death, it was reported.

Blood given to Sorter was left on a cart outside the other patient's operating room, it was explained, but the cart somehow was taken into the room where Sorter was undergoing surgery.

Peterson withheld further comment, pending the outcome of an investigation. While the hospital administrator said he could not "pin point final responsibility" at the present time, he indicated that the early stage of the investigation placed the blame on an anesthesiologist who was in charge of the transfusion.

tion for the Army Chemical Corps, although the AEC said there actually were 35 tests of developmental weapons and civil effects.

Forty smoke generators, remotely controlled, threw out a smoke screen about 50 feet off the ground over part of the test site near the 300-foot detonation tower on Yucca Flat. The smoke consisted of vaporized oil—an oily fog with droplets 30 millionths of an inch in diameter.

Past theoretical studies and laboratory work had shown that thermal (heat) radiation from an atomic blast could be reduced by a large percentage because the smoke would absorb, then scatter, direct radiation. Objects, or humans, beneath the screen would thus be greatly protected.

This was the first large scale experiment to test out the theories in an actual explosion. Neither the AEC nor the Chemical Corps indicated when findings might be released based on an array of instruments placed to record the effects today.

The Army has said that a smoke screen will not give protection from the awful pressure wave of a nuclear blast, nor from radiation of the penetrating gamma rays.

Sixty-five aircraft participated in today's experiment, primarily Navy fighters and dive bombers. There was a field artillery observation exercise but no participation by a body of troops, as such.

The atomic cloud rose to 36,000 feet and moved to the southeast, then twisted into a lazy snake pattern.

Increasing School Burden Discussed At Meeting Here

Addressing district delegates of the Louisiana Classroom Teachers' Association at their annual banquet here yesterday, N. B. During the past quarter centry, he continued, the nation's entire school system has been suffering from neglect. He attributed the neglect mainly to the depression and the war, and pointed out that of school funds should be spent for construction, expenditures dropped to as low as two per cent during World War II.

Construction is so far behind, he said, that it would take a one-story building extending from New York to San Francisco to adequately fill the present needs.

Hackett pointed out that while Louisiana is superior to the majority of other states in the administration of its school, there is still quite a bit of room for improvement in other phases of education. Of 23 states giving financial aid to local administrative units for school building, Louisiana is the only southern state which does not have such a program.

He pointed out that while Louisiana ranks 17th in the nation in professional training of public school teachers, and 20th concerning the classroom teachers' average salary, it ranks 30th in the current investment per pupil in average daily attendance. The state also ranks 37th in the ratio of public school registration to number of public school teachers.

However, discussing the past session of the state legislature, Hackett expressed the belief that the legislature would, in the near future, act to make revenue from tidelands oil available for education purposes.

Also appearing on yesterday's program was Dr. J. W. Bordelon, of the Louisiana Tech faculty, who told of the Indo - China educational system, which he, as a member of a three - man team, had inspected for the Foreign Operations Administration.

He explained that although the Asian nation is far behind our own in the field of education, it is making definite strides foward improvement.

C. C. Boardman, standing in front of the Ouachita bank, stated that he had a good story and it all came up when he heard so much interference planned with the workings of the local weather man, in which pertains to rains and rain making.

"Why," said Mr. Boardman, "up in Kansas I heard there was a good story about rain and rain making. It got so dry that all vegetation was as if it had been in an oven with a stiff fire burning. Wheat, the chief product of Kansas, was ruined.

"Then a meeting in a church was called to pray for rain. A throng gathered and they prayed for some hours. Then the meeting was dismissed."

"Why, that's no story," declared a Monroe listener.

"But," said Boardman, "you did not hear its finale, there was one woman in the crowd who had the faith that moves mountains. She came to the meeting with a tiny umbrella. And she was the only person who had the faith to take this precaution!"

A man who had known Ross Zuberbier, prominent oil, gas man and building contractor, the other day chanced to ask him how his family was getting along.

"Family," blasted Ross, "why I never acquired any.

"But, I know you live out near the college and I also know that you have a yard that has some choice fruit trees," his friend declared.

"Yes, that's so but only sister and I live there. Its the only home we have and anyway why bother any further?"

A man who had seen Monroe outgrow swaddling clothes, told us that years ago he had a cafe on DeSiard where the Peoples Homestead is now located.

A man who owned a 50 foot front lot on the 300 block sought to sell his lot for $1,000.

"I told him his price is too high!" ruefully explained the man as he unfolded the story.

"Today," he continued "that lot is worth easily $1,000 a front foot and rents for a nice big figure. I realize my foresight is not equal to my hindsight!"

In a small Georgia town the weekly newspaper editor was out of town on publication day. He left a man in charge of getting out the paper despite the fact that he was one too much addicted to strong drink.

The editor away, the man in question sought comfort in a nearby bottle and it gave him such nerve ease that he drank the contents of several bottles.

There was a job to do and he felt unequal to the task. But he recalled that type forms from last week's paper were still on the press. After a few more drinks, he made a single change—that of the publication date—and let the press roll. Readers were amazed to read an eight column front page streamer saying: "Reprinted by Popular Request!"

Error In Blood Transfusion Kills Tennessee Youth

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 12 (AP)—Jerry Sorter, 19-year-old Chattanooga boy who died while being treated for a bullet wound Friday at Erlanger Hospital, was disclosed today to have succumbed because of a transfusion in which he was given another patient's blood.

Harold L. Peterson, hospital administrator, confirmed the report tonight that the wrong type of blood was given to young Sorter, causing his death.

Sorter died at 12:15 a.m. Friday, about 10 hours after the transfusion, from a bullet wound suffered Feb. 6. The youth accidentally shot himself while riding in a car driven by a friend.

Peterson confirmed this account of the incident:

Sorter, who had been given blood previously, was taken to the operating room about 1 p.m. Thursday for corrective surgery. A transfusion was ordered during the operation, but the blood given to the youth was intended for a patient in an adjoining operating room. The transfusion caused kidney complications resulting in his death, it was reported.

Blood given to Sorter was left on a cart outside the other patient's operating room, it was explained, but the cart somehow was taken into the room where Sorter was undergoing surgery.

Peterson withheld further comment, pending the outcome of an investigation. While the hospital administrator said he could not "pin point final responsibility" at the present time, he indicated that the early stage of the investigation placed the blame on an anesthesiologist who was in charge of the transfusion.

tion for the Army Chemical Corps, although the AEC said there actually were 35 tests of developmental weapons and civil effects.

Forty smoke generators, remotely controlled, threw out a smoke screen about 50 feet off the ground over part of the test site near the 300-foot detonation tower on Yucca Flat. The smoke consisted of vaporized oil—an oily fog with droplets 30 millionths of an inch in diameter.

Past theoretical studies and laboratory work had shown that thermal (heat) radiation from an atomic blast could be reduced by a large percentage because the smoke would absorb, then scatter, direct radiation. Objects, or humans, beneath the screen would thus be greatly protected.

This was the first large scale experiment to test out the theories in an actual explosion. Neither the AEC nor the Chemical Corps indicated when findings might be released based on an array of instruments placed to record the effects today.

The Army has said that a smoke screen will not give protection from the awful pressure wave of a nuclear blast, nor from radiation of the penetrating gamma rays.

Sixty-five aircraft participated in today's experiment, primarily Navy fighters and dive bombers. There was a field artillery observation exercise but no participation by a body of troops, as such.

The atomic cloud rose to 36,000 feet and moved to the southeast, then twisted into a lazy snake pattern.

Louisiana Tung Blossom Festival Slated March 19

COVINGTON, La. March 12—UP—The Louisiana Tung Blossom festival is scheduled for March 9 and thousands of visitors are expected to swarm into St. Tammany parish to view some 60,000 acres of tung plantings in full bloom.

The festival opens when 100 colorfully clad students of the Covington high school physical education department will present an hour program of folk dances at the parish courthouse.

A parade featuring many elaborate floats bearing the queen, Miss Carmen McKee, and maids of last year's festival as well as this year's queen and maids. They will be escorted by 15 members of the Tulane University Naval ROTC unit.

Other highlights of the festival which pays tribute to the $5 million tung industry will be the New Orleans mounted police detail, the Jefferson parish posse. Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham will crown the queen who will be selected from 15 girls, a day or two before the event.

Pope Celebrates 15th Anniversary Of His Coronation

VATICAN CITY, March 12 (AP)—Pope Pius XII received an ovation today—the 16th anniversary of his coronation.

It was the first time in three years that the head of the Roman Catholic Church, now 79, had been well enough to participate in a commemorative ceremony. In March 1954 and again in 1953, he was ill and celebrations were canceled.

Today, three months after the pontiff suffered his gravest illness, more than 5,000 pilgrims, Romans and others, packed in two antechambers of the Sistine Chapel, hailed him with cheers of "Long live the Pope." From his portable throne, the Pope raised his hand repeatedly in blessing.

In the Sistine Chapel, 18 cardinals, many archbishops and bishops and members of the diplomatic corps assembled to honor the pontiff. The Pope sat at his throne at the side of the chapel altar during a Mass celebrated by Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella, first of the cardinals resident in Rome created by the Pope in the consistory of 1946.

Congratulatory messages came from many parts of the globe. The Vatican Press office said Roman Catholic churches throughout the world would celebrate the anniversary of the "Feast of the Pope" with ceremonies and special prayers.

Before the ceremony began today, the pontiff received the cardinals one by one. Each knelt in an act of obedience. Then the Pope embraced each one. The ceremonies lasted nearly two hours and did not appear to tire the pontiff. Shortly after noon, responding to cheers and religious hymns of several thousands of pilgrims and Romans in St. Peter's Square, the Pope appeared at his apartment window to bless them.

Vatican offices were closed and the gold and white papal flags flew from the tiny city's buildings.

Tax Assessor's Office To Remain Open During Noon

The Ouachita parish tax assessor's office will remain open during the noon hour beginning Monday and continuing until the April 15 deadline for signing homestead exemption forms, Bert Coverdale, parish assessor announced Saturday.

"We are keeping the office open for those who are not able to come by the office except at that time," Coverdale said. "We have had request from persons who wish to come by the office at this time and the office force feels it will be beneficial to all if the office remains open."

Coverdale again reminded homeowners that unless the application forms are signed on or before the April 15 deadline, the owner will not be eligible for the reduced taxes in the coming year. This is mandatory according to Louisiana statutes.

New Uniforms Are Purchased For Winnsboro Band

WINNSBORO, March 12 —(Special) —Herbert E. Gathright, director of the Winnsboro High School band, announced at the regular monthly meeting of the Winnnsboro Band Parents club this week that 45 new uniforms have been ordered for the Wildcat band. The uniforms are black and gold West Point style and are to be delivered by April 5.

Director Gathright plans to have a Junior band working with the Senior band next year and the uniforms now in use will be used exclusively by the Juniors.

The Winnsboro High School band is scheduled to attend the State Music Festival at Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe, March 18 and 19, where their ensembles, soloists, and marching band will compete with other high school bands from Northeast Louisiana.

Millsaps 4-H Holds Cleanup Campaign

Highlighting the Millsaps School 4-H Club's participation in National 4-H Club Week, which ends today, has been the sponsorship of a clean-up campaign.

During the week club members were active in posting bulletins concerning the campaign in each classroom, and in cleaning rooms and school grounds.

Members also viewed a film showing how big business firms are interested in, and help promote the work of 4-H Clubs.

Adult leaders of the Millsaps club are C. R. Roberts, Mrs. Dell Poindexter, and Mrs. Mary L. Humphries.

Choudrant Home Of An Outstanding 4-H Family Team

CHOUDRANT, March 12 (Special) —One of the outstanding 4-H Club family teams in Lincoln parish is that of Ragan Aswell and his mother, Mrs. W. L. Aswell, of Choudrant.

Ragan, a sophmore at Choudrant High School, has been in 4-H work for five - years, and his projects have included poultry, hogs, and wildlife. In summer of 1954 he represented Lincoln parish at the state wildlife camp at Camp Grant Walker near Pollock.

Since 1950, poultry has been Ragan's main project, and each year he has entered the chicken - of - tomorrow state contest in Alexandria.

In 1952 he received an excellent rating on his birds and sold them for $30. This year he plans to enter the competition again.

In addition to caring for his own birds, Ragan helps his parents care for 6,400 chickens.

Mrs. Aswell, 4-H Club neighborhood leader, helps Choudrant members with their record books, and with recreation and regular projects.

A winner of the state chicken-of-tomorrow contest at Alexandria each year since 1952, Mrs. Aswell has had the grand champion and reserve champion birds in the adult division, and is preparing for this year's competition.

Mrs. Aswell said that 4-H Club work has helped her son in many ways. One of the most outstanding, she believes, is that it has helped him in overcoming self-consciousness, so that he is able to stand up before others and speak effectively.

Old Fashioned Song Services Set Today

There will be old fashioned singing in the fair grounds building at 2 p.m. today for the public.

The final service of the meeting, sponsored by the Church of Christ in West Monroe, will be held.

A large corwd is anticipated to hear the final meeting.

World tobacco production increased about 4 per cent from 1953 to 1954, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Stocks Suffer Worst Break In 15-Year Period

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The stock market tumbled off its record high perch this week in a resounding break, the worst in 15 years.

All key stocks were in the slide. Little fellows went down, too. Selling pressures were unrelenting except for occasional rallies that underlined what brokers called the market's basic strength.

The Associated Press average plunged $7.20 on the week.

The general barometer of business conditions this week pointed to fair weather for the steel industry, for the booming auto business, for the railroads and for other bulwarks of the nation's economy.

The stock market, however, was ailing. Last week the market advanced with the best showing of four months, and it reached a new high mark at the end of the week.

Selling sent prices down moderately Monday with aircrafts weak. The Tuesday story was entirely different. A great rush to unload stocks sent prices reeling back.

Selling mountde Wednesday. A late rally Wednesday, carried through Thursday, and for the first time the market was able to catch its breath. It closed moderately higher.

Selling was resumed Friday, and the market again was pounded down in the second heaviest fall of the week.

Some brokers contended the Washington inquiries could have "triggered" the decline.

The five most active issues this week were Pennsylvania Railroad off 1¼, Curtiss-Wright off ⅞, General Dynamics up 2, Royal Dutch Petroleum up 1⅛ and Boeing off 5¾.

In the bond market U. S. government bond prices were changed hardly at all from week-ago quotations.

Millsaps 4-H Holds Cleanup Campaign

Highlighting the Millsaps School 4-H Club's participation in National 4-H Club Week, which ends today, has been the sponsorship of a clean-up campaign.

During the week club members were active in posting bulletins concerning the campaign in each classroom, and in cleaning rooms and school grounds.

Members also viewed a film showing how big business firms are interested in, and help promote the work of 4-H Clubs.

Adult leaders of the Millsaps club are C. R. Roberts, Mrs. Dell Poindexter, and Mrs. Mary L. Humphries.

Choudrant Home Of An Outstanding 4-H Family Team

CHOUDRANT, March 12 (Special) —One of the outstanding 4-H Club family teams in Lincoln parish is that of Ragan Aswell and his mother, Mrs. W. L. Aswell, of Choudrant.

Ragan, a sophmore at Choudrant High School, has been in 4-H work for five - years, and his projects have included poultry, hogs, and wildlife. In summer of 1954 he represented Lincoln parish at the state wildlife camp at Camp Grant Walker near Pollock.

Since 1950, poultry has been Ragan's main project, and each year he has entered the chicken - of - tomorrow state contest in Alexandria.

In 1952 he received an excellent rating on his birds and sold them for $30. This year he plans to enter the competition again.

In addition to caring for his own birds, Ragan helps his parents care for 6,400 chickens.

Mrs. Aswell, 4-H Club neighborhood leader, helps Choudrant members with their record books, and with recreation and regular projects.

A winner of the state chicken-of-tomorrow contest at Alexandria each year since 1952, Mrs. Aswell has had the grand champion and reserve champion birds in the adult division, and is preparing for this year's competition.

Mrs. Aswell said that 4-H Club work has helped her son in many ways. One of the most outstanding, she believes, is that it has helped him in overcoming self-consciousness, so that he is able to stand up before others and speak effectively.

Old Fashioned Song Services Set Today

There will be old fashioned singing in the fair grounds building at 2 p.m. today for the public.

The final service of the meeting, sponsored by the Church of Christ in West Monroe, will be held.

A large corwd is anticipated to hear the final meeting.

World tobacco production increased about 4 per cent from 1953 to 1954, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Stocks Suffer Worst Break In 15-Year Period

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The stock market tumbled off its record high perch this week in a resounding break, the worst in 15 years.

All key stocks were in the slide. Little fellows went down, too. Selling pressures were unrelenting except for occasional rallies that underlined what brokers called the market's basic strength.

The Associated Press average plunged $7.20 on the week.

The general barometer of business conditions this week pointed to fair weather for the steel industry, for the booming auto business, for the railroads and for other bulwarks of the nation's economy.

The stock market, however, was ailing. Last week the market advanced with the best showing of four months, and it reached a new high mark at the end of the week.

Selling sent prices down moderately Monday with aircrafts weak. The Tuesday story was entirely different. A great rush to unload stocks sent prices reeling back.

Selling mountde Wednesday. A late rally Wednesday, carried through Thursday, and for the first time the market was able to catch its breath. It closed moderately higher.

Selling was resumed Friday, and the market again was pounded down in the second heaviest fall of the week.

Some brokers contended the Washington inquiries could have "triggered" the decline.

The five most active issues this week were Pennsylvania Railroad off 1¼, Curtiss-Wright off ⅞, General Dynamics up 2, Royal Dutch Petroleum up 1⅛ and Boeing off 5¾.

In the bond market U. S. government bond prices were changed hardly at all from week-ago quotations.

Buy Easter Seals!

The Ouachita Parish Society of Crippled Children and Adults has opened its annual Easter Seal drive. The Society is carrying a greater work load than ever before. Its officers and directors express the hope that the public response this year will exceed the generous gifts of the past.

Ouachita Parish physicians donate their services in behalf of the Society. The sale of Easter Seals enables the Society to provide a full-time therapuetist, and, of course, to maintain a clinic where crippled children, and adults go regularly for checkups; also, to send children to larger medical centers in instances where specialized treatment, not available locally, is necessary.

From time to time in the Morning World, between now and Easter Sunday, you will see articles and news-pictures detailing some of the results being achieved by this great organization.

Sixty-five per cent of the money received by the society through the Easter Seal campaign remains in the parish, and is used on the local level to the best advantage of the crippled children. The remaining 35 per cent goes to the State Society, affiliated organization, and goes mainly to defray expenses of treating the patients where highly specialized facilities are needed.

Easter, with its beautiful symbolism of resurrection and new hope, is an appropriate time to conduct this particular drive. The Society, through the aid of the medical profession and the support of the public, literally brings new hope and a new life to children maimed by polio and other diseases, or victims of accident, or born with physical defects.

Surely there is no more worthy cause, and if everyone would give a little to the Easter Seal drive, the Society would be able to do many things which lack of funds now prevent—widening the scope of its work of rehabilitation.

So remember, buy Easter Seals!

Churchill As A Politician

Prime Minister Winston Churchill is a world statesman, but also he is one of the world's smartest politicians. The conservative leader, now in his 80th year, has lost none of the sense of political timing that has stood him in good stead over a long and illustrious life.

He has dropped a broad hint, in a public message, that the time may be about ripe to call a new general election in Britain.

This can be done any time, up until October of 1956.

The current wide-open split within the ranks of the socialist Labor Party does, as Mr. Churchill intimates, provide the Conservatives with a golden opportunity at the polls. Clement Attlee, leader of the Laborites, is seeking the ouster of the radical Aneurin Bevan from the party, after Bevan defied Attlee on major policy decisions affecting British defense, and British-American relations.

Churchill says that the Labor Party, "Disgruntled by defeat and disillusioned by the failure of its cherished theories, is now split not only into two halves but into many factions perpetually nagging at one another."

From the Conservative standpoint, what better time could be chosen to call a general election?

A Trade Peril

Danger to many countries of increasing trade with Russia is exemplified by the case of Finland. After Russia invaded Finland during World War II, the Reds forced the Finns to agree to pay $570,000,000 in reparations over an eight-year period, an enormous sum for that little country.

Russia accepted most of the reparations in the form of Finnish products. This tied Finnish industries to the Russian market. The Finns tried to break loose and gear their industries to the free world market, but with only partial success.

Now several industries are not only operating to supply the Russian market but are financed by Russian loans and credits.

If Russia told Finland there would be no more markets for Finnish goods unless the Finns reorganized their government at the dictation of Moscow, what would Helsinki do? If it resisted, there would be unemployment, a depression and a government crisis. If it yielded, another country would have been added to the Communist bloc.

The Scandinavian nations and other countries, as well as several in Asia, could drift into a similar fix by increasing their exports to Russia and other Communist lands. What Russia has failed to gain in the cold political war could be won in world trade by maneuvering countries into dependence on the Russian market and then threatening to cut off that outlet unless Communist regimes were installed.

Rewards Of Faith

Fortunes expressed in millions of dollars are numerous throughout the nation. "Millions" no longer is a startling word in the American vocabulary. But there still is a tendency to connect it with Wall Street, where many fortunes have originated, and where millionaires still gather in quest of more millions.

The other day there was a story in the news of a fortune acquired a long way from Wall Street, or any other center of wealth. It had its locale on the prairies of the Southwest.

Inventory of the John W. Baughman estate was filed in the little town of Liberal, Kans., as far removed from Wall Street by contrast as possible. The 82-year-old Kansan left an estate of nearly $7,000,000 representing the Baughman enterprises. In addition he had a personal fortune of $1,500,000. Foundation of all this wealth was land.

Nearly 500,000 acres comprised the two holdings. Much of this was acquired during the so-called dust bowl era, when Baughman purchased land for as little as $3 an acre now worth many times that figure. His success constitutes an endorsement of land as a stable and profitable investment.

Rewards are high for land owners who have faith in the future which endures through good times and bad. There are millions in common dirt.

Justice Douglas Goes To Russia

I was told a long time ago by an individual whose name you would immediately recognize as Russian that if I wanted a visa to visit the Soviet Union, all I'd have to do is make a few flattering public utterances about the Soviet Union.

That price was too high.

I have a personal source for Iron Curtain information which has proved reliable. My own intelligence in Hong Kong is sometimes weeks ahead of Washington. And for the rest, for now, I will go by what I can smell rather than what I can see.

Not so with Associate Justice Douglas of the United States Supreme Court. His record of leftish sympathies and his recent public statement that "Red China must be admitted to the UN" got him a visa to motor through Russia this summer.

He will come back as Britain's Laborites Atlee and Bevan came back from a round of vodka parties and conducted tours with native utterances about disarmament and co-existence, then switch Mr. Justice Douglas to the bench in the park; he's no judge.

On September 22, 1954, Mr. Atlee, a sudden new authority on Far Eastern affairs, stated, "the sooner we get rid of Chiang Kai-shek and his troops the better it will be".

Until this day Mr. Atlee has never visited Formosa. He expressed that view after only brief guided tours on the Red-held mainland. Yet Mr. Atlee had the crust to come out from behind the Iron Curtain saying "Americans are not realistic".

But Mr. Atlee did not mention our documented evidence that Red China has a forced labor camp for every one of her 2,000 communities.

Will Justice Douglas dare either to endorse or ignore this injustice?

Or, as avowed pacifist, how will he react to Russia's practice of giving all male youth premilitary training starting at age six. How will he feel about Communist "equality" when he learns that a Soviet soldier must salute a Corporal and can be shot on the order of a Captain.

Will the recently wed jurist who put it off so long endorse the Communist program for women which inducts them to work on farms, in factories and in mines. More than 70 per cent of all women in some sectors have been drafted for work in "mutual aid groups" and "peasant cooperatives, where women match the labor of men with no consideration for any physical inequity."

With this summer visitor dare to continue his apologies for these barbarians in the face of such authority as Nikolai E. Khokhlov, who was 13 years an agent of Soviet Intelligence, who says, "Moscow is plotting to involve the United States in a major war with Red China."

Will he come back still advocating weakness and compromise and moderation and all the things which got him this "welcome" in the first place? Yes, I think he will.

The Reds must demonstrate their friendship toward such men cautiously. Because despots must constantly justify themselves by pretending the rest of the world is hostile. So their friendship is very carefully measured and limited just to that which can have a propaganda value abroad without disturbing discipline at home.

But when Mr. Douglas returns, still espousing coexistence with this criminal conspiracy, remember that Lenin, himself, said it: "The existence of the Soviet Republic side by side with imperialist states for a long time is unthinkable. One or the other must triumph in the end."

Remember that the lamb can lie down with the lion . . .

Only if the lamb is on the inside.

Secret Service

Ever hear about the forger who had no hands? Or the man who faked endorsements on $20,000 worth of Veterans Administration checks and almost got away with it?

These stories are right out of the files of the United States Secret Service. Some people seem to think the SS has nothing to do but guard the President of the United States and chase counterfeiters, but it also takes over in check frauds. U. E. Baughman, chief of the USSS gave the House Appropriations committee the stories as illustrations that his organization can do detective work, too, when the necessity arises.

The man with the amputated hands ran a cigar store in Chicago, and specialized in preparing income tax returns. When people asked him to prepare their returns, he did it so skillfully with his mechanical hands that he overstated the tax, so that refunds would be due. On the form he would show his address as the mailing address for the taxpayer.

The remarkable feature of his offense was that he could not only write legibly but could forge signatures as well. When the taxpayers refund checks arrived, he forged the payee's name. When he had forged five, for $1164 the Secret Service caught up with him.

Their prize forger however, was the man who forged endorsements on two Veterans' Administration checks — one for $10,000 a death claim — and another for $10,436. The only clue was that the checks, made out to claimants in other cities, had been mailed to Washington, D. C. addresses.

Secret Service agents combed the V. A. offices here, finally found the typewriter which had been used to write one letter involved in the case. They took handwriting specimens of 500 employees and gave lie detector tests to another 100, but didn't have a clue to the letter writer or the person who used the typewriter.

"We searched the files of other federal agencies and the police department, we canvassed the banks where the checks had been cashed, we checked every possible lead without a result," Baughman related.

On the very logical hunch that a forger with $20,000 might buy an automobile, SS agents undertook the tedious job of reviewing 7500 applications for car titles made in the District of Columbia between May and August, 1954, to find handwriting which might match the forged endorsements.

They found one application which looked promising. It was made by Leslie Stout for title to a 1954 car, purchased on May 20. The first $10,000 check had been cashed on May 19. That was the clue they wanted. The car dealer gave a good description of the purchaser. Furthermore, the suspect had paid $3100 in cash and had given an address. But he did not live there anymore, and had left no forwarding address.

The Secret Service was on the track then. They found that Stout had once been a clerk in the Veterans' Administration, but had left in 1951. That left a gap to be accounted for, but Stout had been familiar with the claims settlement procedure in the VA. He had worked out a plan which involved careful timing, and which the Secret Service won't give details on, lest somebody else might have a like idea.

Stout made two mistakes. He bought a car in the District instead of going to another city — the Secret Service might not have reviewed all the applications for car titles in those months in other cities — and he took a waitress along with him when he hit out for California. His estranged wife supplied the information on that.

Stout had gone to California after cashing the first check, which baffled the Secret Service only briefly. He had cashed the second check for $10,436 on July 7, which meant he had come back. An air line check not only showed that he had flown back, but revealed that he lived in Glendale, California.

Out of more than $20,000 Stout had only $2,000 left. The waitress who was with him had invested $5000 in a liquor business. She said she had saved it from restaurant tips, and that was the only point at which the Secret Service failed. They couldn't prove that she hadn't. After all that trouble, Stout got off with three years, and a $2,000 fine.

1323-Mile Stock Car Run Starts Tonight

My hope of finishing well up among the leaders in the annual Mobilgas Economy Run from Los Angeles to Colorado Springs suffered a compound fracture today when my wife accepted my invitation to ride the 1323 miles with me.

I had no more idea than a rabbit that Mary would like to go, but she already has started packing suitcases and boxes, although we don't leave until Sunday midnight, and will be gone only three days.

With a woman along, if I don't wind up with the worst average miles-per-gallon of any of the 22 American 1955 stock cars in the Run, it will be a miracle comparable to the sun rising in the North. The purpose of the Economy Run is to determine which make car gives the best mileage, and, as you know, stops and starts just eat up gasoline.

And I am sure you know that with a gal as a passenger, an automobile trip is nothing but a series of stops and starts. I'll bet you that with Mary accompanying me, a record of my stops will give the AAA officials, who are supervising the test, the impression that I made the journey on a pogo stick.

To be official, the cars must make the trip in 32 hours and 50 minutes, with 12 hours 50 minutes allotted for the first leg to Tucson, 11 hours 20 minutes to Albuquerque, and 8 hours 40 minutes to Colorado Springs. Without Mary, that would be a breeze, but like most wives she is a side-of-the-road shopper.

Let anyone sell anything at a roadside stand and she has to get out and look at it. And between here and Pike's Peak there must be 10,000 roadside stands, which means I'll have to make 10,000 stops. She doesn't always make a purchase, for even she knows that we have no need for a pink cement crane with one leg tucked up, a wooden Uncle Sam letter box holder, a fifty-gallon pottery jar, a rattlesnake skin belt, a mile-long bedspread, or a clam shell bed lamp. But she has to look at the stuff in the mad hope that someday she'll run across a bargain that'll make her the envy of all.

There is no chance of my covering just the required 1323 miles. It's a cinch that my Mercury Montclair, lent to me by the Ford Company, will do an extra 500 miles before we get there, what with excursions up side roads to visit antique auction barns, distant relatives, and fruit groves.

The one thing Mary won't buy along the road if she can help it is fruit. She keeps her eye peeled for signs directing the tourist to groves off the highway. This amounts almost to a mania with her.

We won't even reach Palm Springs before she'll have me driving up a country road to a grove where, as she always points out, "We can not only get oranges and grapefruit much cheaper, but we'll be able to pick them ourselves and see what we're getting. You know yourself this is sensible."

Mary has appointed herself navigator, too, which could mean that the end of the first day's run will find us no nearer Tucson than the Los Angeles City Hall, which is only a few blocks from the starting point. She'll have to get us on the right freeway, and Los Angeles doesn't have anything as simple as cloverleaf turns any more. It has spaghetti turns, and when we start trying to unravel them at midnight—well, one guess is as good as another as to where we'll wind up.

We are likely to get to Colorado Springs just in time to see the Air Force Academy football team in its first game.

Facts Worth Knowing

A University of Michigan study shows that 67 per cent of the children of professional men who graduate from high school go on to college but only 26 per cent of the children of unskilled laborers go.

It is normal for a child to be far sighed when he staarts school says the Better Vision Institute.

In many libraries of the 15th century the books were protected by being chained in a fixed location and chains continued to be used in English church libraries until the early 18th century.

The United Nations World Health Organization estimates there are 522 million people in the world, not counting Communist controlled areas, exposed to malaria and that 300 million of these have no protection against the disease.

Although fewer children of unskilled laborers go to college than children of professional men, about the same percentage in each group who do enter college go on to graduation, a University of Michigan study shows.

Sunspots reach a maximum on the average of every 11½ years and theorists believe that there are cyclical changes in the weather in the same intervals, perhaps caused by the sunspots.

Congressional Quarterly

Odds Favor Democrats To Hold Senate In '56

WASHINGTON — No matter which party captures the White House in 1956, Democrats are almost certain to retain control of the senate.

Republican chances of winning the house, however, may hinge on President Eisenhower's plans, according to an analysis of election statistics by Congressional Quarterly.

It's true that Democrats barely gained control of the senate in 1954, taking three of five contests by less than 4,000 votes each. But they scored a net gain of two seats against odds, as 22 of the seats a stake were held by Democrats and only 16 were occupied by Republicans.

In 1956, the shoe will be on the other foot. Of 32 seats to be filled, 17 are now held by Republicans, only 15 by Democrats. Moreover, eight of the latter are in the south where Democrats almost invariably win state-wide contests.

It is this fact that recently prompted Arizona's Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, chairman of the senate Republican campaign committee, to report that the odds are "heavily stacked" against the GOP in 1956.

Democrats are almost certain to win senate seats in Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Florida. Other Democratic incumbents up in 1956 include Carl Hayden (Ariz.), Earle C. Clements (Ky.), Thomas C. Hennings, Jr. (Mo.), Herbert H. Lehman (N. Y.), Alan Bible (Nev.) and Warren G. Magnuson (Wash.) Most of them are well entrenched, but Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.), who was elected in 1950 as a Republican but will run in 1956 as a Democrat, faces a battle royal to retain his seat.

Republicans are fairly certain to retain seats in Vermont, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota and New Hampshire. Less solid are 12 other GOP seats, in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and California. Seats now held by Prescott Bush (Conn.), John Marshall Butler (Md.) and George H. Bender (Ohio) appear to be in the most danger, judging by recent elections. Democratic gains in Pennsylvania, together with GOP intra-party feuding, cast a shadow over the seat now held by James H. Duff.

If the GOP fails to win the senate in 1956, it will face even greater odds in 1958. That year there will be 20 Republican seats at stake and only 12 Democratic seats, six of which are in southern or border states which have elected only Democrats in recent years.

In the house, the GOP's hopes ride with President Eisenhower. In the 1952 Eisenhower landslide, the party won the house by a slim margin (221 seats) but the GOP vote in house races showed an increase over 1950 percentages in 37 states. Moreover, there were no Republican candidates in 26 of the 297 congressional districts carried by the president. But in 343 districts in which there were major party contests in 1952, Republicans polled 27,247,682 votes as compared with 23,746,532 for the Democrats.

In 1954, without President Eisenhower on the ticket, the GOP vote in house contests' dropped in 40 states, as compared with 1952, and in 27 states as compared with 1950. Democrats made a net gain of 17 seats to take over house control with 230 members. But Republicans held more seats than might have been expected in view of substantial Democratic gains in local and state contests. In Pennsylvania, for example, Democrats elected Gov. George Leader by 279,200 votes, but the Democratic plurality in house races was only 47,400. Democrats picked up three GOP seats, but two were won by only 2,500 votes each.

One handicap facing the GOP in 1956 is the fact that it must defend twice as many "doubtful" districts as the Democrats. In 1954, Republicans won 63 districts by less than 55 per cent of the vote, as against 31 such districts won by Democrats. After the 1952 election, the ratio of "five per cent" seats was 45 Democrats, 40 Republicans.

In 1954 house races outside the south, Republicans led Democrats by only 164,686 votes, 19,440,611 to 19,275,925. The fall - off in GOP percentages was particularly noticeable in 11 midwestern states.

At the same time, the GOP is making solid if limited gains in the Democratic south. Republicans won two new southern seats, in Texas and Florida, in 1954, despite an unusually heavy Democratic vote.

Buy Easter Seals!

The Ouachita Parish Society of Crippled Children and Adults has opened its annual Easter Seal drive. The Society is carrying a greater work load than ever before. Its officers and directors express the hope that the public response this year will exceed the generous gifts of the past.

Ouachita Parish physicians donate their services in behalf of the Society. The sale of Easter Seals enables the Society to provide a full-time therapuetist, and, of course, to maintain a clinic where crippled children, and adults go regularly for checkups; also, to send children to larger medical centers in instances where specialized treatment, not available locally, is necessary.

From time to time in the Morning World, between now and Easter Sunday, you will see articles and news-pictures detailing some of the results being achieved by this great organization.

Sixty-five per cent of the money received by the society through the Easter Seal campaign remains in the parish, and is used on the local level to the best advantage of the crippled children. The remaining 35 per cent goes to the State Society, affiliated organization, and goes mainly to defray expenses of treating the patients where highly specialized facilities are needed.

Easter, with its beautiful symbolism of resurrection and new hope, is an appropriate time to conduct this particular drive. The Society, through the aid of the medical profession and the support of the public, literally brings new hope and a new life to children maimed by polio and other diseases, or victims of accident, or born with physical defects.

Surely there is no more worthy cause, and if everyone would give a little to the Easter Seal drive, the Society would be able to do many things which lack of funds now prevent—widening the scope of its work of rehabilitation.

So remember, buy Easter Seals!

Churchill As A Politician

Prime Minister Winston Churchill is a world statesman, but also he is one of the world's smartest politicians. The conservative leader, now in his 80th year, has lost none of the sense of political timing that has stood him in good stead over a long and illustrious life.

He has dropped a broad hint, in a public message, that the time may be about ripe to call a new general election in Britain.

This can be done any time, up until October of 1956.

The current wide-open split within the ranks of the socialist Labor Party does, as Mr. Churchill intimates, provide the Conservatives with a golden opportunity at the polls. Clement Attlee, leader of the Laborites, is seeking the ouster of the radical Aneurin Bevan from the party, after Bevan defied Attlee on major policy decisions affecting British defense, and British-American relations.

Churchill says that the Labor Party, "Disgruntled by defeat and disillusioned by the failure of its cherished theories, is now split not only into two halves but into many factions perpetually nagging at one another."

From the Conservative standpoint, what better time could be chosen to call a general election?

A Trade Peril

Danger to many countries of increasing trade with Russia is exemplified by the case of Finland. After Russia invaded Finland during World War II, the Reds forced the Finns to agree to pay $570,000,000 in reparations over an eight-year period, an enormous sum for that little country.

Russia accepted most of the reparations in the form of Finnish products. This tied Finnish industries to the Russian market. The Finns tried to break loose and gear their industries to the free world market, but with only partial success.

Now several industries are not only operating to supply the Russian market but are financed by Russian loans and credits.

If Russia told Finland there would be no more markets for Finnish goods unless the Finns reorganized their government at the dictation of Moscow, what would Helsinki do? If it resisted, there would be unemployment, a depression and a government crisis. If it yielded, another country would have been added to the Communist bloc.

The Scandinavian nations and other countries, as well as several in Asia, could drift into a similar fix by increasing their exports to Russia and other Communist lands. What Russia has failed to gain in the cold political war could be won in world trade by maneuvering countries into dependence on the Russian market and then threatening to cut off that outlet unless Communist regimes were installed.

Rewards Of Faith

Fortunes expressed in millions of dollars are numerous throughout the nation. "Millions" no longer is a startling word in the American vocabulary. But there still is a tendency to connect it with Wall Street, where many fortunes have originated, and where millionaires still gather in quest of more millions.

The other day there was a story in the news of a fortune acquired a long way from Wall Street, or any other center of wealth. It had its locale on the prairies of the Southwest.

Inventory of the John W. Baughman estate was filed in the little town of Liberal, Kans., as far removed from Wall Street by contrast as possible. The 82-year-old Kansan left an estate of nearly $7,000,000 representing the Baughman enterprises. In addition he had a personal fortune of $1,500,000. Foundation of all this wealth was land.

Nearly 500,000 acres comprised the two holdings. Much of this was acquired during the so-called dust bowl era, when Baughman purchased land for as little as $3 an acre now worth many times that figure. His success constitutes an endorsement of land as a stable and profitable investment.

Rewards are high for land owners who have faith in the future which endures through good times and bad. There are millions in common dirt.

Justice Douglas Goes To Russia

I was told a long time ago by an individual whose name you would immediately recognize as Russian that if I wanted a visa to visit the Soviet Union, all I'd have to do is make a few flattering public utterances about the Soviet Union.

That price was too high.

I have a personal source for Iron Curtain information which has proved reliable. My own intelligence in Hong Kong is sometimes weeks ahead of Washington. And for the rest, for now, I will go by what I can smell rather than what I can see.

Not so with Associate Justice Douglas of the United States Supreme Court. His record of leftish sympathies and his recent public statement that "Red China must be admitted to the UN" got him a visa to motor through Russia this summer.

He will come back as Britain's Laborites Atlee and Bevan came back from a round of vodka parties and conducted tours with native utterances about disarmament and co-existence, then switch Mr. Justice Douglas to the bench in the park; he's no judge.

On September 22, 1954, Mr. Atlee, a sudden new authority on Far Eastern affairs, stated, "the sooner we get rid of Chiang Kai-shek and his troops the better it will be".

Until this day Mr. Atlee has never visited Formosa. He expressed that view after only brief guided tours on the Red-held mainland. Yet Mr. Atlee had the crust to come out from behind the Iron Curtain saying "Americans are not realistic."

But Mr. Atlee did not mention our documented evidence that Red China has a forced labor camp for every one of her 2,000 communities.

Will Justice Douglas dare either to endorse or ignore this injustice?

Or, as avowed pacifist, how will he react to Russia's practice of giving all male youth premilitary training starting at age six. How will he feel about Communist "equality" when he learns that a Soviet soldier must salute a Corporal and can be shot on the order of a Captain.

Will the recently wed jurist who put it off so long endorse the Communist program for women which inducts them to work on farms, in factories and in mines. More than 70 per cent of all women in some sectors have been drafted for work in "mutual aid groups" and "peasant cooperatives, where women match the labor of men with no consideration for any physical inequity."

With this summer visitor dare to continue his apologies for these barbarians in the face of such authority as Nikolai E. Khokhlov, who was 13 years an agent of Soviet Intelligence, who says, "Moscow is plotting to involve the United States in a major war with Red China."

Will he come back still advocating weakness and compromise and moderation and all the things which got him this "welcome" in the first place? Yes, I think he will.

The Reds must demonstrate their friendship toward such men cautiously. Because despots must constantly justify themselves by pretending the rest of the world is hostile. So their friendship is very carefully measured and limited just to that which can have a propaganda value abroad without disturbing discipline at home.

But when Mr. Douglas returns, still espousing coexistence with this criminal conspiracy, remember that Lenin, himself, said it: "The existence of the Soviet Republic side by side with imperialist states for a long time is unthinkable. One or the other must triumph in the end."

Remember that the lamb can lie down with the lion . . .

Only if the lamb is on the inside.

Secret Service

Ever hear about the forger who had no hands? Or the man who faked endorsements on $20,000 worth of Veterans Administration checks and almost got away with it?

These stories are right out of the files of the United States Secret Service. Some people seem to think the SS has nothing to do but guard the President of the United States and chase counterfeiters, but it also takes over in check frauds. U. E. Baughman, chief of the USSS gave the House Appropriations committee the stories as illustrations that his organization can do detective work, too, when the necessity arises.

The man with the amputated hands ran a cigar store in Chicago, and specialized in preparing income tax returns. When people asked him to prepare their returns, he did it so skillfully with his mechanical hands that he overstated the tax, so that refunds would be due. On the form he would show his address as the mailing address for the taxpayer.

The remarkable feature of his offense was that he could not only write legibly but could forge signatures as well. When the taxpayers refund checks arrived, he forged the payee's name. When he had forged five, for $1164 the Secret Service caught up with him.

Their prize forger however, was the man who forged endorsements on two Veterans' Administration checks — one for $10,000 a death claim — and another for $10,436. The only clue was that the checks, made out to claimants in other cities, had been mailed to Washington, D. C. addresses.

Secret Service agents combed the V. A. offices here, finally found the typewriter which had been used to write one letter involved in the case. They took handwriting specimens of 500 employees and gave lie detector tests to another 100, but didn't have a clue to the letter writer or the person who used the typewriter.

"We searched the files of other federal agencies and the police department, we canvassed the banks where the checks had been cashed, we checked every possible lead without a result," Baughman related.

On the very logical hunch that a forger with $20,000 might buy an automobile, SS agents undertook the tedious job of reviewing 7500 applications for car titles made in the District of Columbia between May and August, 1954, to find handwriting which might match the forged endorsements.

They found one application which looked promising. It was made by Leslie Stout for title to a 1954 car, purchased on May 20. The first $10,000 check had been cashed on May 19. That was the clue they wanted. The car dealer gave a good description of the purchaser. Furthermore, the suspect had paid $3100 in cash and had given an address. But he did not live there anymore, and had left no forwarding address.

The Secret Service was on the track then. They found that Stout had once been a clerk in the Veterans' Administration, but had left in 1951. That left a gap to be accounted for, but Stout had been familiar with the claims settlement procedure in the VA. He had worked out a plan which involved careful timing, and which the Secret Service won't give details on, lest somebody else might have a like idea.

Stout made two mistakes. He bought a car in the District instead of going to another city — the Secret Service might not have reviewed all the applications for car titles in those months in other cities — and he took a waitress along with him when he hit out for California. His estranged wife supplied the information on that.

Stout had gone to California after cashing the first check, which baffled the Secret Service only briefly. He had cashed the second check for $10,436 on July 7, which meant he had come back. An air line check not only showed that he had flown back, but revealed that he lived in Glendale, California.

Out of more than $20,000 Stout had only $2,000 left. The waitress who was with him had invested $5000 in a liquor business. She said she had saved it from restaurant tips, and that was the only point at which the Secret Service failed. They couldn't prove that she hadn't. After all that trouble, Stout got off with three years, and a $2,000 fine.

Facts Worth Knowing

A University of Michigan study shows that 67 per cent of the children of professional men who graduate from high school go on to college but only 26 per cent of the children of unskilled laborers go.

It is normal for a child to be far sighed when he staarts school says the Better Vision Institute.

In many libraries of the 15th century the books were protected by being chained in a fixed location and chains continued to be used in English church libraries until the early 18th century.

The United Nations World Health Organization estimates there are 522 million people in the world, not counting Communist controlled areas, exposed to malaria and that 300 million of these have no protection against the disease.

Although fewer children of unskilled laborers go to college than children of professional men, about the same percentage in each group who do enter college go on to graduation, a University of Michigan study shows.

Sunspots reach a maximum on the average of every 11½ years and theorists believe that there are cyclical changes in the weather in the same intervals, perhaps caused by the sunspots.

1323-Mile Stock Car Run Starts Tonight

My hope of finishing well up among the leaders in the annual Mobilgas Economy Run from Los Angeles to Colorado Springs suffered a compound fracture today when my wife accepted my invitation to ride the 1323 miles with me.

I had no more idea than a rabbit that Mary would like to go, but she already has started packing suitcases and boxes, although we don't leave until Sunday midnight, and will be gone only three days.

With a woman along, if I don't wind up with the worst average miles-per-gallon of any of the 22 American 1955 stock cars in the Run, it will be a miracle comparable to the sun rising in the North. The purpose of the Economy Run is to determine which make car gives the best mileage, and, as you know, stops and starts just eat up gasoline.

And I am sure you know that with a gal as a passenger, an automobile trip is nothing but a series of stops and starts. I'll bet you that with Mary accompanying me, a record of my stops will give the AAA officials, who are supervising the test, the impression that I made the journey on a pogo stick.

To be official, the cars must make the trip in 32 hours and 50 minutes, with 12 hours 50 minutes allotted for the first leg to Tucson, 11 hours 20 minutes to Albuquerque, and 8 hours 40 minutes to Colorado Springs. Without Mary, that would be a breeze, but like most wives she is a side-of-the-road shopper.

Let anyone sell anything at a roadside stand and she has to get out and look at it. And between here and Pike's Peak there must be 10,000 roadside stands, which means I'll have to make 10,000 stops. She doesn't always make a purchase, for even she knows that we have no need for a pink cement crane with one leg tucked up, a wooden Uncle Sam letter box holder, a fifty-gallon pottery jar, a rattlesnake skin belt, a mile-long bedspread, or a clam shell bed lamp. But she has to look at the stuff in the mad hope that someday she'll run across a bargain that'll make her the envy of all.

There is no chance of my covering just the required 1323 miles. It's a cinch that my Mercury Montclair, lent to me by the Ford Company, will do an extra 500 miles before we get there, what with excursions up side roads to visit antique auction barns, distant relatives, and fruit groves.

The one thing Mary won't buy along the road if she can help it is fruit. She keeps her eye peeled for signs directing the tourist to groves off the highway. This amounts almost to a mania with her.

We won't even reach Palm Springs before she'll have me driving up a country road to a grove where, as she always points out, "We can not only get oranges and grapefruit much cheaper, but we'll be able to pick them ourselves and see what we're getting. You know yourself this is sensible."

Mary has appointed herself navigator, too, which could mean that the end of the first day's run will find us no nearer Tucson than the Los Angeles City Hall, which is only a few blocks from the starting point. She'll have to get us on the right freeway, and Los Angeles doesn't have anything as simple as cloverleaf turns any more. It has spaghetti turns, and when we start trying to unravel them at midnight—well, one guess is as good as another as to where we'll wind up.

We are likely to get to Colorado Springs just in time to see the Air Force Academy football team in its first game.

Odds Favor Democrats To Hold Senate In '56

WASHINGTON — No matter which party captures the White House in 1956, Democrats are almost certain to retain control of the senate.

Republican chances of winning the house, however, may hinge on President Eisenhower's plans, according to an analysis of election statistics by Congressional Quarterly.

It's true that Democrats barely gained control of the senate in 1954, taking three of five contests by less than 4,000 votes each. But they scored a net gain of two seats against odds, as 22 of the seats a stake were held by Democrats and only 16 were occupied by Republicans.

In 1956, the shoe will be on the other foot. Of 32 seats to be filled, 17 are now held by Republicans, only 15 by Democrats. Moreover, eight of the latter are in the south where Democrats almost invariably win state-wide contests.

It is this fact that recently prompted Arizona's Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, chairman of the senate Republican campaign committee, to report that the odds are "heavily stacked" against the GOP in 1956.

Democrats are almost certain to win senate seats in Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Florida. Other Democratic incumbents up in 1956 include Carl Hayden (Ariz.), Earle C. Clements (Ky.), Thomas C. Hennings, Jr. (Mo.), Herbert H. Lehman (N. Y.), Alan Bible (Nev.) and Warren G. Magnuson (Wash.) Most of them are well entrenched, but Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.), who was elected in 1950 as a Republican but will run in 1956 as a Democrat, faces a battle royal to retain his seat.

Republicans are fairly certain to retain seats in Vermont, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota and New Hampshire. Less solid are 12 other GOP seats, in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and California. Seats now held by Prescott Bush (Conn.), John Marshall Butler (Md.) and George H. Bender (Ohio) appear to be in the most danger, judging by recent elections. Democratic gains in Pennsylvania, together with GOP intra-party feuding, cast a shadow over the seat now held by James H. Duff.

If the GOP fails to win the senate in 1956, it will face even greater odds in 1958. That year there will be 20 Republican seats at stake and only 12 Democratic seats, six of which are in southern or border states which have elected only Democrats in recent years.

In the house, the GOP's hopes ride with President Eisenhower. In the 1952 Eisenhower landslide, the party won the house by a slim margin (221 seats) but the GOP vote in house races showed an increase over 1950 percentages in 37 states. Moreover, there were no Republican candidates in 26 of the 297 congressional districts carried by the president. But in 343 districts in which there were major party contests in 1952, Republicans polled 27,247,682 votes as compared with 23,746,532 for the Democrats.

In 1954, without President Eisenhower on the ticket, the GOP vote in house contests dropped in 40 states, as compared with 1952, and in 27 states as compared with 1950. Democrats made a net gain of 17 seats to take over house control with 230 members. But Republicans held more seats than might have been expected in view of substantial Democratic gains in local and state contests. In Pennsylvania, for example, Democrats elected Gov. George Leader by 279,200 votes, but the Democratic plurality in house races was only 47,400. Democrats picked up three GOP seats, but two were won by only 2,500 votes each.

One handicap facing the GOP in 1956 is the fact that it must defend twice as many "doubtful" districts as the Democrats. In 1954, Republicans won 63 districts by less than 55 per cent of the vote, as against 31 such districts won by Democrats. After the 1952 election, the ratio of "five per cent" seats was 45 Democrats, 40 Republicans.

In 1954 house races outside the south, Republicans led Democrats by only 164,686 votes, 19,440,611 to 19,275,925. The fall - off in GOP percentages was particularly noticeable in 11 midwestern states.

At the same time, the GOP is making solid if limited gains in the Democratic south. Republicans won two new southern seats, in Texas and Florida, in 1954, despite an unusually heavy Democratic vote.

Business Still On Upgrade; Pace Continues Rise

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP) — Business, still very much on the upgrade, rolled along at a faster pace this week.

There were some who thought it was rolling too fast—particularly in lines which depend on easy credit.

While total activity was still below the peak levels of 1953, the gains since early last year were impressive. Nearly all the important indicators showed big increases. They included:

Automobile production, up 56 per cent; steel up 32 per cent; electricity up 13 per cent; carloadings of railroad freight up 11.6 per cent; department store sales up 15 per cent.

The trend was mostly higher, too, when you compared it with the previous week. The nation's auto factories turned out three per cent more cars; retail shoppers bought more goods.

Steel production, estimated at better than 91 per cent of the industry's total capacity, held close to the previous week's actual output which had set a 21-month high.

The building boom went right on smashing records. The Commerce Department said dollar outlays for new construction in February totaled $2,600,000,000—highest ever recorded for that month. Contracts awarded for new construction also set a new February peak, said F. W. Dodge Corp. The total was nearly 30 per cent higher than a year ago.

The railroads shared in the overall upturn: Earnings of class 1 railroads in January totaled 52 million dollars. That was more than 2½ times the 20 million they earned in the same month last year.

Jobs and take-home pay of factory workers are on the rise. The U.S. Commerce and Labor departments said factory employment in February totaled 16,100,000—a gain of 120,000 over January. The average factory worker put in 40½ hours on the job each week, and his gross weekly pay was at an all-time high of nearly $75.

Total employment in the United States, however, was down 212,000 —chiefly because cold weather curtailed farming and other outdoor work. All told, the nation counted 3,383,000 unemployed. That was 36,000 more than in January but 228,000 fewer than in February 1954.

Seven U. S. states have towns named Wyoming.

Miss. Solons To Confer On Taxes

JACKSON, Miss., March 12 (AP)—Mississippi Senate and House leaders plan to confer Monday on a Senate bill to raise income taxes 15 per cent to help equalize Negro and white schools.

The Senate rewrote a House bill that increased eight taxes 20 per cent, leaving only the income tax provision which it reduced to 15 per cent.

Disagreement between the two Houses adds at least two weeks to the 9-week-old special session.

Still four million dollars short of their 30½ million-dollar goal for equalized schools, the lawmakers plan to consider other tax raises next week.

Jeff Davis Parish School Board Asks $400,000 Bond Vote

JENNINGS, La. March 12 —UP — The Jeff Davis parish school board has asked the state tax and bond board for permission to call a $400,000 bond election in school district 22, Elton, records showed today.

Purpose of the bond issue would be for additions and improvements to Elton school facilities for both Negroes and whites.

Anthony Jennings, Ward 4 school board member and president of the board, said if permission is granted the election will be called some time in May, with the exact date to be set at the April 7 board meeting.

Plans call for a new brick Negro high school with a gym-auditorium as well as a new auditorium, band room, four new classrooms and other facilities at the white school.

Journal Of Madison Parish Woman Covering Civil War And Reconstruction Period To Be Published

By MRS. ERLE READ
(WORLD CORRESPONDENT)

TALLULAH, March 12 (Special) —An unusual event will take place in Tallulah on Kate Stone Day, March 17. The town and parish will celebrate the publication of a book, "Brokenburn, the Journal of Kate Stone, 1861-1868.

In order to present this book to the public, time, labor, and effort were required. It took more than 11½ standard work - hour months of tedious work and an estimated expense of more than $4,000 in time, materials and research trips.

Written by Kate Stone, who later became Mrs. Henry Holmes, almost 100 years ago, the Journal was copied into two large ledger books in 1900. These books were mislaid after Mrs. Holmes' death and were thought to be lost. Miss Amy Holmes found her mother's journals in 1946 and spent years trying to interest various people in publishing them. She was unsuccessful, since the manuscript was not in publishable form.

The journal covers a period during which Kate Stone and her family traveled during the Civil War days and the reconstruction period from their plantation home Brokenburn.

In August 1953, while on a research trip at Tallulah, Dr. John Q. Anderson, assistant porfessor of English, Texas A. and M. College was told about the journal. Upon seeing the Journal, Dr. Anderson immediately saw that the document was unique. He offered to put it in shape for publication and in September, 1953, Miss Holmes sent the originals to Dr. Anderson. Thus, at the beginning of a new school term, the first step toward getting Brokenburn published was started.

The first tedious task of making a word by word transcription of the original was followed by checking it back against the document. This copy was edited by Dr. Anderson to prepare a manuscript from which the publisher's copy was typed. At the same time verification of names, places and dates, as well as gathering material for explanatory notes, was carried on. After three months of this work and the writing of an introduction the manuscript was ready to submit to the publisher. As this work was carried on along with regular teaching duties. Dr. Anderson necessarily devoted long hours to it on week-ends and during the holiday periods.

The readers from Louisiana State University were enthusiastic about the manuscript from the time it was received in December, 1953. Final approval for publication was delayed until October, 1954, because of administrative details. The Press requested that Dr. Anderson expand the footnotes and make revisions to meet publication requirements that summer. Making these changes required six weeks of time and additional research. Meanwhile, the manuscript was read 30 times for complete verification.

Acceptance of the manuscript by the Press by no means ended work. It is a publishers requirement that the editor read galley and page proof and compile an index. These tasks consumed Dr. Anderson's Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays and part of January. He was ably assisted by his wife who helped with the typing, copy and proof reading and compiling the index.

Behind this work is that which went on at the Louisiana State University Press, who rushed Brokenburn through publication in record time. The copy was read and prepared for the printer, the printing schedule was set up, galley and page proof readings were engineered, the format was designed, the dust jackets were designed, and the publicity program and advertising campaign were set up.

With the publication of Brokenburn, work is not ended. The worth of the book has to be made known to the public.

Dr. Anderson will speak about Brokenburn before five different groups in Texas, including the Texas State Historical Association. He will take part in the ceremonies in Tallulah, March 17, Kate Stone Day.

Representatives of the L. S. U. Press who will participate in the activities on Kate Stone Day in Tallulah will be Dr. and Mrs. Donald Ellegood, Miss Margaret Catchings and Barney Davitt.

From 1890 to 1917, Andrew Carnegie and the Carnegie Corp. gave $43,665,000 for public libraries in the United States and Canada.

Congress Battles Over Major Issues-Prices Of Farm Goods, Stocks, Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark is mindful of a problem that has bedeviled many a Congress member: how to win the plaudits of history without losing the applause of the voters.

Even as Fulbright raised the question, Congress wrestled with two politically potent issues—taxes and farm price supports.

These weren't the issues that plagued Fulbright, however. He worried about possible repercussions from a stock market study being made by the Senate Banking Committee, which he heads.

At one hearing, Fulbright commented that should the market take a dizzy tumble, he and the committee doubtless would be blamed.

Harvard economist John K. Galbraith, testifying at the time, remarked that there might be such criticism but "historians would be very kind to you."

Replied Fulbright with a smile: "I'm up for re-election next year and I'm afraid the historians wouldn't help me very much."

TAXES — Cries of "politics" were commonplace as the Senate began debating a Democratic effort to cut income taxes. Opposed by the Eisenhower administration, the proposal was termed "irresponsible" by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Facing defections within the party, Democratic leaders had presented a substitute tax plan for House-passed $20-for-everybody cut.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) conceded the substitute robbed him of a few votes in his battle against any tax cut. But he said he still expects a Senate victory.

The substitute would provide a $20 cut for each taxpayer and $10 for each dependent except wives. But benefits generally would go to only families with annual incomes of less than $5,000.

In addition, the proposal would offset the revenue loss by repealing two tax cuts enacted last year —dividend income credit and liberalized depreciation allowances.

FARM — Scrapping of the flexible farm price supports, voted by Congress last year, was urged by The House Agriculture Committee. It voted 23-11 to require reinstatement of high, rigid supports on major crops.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) predicted House passage. The Senate, however, has scheduled no action on farm supports and the measure's chances there were questionable.

STOCK PROBE — Stock prices took a three-billion-dollar tumble Tuesday and, as Fulbright predicted, some Wall Streeters blamed the Senate inquiry—the first congressional look at the securities market in 20 years.

Fulbright himself said he could not see any connection between the decline and testimony that day from economist Galbraith. The witness said the United States may be entering a boom-and-bust cycle that could end with a bang like 1929.

In contrast, broker witnesses termed over-all market conditions healthy.

NAVY — A $1,317,000,000 naval shipbuilding program was approved, 34-0, by the House Armed Services Committee. The bill calls for 34 new warcraft including a fifth supercarrier and three atomic-powered submarines.

SERVICE PAY—A 399-1 House roll call passed on to the Senate an administration-backed bill to raise the pay of two-million career service personnel 6 to 25 per cent. The measure aims at reducing service turnover.

Other actions this week:

1. The House Rules Committee approved a "code of fair practices" for all House committees. The new regulations define the rights of witnesses and committee and would be effective upon approval by the House itself.

2. The first appropriation bill of 1955 went to the House floor, cut by 2.3 per cent from President Eisenhower's request. It carries funds for the Treasury and Post Office departments.

3. The Senate Judiciary Committee approved, 10-4 Eisenhower's nomination of Judge John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court. The nomination, first submitted last November, goes to the Senate floor.

High School Physical Ed. Section Finds Students Neglect Basics Of Health

In view if the fact that 75 per cent of "our boys" have some health deficiency, the Health and Physical Education department of West Monroe High School has launched an annual program of examinations designed to discover physical defects in boys enrolled in physical education and thus contribute to their correction, head coach Howard Barker and Coach Bobby Wilson have announced.

The aims and objectives of the program will be to promote good health, to achieve the cooperation of parents in maintaining good health for their boys, to improve initiative in good health habits, and to better health to the extent that one uses his full capabilities, the coaches pointed out.

"It may shock the public to realize that 75 per cent of our boys are deficient in good health," Coach Barker said.

"Parents need to realize their responsibility of teaching good health habits to their children," he added. He then cited statistics to the effect that some boys examined have never brushed their teeth, that about ten per cent of them have never been to a dentist, and that fifty per cent have bad teeth.

Approximately eight per cent of the boys have worms, most of these from the rural areas, he pointed out.

Information obtained in the annual health program may be used by teachers and others to improve a boy socially, scholastically and in health, he explained.

Health tests being given include hookworm, eye, mouth, throat and ear. In addition, physical fitness tests, including push ups, the 50-yard dash and a vertical jump are being administered. The vertical jump is a type of standing high jump.

Each boy is measured or tested with boys of his own comparative height, weight and age in order to compare actual progress and improvement, and stimulate interest in all - around physical development, Coach Barker pointed out.

Mrs. Allyne Rogers of the Ouachita parish health department has given a series of talks to the physical education classes on worms and has also vaccinated 150 boys for small pox. Case histories of childhood diseases were compiled for school health records, this data accompanying immunization records and other pertinent information from family doctors.

The health program will be held annually.

EYES CHECKED — Coach Bobby Wilson gives Student Richard Graham an eye test. Any defects discovered will be reported to Richard's parents with a possible recommendation that the boy see an optometrist about glasses. Many student's eyes are saved from serious impairment by this practice.

SMALLPOX SHOTS GIVEN — Smallpox vaccinations are given to students whose parents approve. Here Nurse Rogers vaccinates Billy Brownlee.

Monroe Chapter Observes Its Ninth Year As Unit Of Alcoholics Anonymous

The promise of a modern building to serve its needs, enhances the ninth anniversary of the Monroe group of Alcoholics Anonymous today as the orgainzation highlights its birthday observance with an open meeting at the Crystal Ballroom of the Virginia Hotel.

Today's meeting, one of a series being held by the local AA group in commemoration of its anniversary, will be open to the public and an especial blanket invitation is extended to all persons interested in the problem of alcoholism. The meeting will begin at 2 p.m.

Special invitations to attend the meeting have been extended to ministers, doctors, teachers and public officials.

The Alanon Club of Monroe, a non-profit corporation created under the laws of the state of Louisiana in February, 1952, is planning the construction of a modern building for Alcoholics Anonymous as an outstanding feature of its program of service to the organization, Claude Harrison, Alanon Club president, has announced that plans now call for the beginning of construction late this month and said it is hoped that the structure will be finished by early summer.

Harrison said the proposed building will be of brick veneer construction and embrace more than 7,000 square feet of floor space. It is expected to cost approximately $70,000.

The Alanon Club will rent the building to the groups of Alcoholics Anonymous, Harrison explained. Suitable property for the structure has been acquired on South Grand St. and the building will be especially designed to fit the needs of the Alcoholic Anonymous groups, he pointed out.

The building will be erected with funds and materials contributed by local people. There has been no public drive and none is anticipated, but the local merchants who have been called upon, and friends of Alcoholics Anonymous have contributed generously toward the erection of the building, Harrison said.

The Alanon president pointed out that the club and Alcoholics Anonymous are separate and distinct organizations. AA members have sobriety and helping others to achieve sobriety as their primary purpose, and consequently have no formal organization and do not own any real or personal property, he explained. On the other hand, the local Alanon Club is a non-profit corporation formed as a service organization and educational auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish groups of Alcoholics Anonymous, he emphasized. The corporation is directed and administered by a board of directors consisting of nine members, four of whom are members of Alcoholic Anonymous and five of whom are non-members.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problems and help others to recover from alcoholism, and the only requirement for membership is an honest desire to stop drinking, a spokesman for the AA said. It has no dues or fees and it is not allied with any sect, denominational or political organization or institution, he added.

Membership in the AA has grown to 160,000 happy, sober men and women in about 4,000 groups all over the world, an AA spokesman said. Although AA is not interested in statistics and refuses to screen applicants, it is estimated that of those who make a genuine effort for sobriety through its program 50 per cent become sober immediately and stay that way, 25 per cent get sober after some relapses and the remaining 25 per cent will show some improvement.

Demand For Scientists Is Told By Educator At Research Event Here

Today's need for scientists is almost alarming, Dr. C. R. McLellan of Louisiana State University told high school students who participated Saturday in Northeast State's annual Research for a Day.

The program included, in addition to the guest speaker's address, displays and various projects in which representatives from 10 high schools in this area took part. Clinical and industrial counselors served in promoting the event and assisting the potential scientists.

Dr. McLellan, who is associate professor of chemistry, stressed the shortage of scientists in every field. Illustrating the demand, he said that since October of last year 362 industrial plants had tried to secure chemists from the University. Considering the number in the graduating class, only 20 will be available for these jobs.

The picture is not encouraging, the speaker said, when "we look at the figures released by colleges throughout the United States." Students receiving the bachelor's degree in chemistry and chemical engineering in the total colleges show a great contrast in 1950 and 1955. In the former year 10,500 graduated in these fields. The current year expects about 3,800. While the demand increases, the number of graduates shows a sharp decrease.

Twelve thousand chemists alone are required to fill important jobs, Dr. McLellan said. The attempt to answer the need can be only partially met, he explained, as only 10,000 scientists, including all types of degrees earned, will be graduate this year.

High school students are living in a challenging age, the L. S. U. chemist declared. "You do not have to wait for an opportunity," he told the visiting young scientists. The idea that everything has been discovered is quite wrong, he said. Many new fields are opening, which will increase the call for scientists.

The American Chemical Society points to the need of technicians, the speaker commented. The organ zation reports that 24 per cent of scientific companies declare that they will need more trained persons than they now are using for replacements and expansion.

Pointing to the demand for high school science teachers during the current school year, Dr. McLellan said that of the 7,700 needed only 5,000 were available. The required number to do a good job in high schools will jump to 10,000 by 1965.

Building Materials Dealers To Convene

E. Shelby Hill of Monroe, president of the Louisiana Building Material Dealers Association, has just released an invitation to all retail lumber and building material dealers to attend the 35th Annual Convention which is being held at the Jung Hotel, New Orleans, March 15-16-17.

In a statement released Saturday Hill said, "The annual convention with its exhibits of building materials and its array of industry speakers is an important event in the business year of the retail lumber dealers of Louisiana. Scientific search is continually bringing new products into construction uses and the wide-awake dealers recognize the necessity to keep abreast of these new products.

'Second Cup' Of Coffee At Prison Causes Uproar

RICHMOND, Va., March 12—UP—That "second breakfast cup" of coffee and a misquoted prison official threw the state penitentiary mess hall into a furor.

Inmates read a newspaper article reporting they are entitled to the second cup, but were denied it when they tried to collect. Prison Superintendent W. Frank Smyth told the newspaper the rule applies to prison guards only. Prisoners will have to be satisfied with one 10-ounce mug.

100 Per Cent Vote Expected In Race

HOOPESTON, Ill., March 12—UP—Officials Saturday confidently predicted a 100-per cent vote turnout Monday for a special election to decide whether a new subdivision should be annexed to Hooperston.

There are three qualified voters in the tiny subdivision.

Congress Battles Over Major Issues-Prices Of Farm Goods, Stocks, Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark is mindful of a problem that has bedeviled many a Congress member: how to win the plaudits of history without losing the applause of the voters.

Even as Fulbright raised the question, Congress wrestled with two politically potent issues—taxes and farm price supports.

These weren't the issues that plagued Fulbright, however. He worried about possible repercussions from a stock market study being made by the Senate Banking Committee, which he heads.

At one hearing, Fulbright commented that should the market take a dizzy tumble, he and the committee doubtless would be blamed.

Harvard economist John K. Galbraith, testifying at the time, remarked that there might be such criticism but "historians would be very kind to you."

Replied Fulbright with a smile: "I'm up for re-election next year and I'm afraid the historians wouldn't help me very much."

TAXES — Cries of "politics" were commonplace as the Senate began debating a Democratic effort to cut income taxes. Opposed by the Eisenhower administration, the proposal was termed "irresponsible" by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Facing defections within the party, Democratic leaders had presented a substitute tax plan for House-passed $20-for-everybody cut.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) conceded the substitute robbed him of a few votes in his battle against any tax cut. But he said he still expects a Senate victory.

The substitute would provide a $20 cut for each taxpayer and $10 for each dependent except wives. But benefits generally would go to only families with annual incomes of less than $5,000.

In addition, the proposal would offset the revenue loss by repealing two tax cuts enacted last year —dividend income credit and liberalized depreciation allowances.

FARM — Scrapping of the flexible farm price supports, voted by Congress last year, was urged by The House Agriculture Committee. It voted 23-11 to require reinstatement of high, rigid supports on major crops.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) predicted House passage. The Senate, however, has scheduled no action on farm supports and the measure's chances there were questionable.

STOCK PROBE — Stock prices took a three-billion-dollar tumble Tuesday and, as Fulbright predicted, some Wall Streeters blamed the Senate inquiry—the first congressional look at the securities market in 20 years.

Fulbright himself said he could not see any connection between the decline and testimony that day from economist Galbraith. The witness said the United States may be entering a boom-and-bust cycle that could end with a bang like 1929.

In contrast, broker witnesses termed over-all market conditions healthy.

NAVY — A $1,317,000,000 naval shipbuilding program was approved, 34-0, by the House Armed Services Committee. The bill calls for 34 new warcraft including a fifth supercarrier and three atomic-powered submarines.

SERVICE PAY—A 399-1 House roll call passed on to the Senate an administration-backed bill to raise the pay of two-million career service personnel 6 to 25 per cent. The measure aims at reducing service turnover.

Other actions this week:

1. The House Rules Committee approved a "code of fair practices" for all House committees. The new regulations define the rights of witnesses and committee and would be effective upon approval by the House itself.

2. The first appropriation bill of 1955 went to the House floor, cut by 2.3 per cent from President Eisenhower's request. It carries funds for the Treasury and Post Office departments.

3. The Senate Judiciary Committee approved, 10-4 Eisenhower's nomination of Judge John Marshall Harlan to the Supreme Court. The nomination, first submitted last November, goes to the Senate floor.

High School Physical Ed. Section Finds Students Neglect Basics Of Health

In view if the fact that 75 per cent of "our boys" have some health deficiency, the Health and Physical Education department of West Monroe High School has launched an annual program of examinations designed to discover physical defects in boys enrolled in physical education and thus contribute to their correction, head coach Howard Barker and Coach Bobby Wilson have announced.

The aims and objectives of the program will be to promote good health, to achieve the cooperation of parents in maintaining good health for their boys, to improve initiative in good health habits, and to better health to the extent that one uses his full capabilities, the coaches pointed out.

"It may shock the public to realize that 75 per cent of our boys are deficient in good health," Coach Barker said.

"Parents need to realize their responsibility of teaching good health habits to their children," he added. He then cited statistics to the effect that some boys examined have never brushed their teeth, that about ten per cent of them have never been to a dentist, and that fifty per cent have bad teeth.

Approximately eight per cent of the boys have worms, most of these from the rural areas, he pointed out.

Information obtained in the annual health program may be used by teachers and others to improve a boy socially, scholastically and in health, he explained.

Health tests being given include hookworm, eye, mouth, throat and ear. In addition, physical fitness tests, including push ups, the 50-yard dash and a vertical jump are being administered. The vertical jump is a type of standing high jump.

Each boy is measured or tested with boys of his own comparative height, weight and age in order to compare actual progress and improvement, and stimulate interest in all - around physical development, Coach Barker pointed out.

Mrs. Allyne Rogers of the Ouachita parish health department has given a series of talks to the physical education classes on worms and has also vaccinated 150 boys for small pox. Case histories of childhood diseases were compiled for school health records, this data accompanying immunization records and other pertinent information from family doctors.

The health program will be held annually.

EYES CHECKED — Coach Bobby Wilson gives Student Richard Graham an eye test. Any defects discovered will be reported to Richard's parents with a possible recommendation that the boy see an optometrist about glasses. Many student's eyes are saved from serious impairment by this practice.

Monroe Chapter Observes Its Ninth Year As Unit Of Alcoholics Anonymous

The promise of a modern building to serve its needs, enhances the ninth anniversary of the Monroe group of Alcoholics Anonymous today as the orgainzation highlights its birthday observance with an open meeting at the Crystal Ballroom of the Virginia Hotel.

Today's meeting, one of a series being held by the local AA group in commemoration of its anniversary, will be open to the public and an especial blanket invitation is extended to all persons interested in the problem of alcoholism. The meeting will begin at 2 p.m.

Special invitations to attend the meeting have been extended to ministers, doctors, teachers and public officials.

The Alanon Club of Monroe, a non-profit corporation created under the laws of the state of Louisiana in February, 1952, is planning the construction of a modern building for Alcoholics Anonymous as an outstanding feature of its program of service to the organization. Interview With Peter Townsend

Group Captain And Princess Would Accept Exile

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following world copyrighted story, written by Richard Martin, London correspondent of the Sydney, Australia, Sun-Herald, has been made available exclusively to the Associated Press. Martin flew to Brussels especially for this interview.

By RICHARD MARTIN
London Correspondent
Sydney, Australia, Sun-Herald

SYDNEY, Australia, March 12 (AP)—"If a situation should demand my exile and that of a certain lady, we should, of course, accept it," Group Capt. Peter Townsend told me in an interview.

"You will understand, however, that I cannot say anything which would embarrass Princess Margaret in any way You must understand that my first loyalty is to the princess."

Townsend told me these things in an exclusive interview in Brussels last night.

He explained to me as we talked "I think my position should be known in the Commonwealth nations."

I flew to Brussels to tell Townsend of the enormous Australian interest in his romance with Margaret. I knew he was besieged by the press of the world but I telegraphed him seeking an interview and he granted it promptly.

Townsend told me "I want to get this whole position about Princess Margaret and myself straightened out as far as I can. But I refuse to say precisely what my feelings are about this lady."

When I asked him bluntly "Will you marry Princess Margaret?" He replied: That's a pretty naughty think to ask. Surely you must understand my position."

I did understand, as do the corps of journalists watching Townsend's every move. This harassed Royal Air Force flying ace made it clear before, that while he wanted the situation "cleared up," he was in no position to do the clearing.

As he talked it was patent that Townsend wanted to say a great deal more but time and again he stumbled in answering my admittedly direct questions.

On one aspect he was definite. He described as "rubbish" a report that an announcement of his wedding would be made June 1.

As we crunched around snow-covered Brussels Park, I noticed that the strain of the past week was showing on the 40-year-old, divorced father of two sons.

He was friendly, quiet and confident in demeanor and very courteous. But there were shadows under his eyes. His nervously etched poet's face was blue-tinged with the cold as we slithered on the ice-bound slopes of the park.

I first met him by appointment near his flat. He said "I'm sorry I cannot take you upstairs."

We drove to the nearby Bois de la Cambre, got out and walked into the lonely park. Townsend put his arms through mine and said "I am hopelessly sick and tired of lurking about in my flat as if I am a criminal. I have been afraid to move for fear of cross-questioning for so long I have kept my mouth shut but now I am opening it just a little."

We passed a paper boy proclaiming a Belgian News Agency report of his "June engagement" to Margaret. Townsend laughed and said "You look pretty tired yourself. You would look worse than I do if you had to put up with this sort of thing."

Here in Brussels—gaudy and jazzy—almost everybody believes in a romantic ending to the story of Margaret and Peter.

My taxi driver from Brussels airport voiced the common feeling when he turned back to me and said "If Townsend wants to have the princess as a wife how happy for all of us."

The group captain lives in a pound sterling a day ($2.80) flat in the Avenue Louise. Around it are camping more than 90 journalists from all over the world. An American television company has a camera eye trained on the front door 24 hours a day.

"C'est l'Amour," is the shrugging exclamation of the elderly concierge.

Troopers Clear In Whiskey Case, Says Grevemberg

BATON ROUGE —UP— State Police Supt. Francis Grevemberg said today that efforts to link state police with alleged shortages of whiskey seized in Claiborne parish raids last November "are completely out of line."

Attorneys at a recent trial in Homer questioned officers about 19 cases of liquor they said were missing.

Grevemberg said troopers inventoried the stocks when seized and turned them over to a bonded warehouse in Shreveport, where they were received under the same inventory.

After that, he said, troopers had nothing to do with it.

"Subsequently," he added, "the whiskey was removed to the custody of the Claiborne sheriff."

Court Of Appeals Denies Plea Of L & N Railroad

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Court of Appeals denied the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company's request today for an order to prohibit a strike by 10 non-operating railway unions Monday.

The order upheld Jefferson Circuit Judge Stuart E. Lampe.

Today's ruling was on a motion for a temporary injunction, and no written opinion accompanied the order.

Attorneys for the L. & N. had told the court at a hearing the strike would be illegal because it was made on demand that the carrier deduct money from its employes for a health and welfare program. The railroad said this was a violation of state law.

Cotton Futures Swing Wide Arc

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The Cotton futures market moved in wide arcs this week. The range was the broadest the market had seen this year.

A sharp-sell-off early in the week was followed by a strong recovery movement in which just about all the lost ground was regained. But on Friday the market went down again, in sympathy with the break in securities prices.

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange finished out the week with net losses ranging from 95 cents to $1.40 a bale.

These relatively minor net changes were in sharp contrast with the wide price swings that characterized much of the day-to-day trading. On Monday some contracts were down as much as $5.55 a bale at one time. Part of the losses were recovered before the closing.

Several factors contributed to the early decline. Once again, foreign selling was very much in evidence. It was apparent that overseas traders were still baiting on the possibility of export subsidies or a two-price system for U. S. cotton.

Woman Pleads Guilty To Cattle Rustling Charge

GALVESTON, March 12 (AP)—For the first time anyone in Galveston County can remember, a woman has pleaded guilty to cattle rustling.

She is Gussie Culver, about 40. She made the mistake of taking a calf belonging to Constable Sam Popovich.

Judge W. E. Stone gave her a five year sentence this week and placed her on probation.

Testimony showed Popovich found the woman and two men, Elvis Brown and G. C. Borros, butchering a calf. When they took Popovich to a pasture where they had killed the calf, the constable recognized the head and hide as part of one of his calves.

Brown pleaded guilty earlier and also got a 5-year probated sentence. Borros' trial is pending.

Grain Markets Close In Gains

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP) — The persistent liquidation which has chopped away at grain values for several weeks appeared to have dried up—at least temporarily—on the Board of Trade this week.

As a result, the market closed with respectable gains for the first time in many weeks. The turn about came toward the end of the week, after many grain futures had tumbled to new seasonal lows on Monday and Tuesday.

Wheat closed the week 3 to 4⅛ higher, corn 1⅜-3¼ higher, oats ½ to 3 cents higher, rye 2 to 2¾ higher, soybeans 1½ lower to 3¾ higher and lard 3 cents lower to 18 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Dealings were quite active throughout the period. All corn, all oats and most wheat and soybean deliveries set new seasonal lows before the market staged its late rally.

Family Of Tulane Student Seeks Aid In Locating Him

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The family of Melvin Koven, 19, a student at Tulane University, have asked police to help them locate the youth.

His father, a Miami jeweler, said young Koven disappeared from the school two weeks ago. He called his home here from Fort Worth, Texas, but has not been heard from since.

Police forwarded photographs of the student to New Orleans and Fort Worth.

Kennon Schedules Keynote Address At McNeese Ceremony

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 12 (AP)—Gov. Robert Kennon will make the keynote address at the laying of the cornerstone for the new science building at McNeese State College Wednesday.

Other speakers include state Sen. Charles Tooke Jr. of Shreveport, member of the Louisiana State Building Authority, and Mayor Leon Gary of Houma, member of the Louisiana State Board of Education.

Natural Gas Regulations Shapes Into Bitter Fight

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Lines are shaping for what may be one of the most bitter battles in Congress this session—over exempting natural gas producers from federal regulation.

The House Commerce Committee has set March 22 for a hearing on bills to nullify or modify the Supreme Court's decision last June dealing with natural gas, production. The court held that the Federal Power Commission had authority to regulate the price, at the well, or all natural gas flowing into interstate commerce.

Some congressmen from gas consuming areas plan to ask the committee to consider simultaneously proposals to reaffirm the decision or to exempt from control only the smaller independent producers.

Rep. Heselton (R-Mass) said he would introduce two such bills and ask the committee to consider them along with the anti-control bills by Reps. Harris (D-Ark), Ikard (D-Tex), Rogers (D-Tex), Boggs (D-La) and others.

One bill proposed by Heselton would declare Congress intended in the Natural Gas Act of 1938 to provide for FPC regulation of producers whose gas is destined for interstate commerce.

The second Heselton bill would exempt small gas producers, estimated by Heselton to make up about 85 per cent of the total number, from FPC regulation on the theory that the quantity of gas they supply for the national market is not significant."

"We have never to my knowledge considered both sides of the question in terms of concrete legislation," Heselton said. "We have always before had bills in to exempt only. It is up to Congress to consider both sides."

Rep. Bolling (D-Mo) said that based on history, "this has been a conflict between those who represent producing areas and consuming areas." That probably will continue to be the case, he said, adding that he opposes exempting legislation.

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn) of the committee said the Harris bill "contains provisions on protecting the consumer to a greater extent than any of the previous bills seeking to amend" the act.

In 1950 Congress passed, but President Truman vetoed, a bill by Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) specifically excluding independent production and gathering of natural gas from federal control.

Harris introduced his bill after a Cabinet level study committee on energy and resources concluded the federal government should not control production, gathering, processing or sale of natural gas prior to its entry into an interstate transmission line.

The oil and gas industry will send spokesmen before the committee in support of legislation to knock out federal control over gas producers. The industry contends federal control could lead to less gas and higher prices for consumers.

The first witnesses will be FPC officials.

Interview With Peter Townsend

Group Captain And Princess Would Accept Exile

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following world copyrighted story, written by Richard Martin, London correspondent of the Sydney, Australia, Sun-Herald, has been made available exclusively to the Associated Press. Martin flew to Brussels especially for this interview.

By RICHARD MARTIN
London Correspondent
Sydney, Australia, Sun-Herald

SYDNEY, Australia, March 12 (AP)—"If a situation should demand my exile and that of a certain lady, we should, of course, accept it," Group Capt. Peter Townsend told me in an interview.

"You will understand, however, that I cannot say anything which would embarrass Princess Margaret in any way You must understand that my first loyalty is to the princess."

Townsend told me these things in an exclusive interview in Brussels last night.

He explained to me as we talked "I think my position should be known in the Commonwealth nations."

I flew to Brussels to tell Townsend of the enormous Australian interest in his romance with Margaret. I knew he was besieged by the press of the world but I telegraphed him seeking an interview and he granted it promptly.

Townsend told me "I want to get this whole position about Princess Margaret and myself straightened out as far as I can. But I refuse to say precisely what my feelings are about this lady."

When I asked him bluntly "Will you marry Princess Margaret?" He replied: That's a pretty naughty think to ask. Surely you must understand my position."

I did understand, as do the corps of journalists watching Townsend's every move. This harassed Royal Air Force flying ace made it clear before, that while he wanted the situation "cleared up," he was in no position to do the clearing.

As he talked it was patent that Townsend wanted to say a great deal more but time and again he stumbled in answering my admittedly direct questions.

On one aspect he was definite. He described as "rubbish" a report that an announcement of his wedding would be made June 1.

As we crunched around snow-covered Brussels Park, I noticed that the strain of the past week was showing on the 40-year-old, divorced father of two sons.

He was friendly, quiet and confident in demeanor and very courteous. But there were shadows under his eyes. His nervously etched poet's face was blue-tinged with the cold as we slithered on the ice-bound slopes of the park.

I first met him by appointment near his flat. He said "I'm sorry I cannot take you upstairs."

We drove to the nearby Bois de la Cambre, got out and walked into the lonely park. Townsend put his arms through mine and said "I am hopelessly sick and tired of lurking about in my flat as if I am a criminal. I have been afraid to move for fear of cross-questioning for so long I have kept my mouth shut but now I am opening it just a little."

We passed a paper boy proclaiming a Belgian News Agency report of his "June engagement" to Margaret. Townsend laughed and said "You look pretty tired yourself. You would look worse than I do if you had to put up with this sort of thing."

Here in Brussels—gaudy and jazzy—almost everybody believes in a romantic ending to the story of Margaret and Peter.

My taxi driver from Brussels airport voiced the common feeling when he turned back to me and said "If Townsend wants to have the princess as a wife how happy for all of us."

The group captain lives in a pound sterling a day ($2.80) flat in the Avenue Louise. Around it are camping more than 90 journalists from all over the world. An American television company has a camera eye trained on the front door 24 hours a day.

"C'est l'Amour," is the shrugging exclamation of the elderly concierge.

Troopers Clear In Whiskey Case, Says Grevemberg

BATON ROUGE —UP— State Police Supt. Francis Grevemberg said today that efforts to link state police with alleged shortages of whiskey seized in Claiborne parish raids last November "are completely out of line."

Attorneys at a recent trial in Homer questioned officers about 19 cases of liquor they said were missing.

Grevemberg said troopers inventoried the stocks when seized and turned them over to a bonded warehouse in Shreveport, where they were received under the same inventory.

After that, he said, troopers had nothing to do with it.

"Subsequently," he added, "the whiskey was removed to the custody of the Claiborne sheriff."

Court Of Appeals Denies Plea Of L & N Railroad

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Court of Appeals denied the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company's request today for an order to prohibit a strike by 10 non-operating railway unions Monday.

The order upheld Jefferson Circuit Judge Stuart E. Lampe.

Today's ruling was on a motion for a temporary injunction, and no written opinion accompanied the order.

Attorneys for the L. & N. had told the court at a hearing the strike would be illegal because it was made on demand that the carrier deduct money from its employes for a health and welfare program. The railroad said this was a violation of state law.

Cotton Futures Swing Wide Arc

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—The Cotton futures market moved in wide arcs this week. The range was the broadest the market had seen this year.

A sharp-sell-off early in the week was followed by a strong recovery movement in which just about all the lost ground was regained. But on Friday the market went down again, in sympathy with the break in securities prices.

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange finished out the week with net losses ranging from 95 cents to $1.40 a bale.

These relatively minor net changes were in sharp contrast with the wide price swings that characterized much of the day-to-day trading. On Monday some contracts were down as much as $5.55 a bale at one time. Part of the losses were recovered before the closing.

Several factors contributed to the early decline. Once again, foreign selling was very much in evidence. It was apparent that overseas traders were still betting on the possibility of export subsidies or a two-price system for U. S. cotton.

Woman Pleads Guilty To Cattle Rustling Charge

GALVESTON, March 12 (AP)—For the first time anyone in Galveston County can remember, a woman has pleaded guilty to cattle rustling.

She is Gussie Culver, about 40. She made the mistake of taking a calf belonging to Constable Sam Popovich.

Judge W. E. Stone gave her a five year sentence this week and placed her on probation.

Testimony showed Popovich found the woman and two men, Elvis Brown and G. C. Borros, butchering a calf. When they took Popovich to a pasture where they had killed the calf, the constable recognized the head and hide as part of one of his calves.

Brown pleaded guilty earlier and also got a 5-year probated sentence. Borros' trial is pending.

Grain Markets Close In Gains

CHICAGO, March 12 (AP) — The persistent liquidation which has chopped away at grain values for several weeks appeared to have dried up—at least temporarily—on the Board of Trade this week.

As a result, the market closed with respectable gains for the first time in many weeks. The turn about came toward the end of the week, after many grain futures had tumbled to new seasonal lows on Monday and Tuesday.

Wheat closed the week 3 to 4⅛ higher, corn 1⅜-3¼ higher, oats ½ to 3 cents higher, rye 2 to 2¾ higher, soybeans 1½ lower to 3¾ higher and lard 3 cents lower to 18 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Dealings were quite active throughout the period. All corn, all oats and most wheat and soybean deliveries set new seasonal lows before the market staged its late rally.

Family Of Tulane Student Seeks Aid In Locating Him

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The family of Melvin Koven, 19, a student at Tulane University, have asked police to help them locate the youth.

His father, a Miami jeweler, said young Koven disappeared from the school two weeks ago. He called his home here from Fort Worth, Texas, but has not been heard from since.

Police forwarded photographs of the student to New Orleans and Fort Worth.

Kennon Schedules Keynote Address At McNeese Ceremony

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 12 (AP)—Gov. Robert Kennon will make the keynote address at the laying of the cornerstone for the new science building at McNeese State College Wednesday.

Other speakers include state Sen. Charles Tooke Jr. of Shreveport, member of the Louisiana State Building Authority, and Mayor Leon Gary of Houma, member of the Louisiana State Board of Education.

Winnsboro 4-H'er Has Wide Variety Of Club Projects

WINNSBORO, March 12. (Special) — Bertha Nan Scott of Winnsboro Senior 4-H Club is an active member in junior leadership, along with her projects of room improvement, farm and home electric work, landscaping, food preservation, health, safety, landscaping, dairy calf, canning, baking, clothing, home management, handicraft, and safety. For the past two years Bertha Nan has been interested in Junior leadership along with her room improvement, for which she is well-known in Franklin parish.

In her junior leadership projects she has given talks to various groups, demonstrations, and taken an interest in helping the younger 4-H'ers.

This active member has attended short course at Baton Rouge for two years for room improvement. She was honored with ninth place out of sixty four, and has won three years in succession in her well-known project.

But room improvement is not her only talent in 4-H. She also stands out in farm and home electric work. Living on a farm and having cooperative parents to help her, she has received a beautiful radio for winning first place in the project in Franklin parish.

Besides 4-H work she is a talented pianist. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Scott of Wayside Community.

Natural Gas Regulations Shapes Into Bitter Fight

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Lines are shaping for what may be one of the most bitter battles in Congress this session—over exempting natural gas producers from federal regulation.

The House Commerce Committee has set March 22 for a hearing on bills to nullify or modify the Supreme Court's decision last June dealing with natural gas production. The court held that the Federal Power Commission had authority to regulate the price, at the well, or all natural gas flowing into interstate commerce.

Some congressmen from gas consuming areas plan to ask the committee to consider simultaneously proposals to reaffirm the decision or to exempt from control only the smaller independent producers.

Rep. Heselton (R-Mass) said he would introduce two such bills and ask the committee to consider them along with the anti-control bills by Reps. Harris (D-Ark), Ikard (D-Tex), Rogers (D-Tex), Boggs (D-La) and others.

One bill proposed by Heselton would declare Congress intended in the Natural Gas Act of 1938 to provide for FPC regulation of producers whose gas is destined for interstate commerce.

The second Heselton bill would exempt small gas producers, estimated by Heselton to make up about 85 per cent of the total number, from FPC regulation on the theory that the quantity of gas they supply for the national market is not significant."

"We have never to my knowledge considered both sides of the question in terms of concrete legislation," Heselton said. "We have always before had bills in to exempt only. It is up to Congress to consider both sides."

Rep. Bolling (D-Mo) said that based on history, "this has been a conflict between those who represent producing areas and consuming areas." That probably will continue to be the case, he said, adding that he opposes exempting legislation.

Jonesboro Man's Body Recovered From Saline Lake

Winnfield, March 13 (Special) —The body of William A. Watts, 65, a retired Jonesboro machinist, was recovered from Saline Lake Saturday afternoon by a Wild Life and Fisheries Commission captain after about three weeks of searching by hundreds of persons.

Winn Parish Sheriff C. M. Robinson identified the captain as Clarence Hood.

Watts' body was found floating approximately 200 yards from where the boat, in which he was fishing on February 18, was found tangled in brush with the throttle wide open.

Sheriff Robinson said the man's glasses were still intact when the body was removed from the water by him and Hood.

Watts was on a fishing trip with a friend at the Collins and Ervin Camp on Lake Saline when the accident occurred.

Searching parties composed of officers and civilians from over Winn, Jackson and other near-by parish areas had been in the vicinity of the camp every day since the drowning, Sheriff Robins stated.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 9 a.m. at the Edmonds Funeral Home Chapel in Jonesboro. Rev. G. W. Dameron will officiate. Interment will follow in the Jonesboro Cemetery.

Watts is survived by his wife, Mrs. Francis Watts, one daughter, Mrs. Frankie Michaud, both of Jonesboro; one son, Billy Watts, Lake Charles; three brothers, Joe, John, and George Watts; four sisters, Mrs. Bud Rogers, Mrs. Alma Rockhold, Mrs. J. C. Anderson and Mrs. Frank Grice.

State Conference Of Social Welfare Meet Scheduled

Region II of the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare is scheduled to hold a series of meetings, Thursday, at the Virginia Hotel.

Registration will begin at 9 a. m. followed by the opening session at 10 a.m. according to Joseph S. Worley, first vice-president of the conference.

The theme of the conference is "services needed to strengthen family life."

Persons from the fields of education, health, recreation, religion, psychiatry and social work are on the program which is divided into a morning and evening session.

Dr. Harrison A. Dobbs, professor of social work at Louisiana State University, and Roy Rogillio, with the Department of Institutions are to be the two out-of-town speakers.

Dobbs' talk will center around "contributions of schools to well-being of families and the community."

Affiliated with the Mental Health Section of the Department of Institutions, Rogillio, will endeavor to show "lack of public acceptance and utilization of mental health education."

Vermont Librarian Named New Director

BATON ROUGE, La. March 12 —UP— The Louisiana State University board of supervisors today named Sidney Butler Smith director of library at a salary of $9,000 a year.

Smith, librarian at the University of Vermont, will take over at LSU on July 1. He replaces Guy R. Lyle who resigned last August to accept a similar post at Emory University.

Monroe Theft Suspect Arrested By Police

Three thefts were cleared here yesterday when a 17-year-old Negro was taken into custody, detectives reported.

The youth was identified as Samuel Gray, apartment 17-A Texas avenue.

According to authorities Gray was arrested by Sgt. J. C. Kelly, of the juvenile department, in connection with the January 31 burglary of Economy Food Center, 808 Calypso street, and the March 3 burglary of Carver Elementary School. Gray was turned over to detectives.

Detective Chief Hugh Tolbert said Gray, in addition to admitting the two burglaries, admitted taking a vending machine from in front of Gentry's Market, 1001 Texas avenue, on February 3. He took the machine to the rear of the store where he smashed it open and took the money, detective said.

Woman Injured When Car Overturns

A Monroe woman escaped with apparent minor cuts and bruises about midnight Friday, when the car in which she was riding overturned in the 1800 block of Park avenue.

The woman was identified by police as Barbara Sheppard, 23, of 404 Pope street. She was taken by Mulhearn ambulance to St. Francis Sanitarium, where she was treated for minor injuries and hospitalized overnight for observation.

According to the police report of the accident the vehicle was being driven by John Sherrill, III, of Alexandria. No details concerning the accident were given.

Lottery Figure Fined Again For Not Answering

NEW ORLEANS —UP— Lottery figure Lionel Andrew Dominguez today faced a second sentence of 10 days in parish prison and a $100 fine for refusing to answer grand jury questions.

Judge Niels F. Hertz sentenced hour and 20 minutes after he completed the first sentence for a similar conviction.

Judge J. Bernard Cocke sentenced Dominguez March 1 for refusing to answer grand jury questions in connection with an investigation of possible public bribery of police officers.

Dominguez was called before the grand jury yesterday to answer questions in the probe into the discovery of two lists of police officers and former police officers. The lists were uncovered in a lottery raid on his residence Feb. 21.

Jonesboro Man's Body Recovered From Saline Lake

Winnfield, March 13 (Special) —The body of William A. Watts, 65, a retired Jonesboro machinist, was recovered from Saline Lake Saturday afternoon by a Wild Life and Fisheries Commission captain after about three weeks of searching by hundreds of persons.

Winn Parish Sheriff C. M. Robinson identified the captain as Clarence Hood.

Watts' body was found floating approximately 200 yards from where the boat, in which he was fishing on February 18, was found tangled in brush with the throttle wide open.

Sheriff Robinson said the man's glasses were still intact when the body was removed from the water by him and Hood.

Watts was on a fishing trip with a friend at the Collins and Ervin Camp on Lake Saline when the accident occurred.

Searching parties composed of officers and civilians from over Winn, Jackson and other near-by parish areas had been in the vicinity of the camp every day since the drowning, Sheriff Robins stated.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 9 a.m. at the Edmonds Funeral Home Chapel in Jonesboro. Rev. G. W. Dameron will officiate Interment will follow in the Jonesboro Cemetery.

Watts is survived by his wife, Mrs. Francis Watts, one daughter, Mrs. Frankie Michaud, both of Jonesboro; one son, Billy Watts, Lake Charles; three brothers, Joe, John, and George Watts; four sisters, Mrs. Bud Rogers, Mrs. Alma Rockhold, Mrs. J. C. Anderson and Mrs. Frank Grice.

Saturday Night In West Monroe

Youth Center In Spotlight

By BILL ANDERSON

The sign over the door reads "Hudson-Leehy Post 3393, Veterans of Foreign Wars," but as you enter you hear the strains of "Melody of Love" by popular recording artist rather than a group of veterans discussing the military service. You immediately see several teenage couples dancing. In the far right corner another pair of teenagers are engaged in a game of checkers, while in the far left corner of the room members of the VFW Auxiliary are frying hamburgers.

The reason for the unexpected activity at the veterans post is that it is Saturday night and the West Monroe Youth Center is in operation.

Established in January, the youth center is operated each Saturday from 7 to 11 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW post and the Twin Cities YMCA. The purpose of the youth center, says Mrs. Roy Cash, one of the founders, is to give the youths of West Monroe a place to congregate where they can engage in wholesome recreational activities.

Although operated on a membership basis, the youth center is open to all students of West Monroe and St. Pascal's High School. The registration fee is 50 cents a year and a nickle admission is charged each time a member enters the center. While these very nominal fees, aid in defraying the expenses of operating the center, the primary purpose is to give the youth a sense of belonging to the organization.

There are no paid workers and no administrative costs connected with the center. The snack bar, where members can purchase hamburgers, soft drinks, candy, and the like is operated on a non-profit basis.

Among the many activities available to members are dancing, shuffleboard, ping pong, checkers, chess, dominos, group games, square dancing, and group singing. Special programs are also conducted from time to time, during which outside entertainment is scheduled.

Saturday will mark the third month of operation of the Youth center, and the directors, Mrs. Cash and Mrs. Charles A. Wood, Jr., and program director Harold Bolton have extended an invitation to West Monroe youths who are not yet members to "come by and get acquainted."

"Children are mst valuable possessions and they have every right to the full dvelopment of human beings," Dr. ohn Green of the Institute of Chd Study and Development at Marland University, told Negro teacers of Ouachita parish at a recnt meeting as he launched a conerted program of child study effos in the local Negro schools.

As a result of Dr Green's visit, terms of what hasbeen done and what could be don to secure information on scial children through six source recommended by Dr. Green, Negro education leaders of the parih have reported.

The six sources sted are school records, intervies with former teachers, collecting and analyzing samples of drawings and writings, life space of the child, home visits and Anecotal records.

Such intensive study of each child is necessary because every child "is an individual unit, cannot be taken apart, and each one matures differently" Dr. Green explained. Behavior is caused by the interplay of all the forces affecting a child's life and teachers must discover children's interests and then capitalize on them as well as create situations that will enable them to develop a sense of belonging, he added.

In many cases, all six of the suggested sources have been explored since Dr. Green's visit, local teachers have reported.

Dr. Green's three basic principles of understanding children, —"discover what research has found, get the facts that apply to each situation and learn to discipline ourselves-" has stimulated child study efforts among the teachers and they are now sharing materials and information at their child study meetings, it was pointed out. Also "further study into the six forces that affect a child's life — 'physical, affectional, cultral, self-development, peer groups, and emotional' — has led the teachers into deeper channels of understanding," a spokesman for the study effort said.

Passman Named To New Post On Subcommittee

WASHINGTON March 13 (Special)—The already powerful weight of the Louisiana Congressional Delegation was strengthened even further Friday when Rep. Otto E. Passman of Monroe accepted his third subcommittee assignment on the House Appropriations Committee.

His new position is that of Ranking Member of the District of Columbia Appropriations Subcommittee.

Negro Women Held In Slaying

LAFAYETTE, La. —UP— Two Negro women were being held in parish jail without bond today, charged with the murder of a Negro baby which was found buried in a shallow grave Thursday.

Juanita Sinegal, 20, the mother, and her sister, Pauline Savoy, 28, were held on murder charges. Voorhies Cormier, 44, Negro, the alleged father, was being held as a material witness.

The Sinegal girl admitted being the mother and said that her sister buried the baby in the back yard after it was born prematurely.

However, police Lt. Howard Benoit and deputy sheriff E. R. Allison said it appeared the baby had been smothered before it was wrapped in an old dress and buried in a crude grave.

Rhodes Scholar Found Dead Near Girl's Dormitory

OXFORD, England, March 12—UP— A brilliant Rhodes scholar from New York City and member of a "dinstinguished" European family was found dead in bushes outside a girl's dormitory Saturday after a date with a woman student.

Police identified the victim as Clement Zimmer, 23, son of a college professor and grandson of a librettist who helped composer Richard Strauss write "Der Rosenkavalier."

An autopsy ruled out the possibility of murder, police said. Officials said a full report would be sent to the coroner and the cause of death probably would be announced at the inquest.

Zimmer, a graduate of the Univerisy of Chicago, was described as a "brilliant young man," studying for a graduate degree in political science at Oxford University's Wadham College.

The youth's end-of-term date Friday night was Miss Pauline Souper, a student at Lady Margaret Hall, the women's college at Oxford. She was questioned by police but her story was not made public.

Because Saturday marked the last day of Oxford's present term police said, there were many parties on and off the campus Friday night.

Police said they believed Zimmer attended one of these parties. But their investigation was handicapped because many students already had left Oxford for the between-semesters holiday.

Zimmer's body, fully clothed, was found by a tennis court attendant en route to work. The body lay in bushes in a courtyard about 100 yards from the girls' college.

Drainage Bond Issue To Be Discussed

LAFAYETTE, La. March 12 — UP— The Lafayette Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet early next week to discuss recommendations made concerning a parishwide drainage bond issue which is expected to go before the voters in April.

The civic affairs committee of the chamber met yesterday with C. A. Bell, district engineer for the state department of public works and discussed the bond issue.

The committee made several recommendations to the board. Vice-president Harry Castille said he probably will call a special meeting of the board early next week to discuss the recommendations.

School Dispute Cases Go To Special Council

LAFAYETTE, La. March 12 — UP— District Attorney Bertrand DeBlanc today turned over to special counsel cases growing out of disputes between the parish school board and Gladu Dupuis, adult education supervisor.

DeBlanc said he advised F. G. Lindsay, school board president, other duties in his district would take up his time and he could not act as attorney for the school board at this time.

The board agreed to hire special counsel for the suit brought against it by Gladu J. Dupuis, whom the board has voted to dismiss as supervisor of adult education.

Lafayette Chamber To Sponsor Contest

LAFAYETTE, La March 12 — UP — The agriculture committee of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce disclosed today its intention to sponsor a contest among all cotton farmers in Lafayette parish this year.

Cash prizes amounting to $300 will be awarded to those farmers who increase their production the most per acre.

U. J. Gajan, chairman of the committee, said "we are trying to encourage our cotton farmers to supplement their income through greater production per acre by using better fertilizer and more efficient planting techniques."

Child Study Work Program Started In Negro Sciools

"Children are mst valuable possessions and they have every right to the full development of human beings," Dr. ohn Green of the Institute of Chd Study and Development at Maryland University, told Negro teachers of Ouachita parish at a recat meeting as he launched a conerted program of child study effos in the local Negro schools.

As a result of Dr Green's visit, terms of what hasbeen done and what could be don to secure information on secial children through six source recommended by Dr. Green, Negro education leaders of the paris have reported.

The six sources isted are school records, intervies with former teachers, collecting and analyzing samples of drawings and writings, life space of the child, home visits and Anecotal records.

Such intensive study of each child is necessary because every child "is an individual unit, cannot be taken apart, and each one matures differently" Dr. Green explained. Behavior is caused by the interplay of all the forces affecting a child's life and teachers must discover children's interests and then capitalize on them as well as create situations that will enable them to develop a sense of belonging, he added.

In many cases, all six of the suggested sources have been explored since Dr. Green's visit, local teachers have reported.

Dr. Green's three basic principles of understanding children, —"discover what research has found, get the facts that apply to each situation and learn to discipline ourselves-" has stimulated child study efforts among the teachers and they are now sharing materials and information at their child study meetings, it was pointed out. Also "further study into the six forces that affect a child's life — 'physical, affectional, cultral, self-development, peer groups, and emotional' — has led the teachers into deeper channels of understanding," a spokesman for the study effort said.

Passman Named To New Post On Subcommittee

WASHINGTON March 13 (Special)—The already powerful weight of the Louisiana Congressional Delegation was strengthened even further Friday when Rep. Otto E. Passman of Monroe accepted his third subcommittee assignment on the House Appropriations Committee.

His new position is that of Ranking Member of the District of Columbia Appropriations Subcommittee.

Negro Women Held In Slaying

LAFAYETTE, La. —UP— Two Negro women were being held in parish jail without bond today, charged with the murder of a Negro baby which was found buried in a shallow grave Thursday.

Juanita Sinegal, 20, the mother, and her sister, Pauline Savoy, 28, were held on murder charges. Voorhies Cormier, 44, Negro, the alleged father, was being held as a material witness.

The Sinegal girl admitted being the mother and said that her sister buried the baby in the back yard after it was born prematurely.

However, police Lt. Howard Benoit and deputy sheriff E. R. Allison said it appeared the baby had been smothered before it was wrapped in an old dress and buried in a crude grave.

School Dispute Cases Go To Special Council

LAFAYETTE, La. March 12 — UP— District Attorney Bertrand DeBlanc today turned over to special counsel cases growing out of disputes between the parish school board and Gladu Dupuis, adult education supervisor.

DeBlanc said he advised F. G. Lindsay, school board president, other duties in his district would take up his time and he could not act as attorney for the school board at this time.

The board agreed to hire special counsel for the suit brought against it by Gladu J. Dupuis, whom the board has voted to dismiss as supervisor of adult education.

Rhodes Scholar Found Dead Near Girl's Dormitory

OXFORD, England, March 12— UP— A brilliant Rhodes scholar from New York City and member of a "dinstinguished" European family was found dead in bushes outside a girl's dormitory Saturday after a date with a woman student.

Police identified the victim as Clement Zimmer, 23, son of a college professor and grandson of a librettist who helped composer Richard Strauss write "Der Rosenkavalier."

An autopsy ruled out the possibility of murder, police said. Officials said a full report would be sent to the coroner and the cause of death probably would be announced at the inquest.

Zimmer, a graduate of the Univerisy of Chicago, was described as a "brilliant young man," studying for a graduate degree in political science at Oxford University's Wadham College.

The youth's end-of-term date Friday night was Miss Pauline Souper, a student at Lady Margaret Hall, the women's college at Oxford. She was questioned by police but her story was not made public.

Because Saturday marked the last day of Oxford's present term police said, there were many parties on and off the campus Friday night.

Police said they believed Zimmer attended one of these parties. But their investigation was handicapped because many students already had left Oxford for the between-semesters holiday.

Zimmer's body, fully clothed, was found by a tennis court attendant en route to work. The body lay in bushes in a courtyard about 100 yards from the girls' college.

Drainage Bond Issue To Be Discussed

LAFAYETTE, La. March 12 — UP— The Lafayette Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet early next week to discuss recommendations made concerning a parishwide drainage bond issue which is expected to go before the voters in April.

The civic affairs committee of the chamber met yesterday with C. A. Bell, district engineer for the state department of public works and discussed the bond issue.

The committee made several recommendations to the board. Vice-president Harry Castille said he probably will call a special meeting of the board early next week to discuss the recommendations.

Lafayette Chamber To Sponsor Contest

LAFAYETTE, La March 12 — UP — The agriculture committee of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce disclosed today its intention to sponsor a contest among all cotton farmers in Lafayette parish this year.

Cash prizes amounting to $300 will be awarded to those farmers who increase their production the most per acre.

U. J. Gajan, chairman of the committee, said "we are trying to encourage our cotton farmers to supplement their income through greater production per acre by using better fertilizer and more efficient planting techniques."

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Ralph "Red" Sims has never been one to seek personal fame or glory. He's just about the most modest guy you could meet, as easy going as they come, and we've never seen him yet in a great hurry of overly excited about anything, but when fellows like this country boy from out Jonesboro road way beyond West Monroe's incorporate limits continually shows the interest in development of youth that this 34-year-old has displayed in the better than ten years that we have had personal dealings with him in his athletic endeavors, he's just bound to pick up a little fame—even if only locally, like his 1954 "Service to Youth Award" from the Optimist Club.

The L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion here is the latest to officially recognize the work of "Red" Sims. The Legion's athletic committee decided he's the man to coach their 1955 Legion Junior baseball team as successor to the departed "Woody" Boyles who has made new connections with Texarkana Junior College.

Sims, who never had the opportunity to participate in such organized baseball sports as Legion ball, Little League, Babe Ruth League, or even high school, although a Ouachita Parish High graduate, has nevertheless shown baseball ability in various local amateur and semi-pro leagues, but his recognition comes from being a leader. He has managed, coached and played in such semi-pro and amateur circuits as the old North Louisiana League, the Little Eight, and the Big Eight. Then he turned his attention to the kids wholeheartedly a few years ago, managing Little League and Little Bigger (Babe Ruth) League teams, and winning championships, too. So "Red" is winning promotion via the Legion Junior route.

Clarence Cook, the Oak Grove welterweight, meets his 16th professional ring test here tomorrow night against Guy Guerrette, Hartford, Conn., a battler with a record of 30 pro wins (19 by knockouts) and a lone draw against eight losses. A victory by the lean West Carroll puncher can earn himself a shot at bigger game. "He can have Del Flanagan or El Conscripto, the latter champion of Mexico, either one he wants," declared Promoter Gus Kallio. "So often it's said a local boy never really gets a chance, but if Cook can beat Guerrette I'll offer him that chance. Flanagan or Conscripto. I'll make them guarantees they'll accept to come here."

There has been a lot of feverish activity in wildlife circles to do something about water conservation and preservation of wetlands, a theme that will be the keynote of the 1955 National Wildlife Week. The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission comes out with the following subject, which we pass along:

"The sponsors of National Wildlife Week have asked us to consider the value of a swamp. This is not as quixotic a notion as, at first thought, it might seem. The scientists who study the relationship of living things, including man, to each other and to their environment, tell us that in nature's design there is no such thing as "waste land." One of the things that make America a rich and stimulating country, they suggest, is the variety of its land forms. Perhaps we need an Atchafalaya and the delta marshes as well as the rice and cotton fields.

"As a matter of fact, a swamp is one of nature's more productive kinds of land. The literature and history of America contain many references to the vegetative prolificacy and wildlife abundance of its swamps and marshes. Originally there were some 120 million acres of such 'wetlands' in what is now the United States. Fewer than 30 million acres remain that are fit for a mallard to live in. The rest have been drained, poisoned by pollution, or otherwise destroyed by the manipulations of man.

"From those 'wetlands' came the once great flights of wild fowl that 'darkened the sun' and inspired Audubon and other pioneer observers. From the 'wetlands' that remain come the flights of wild ducks and geese of today, such as they are.

"Marsh, swamp, slough and stream-course are havens also for many other kinds of wildlife. Ninety-five per cent of the annual fur harvest is trapped from the 'wetlands.' An acre of marsh in Louisiana may yield $25 or more per year in muskrat pelts—more than the same acre might yield in farm crops if drained and put to the plow.

"A great deal of our best hunting and fishing is dependent upon, or to be found in, the so-called 'wetlands.' It is difficult to tie a price tag on outdoor recreation in this day of indoor pressures, but, for the record, the $9 billion per year spent by American sportsmen rings several cash registers $60 million in Louisiana.

The point being made by the National Wildlife Federation and affiliated conservation groups this week is that all the swamps and marshes should not be drained because America needs to keep some of its 'wetlands.'

"Yes, a swamp or marsh may have great value, extending its benefits through the north-south length of a waterfowl flyway. We think the conservationists have a point in their Wildlife Week theme. We question with them the wisdom of using taxpayers' money to subsidize new farm drainage in this period of perplexing crop surpluses. It is costing the taxpayers enough to store the surpluses. We recommend also that Congress look twice at every drainage project proposed by construction agencies. Let's make certain the public benefits will actually outweigh the damages before sending more of our dwindling wetlands down the ditches."

Cook Accepts Guerrette Test Tomorrow

Oak Grove's Ace Faces KO Artist In Kallio's Ring

Clarence Cook, the welterweight pride of Oak Grove and north Louisiana, and Guy "Rocky" Guerrette, Hartford, Conn., veteran of 39 professional battles, meet in a ten-round main event at Gus Kallio's Arena here tomorrow night in a match in which both fighters are risking their chances of better ranking in the welterweight division.

Guerrette, who has lost only eight out of his 39 pro battles and won 19 of his dates by knockouts, is considered plenty test for Cook who has been looking forward to a meeting with high - ranked Del Flanagan. Promoter Kallio, who has already been in communication with Flanagan's manager, said he would rather see Cook take one more good test before going against a battler of Flanagan's caliber.

"Some fans may think Cook has been matched with too strong a boy in Guerrette, but I would rather be promoting him against the Hartford boxer than Flanagan at this time. If he beats Guerrette, he can have Flanagan next if he wants him."

The Cook - Guerrette feature will have a supporting card of four other matches, including a six - rounder and three four - round events. A five - man battle royal is set for the early customers until the fight card officially begins at 8 o'clock.

Opening the preliminaries will be the following four - round bouts:

Earl Pardon, Bastrop, vs. Ruhl Brumley, Oak Grove.

Paul Farrar, Farmerville , vs. Ray Stewart, Bastrop.

Jimmy Fields, Farmerville, vs. Jimmy Coleman, Shreveport.

The six - round semi - final had "Tornado Henry" Burton, Negro middleweight of Monroe, matched against "Wildman" Don of Shreveport.

The Cook - Guerrette bout developed when the Connecticut mauler, said to be a miniature production of Rocky Marciano, the heavyweight champ, defeated Tino Longoria at Galveston, Tex., recently. Longoria was also decisioned by Cook in his last bout here in November.

From Houston, Tex., where Guerrette has been preparing for Cook comes word that the Hartford boy has no fear of Cook's superior reach, is confident he can beat the less experienced Oak Grove battler, and will be trying for a knockout.

"I hear this Cook is a lanky comer with a long reach," starts the confab from Guerrette, "but his reach will have nothing to do with it—one good righthand shot to the jaw will be the equalizer.

"And, as for Cook having a chance to win, I can't see anyone with but 15 pro fights beating me, and they tell me that's all the experience he has.

"I always think I'll win by a knockout, and with an inexperienced boy like Cook, I figure to flatten him. He may give me a little trouble, but I believe I'll be too strong for him and too good a puncher."

COOK'S RIVAL — Guy Guerrette (above) veteran Hartford, Conn., welterweight goes after his 31st ring victory in 40 fights (one went to a draw) when he meets Clarence Cook, Oak Grove, over the ten-round route at Gus Kallio's Arena here tomorrow night. It's the 16th pro match for Cook.

Contenders will have until next Sunday to get in their second round matches.

Winnsboro Girls Beat Tioga, Take 2nd Title In Row

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12 (Special) The Winsboro High School girls won their second straight Louisiana state Class A basketball championship here tonight by defeating Tioga in the finals, 39 to 38, and the Franklin parish sextet placed three players on the all-tournament team.

Winnsboro, led by Glenda Bennett with 27 points, jumped into a 10-9 first quarter lead, enjoyed a 23-15 edge at the half, and was ahead 36-29 in the last quarter when Tioga made a fruitless bid to catch the champs. Sue Robertson's 16 points led Tioga.

Denham Springs won third place by defeating Franklinton, 48-40, in the consolation game. In the morning semi-finals, Winnsboro beat Denham Springs, 34-16, and Tioga stopped Franklinton, 38-32.

The all-tourney selections:

Guards—Geneva Williams, Winnsboro; Allen and Jones, Franklinton; Nugent and Graves, Tioga; ond Williams, Denham Springs.

It was the second state championship within a week for a girl's team from Franklin parish. The Baskin High girls won their eighth straight Class B championship a week ago.

Steeler Q'back Inks 1955 Grid Contract

PITTSBURG, March 12 (AP) — Quarterback Jimmy Finks, who has played six straight seasons for the Pittsburg Steelers of the National Football League, today signed a contract for the 1955 season.

During his first three years with the Steelers, Finks played defensive back. In 1952, when the Steelers switched their offensive from the single - wing to the T- formation, Fink was transferred to the quarterback slot. He has been quarterbacking ever since.

Ezio Easily Captures Providence Handicap

LINCOLN, R. I., March 12 (AP)—T. P. Morgan's Ezio, winner of last Saturday's Inaugural Handicap of seven furlongs, today had no trouble carrying weight another furlong as he won the $10,000 Providence Handicap by 12 lengths at Lincoln Downs.

Favored at 2 to 1 by the crowd of 26,236 the 4 - year - old Gallant Duke colt toyed with the small field as he finished the mile on a heavy track in 1:42 4-5, just romping along ahead of W. G. Morton's Fife And Drum.

Ezio paid $5, $3.40 and $2.20 with Fife And Drum returning $5.20 and $2.60. Third went to the Bank Coal, half of an entry from the Red Head stable, who was two lengths further back. The entry paid $2.20 to show.

Billikens On Record Run To Claim N. I. T. Opener

NEW YORK March 12 (AP) —A smart, well-drilled St. Louis University basketball team, lead by handsome Dick Boushka, shattered the National Invitation Tournament and Madison Square Garden college scoring records tonight as it routed Connecticut 110-103 with an unstoppable second half burst. St. Louis thus joined St. Francis (Pa.), Niagara and Louisville in the quarter-finals.

The N.I.T. record of 97 points was set by DePaul, with George Mikan starring 10 years ago. It was broken more than five minutes before the finish. The Billikens then went on to smash the Garden mark of 104 points set by U.C.L.A. against Dayton last December.

Boushka, who tallied 32 points, sank the second record-breaking field goal about a minute before the finish.

The two teams also shattered the record for a one-game collegiate total in a Garden game with 213 points. The old one was made when Seattle beat N.Y.U. 102-101 in 1952.

Still another record fell with St. Louis' 63 points in the second half. The Bills had set the old one-half scoring mark with 62 against N.Y.U. in 1953.

The St. Louis victory came after little St. Francis and its big star, Maurice Stokes, had trimmed Seton Hall, 89-78, in the opener of tonight's doubleheader. In the afternoon, Louisville turned back scrappy Manhattan, 91-86, and Niagara ended Lafayette's 20-game collegiate winning streak with an easy 83-70 victory.

Today's games set up these pairings for the quarter-final games: Louisville vs. top - seeded Duquesne and Niagara vs. fourth-seeded Cincinnati on Monday. St. Louis vs. second - deeded Dayton and St. Francis vs. the defending champion Holy Cross on Tuesday. The four seeded teams drew first round byes.

N.A.I.A. Cage Title Goes To East Texas

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (AP) —The East Texas State Lions of Commerce, with center Jim Miller scoring 27 points and mastering both backboards, put the Southeastern Oklahoma Savages' fabulous scoring in deep freeze to win the National Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament 71 to 54 tonight.

Central, Ogden, Baskin, Ruston Teams Winners

OGDEN, La., March 12 (Special) —Teams from Central, Ogden, Baskin, and Ruston won championships at the annual Charles Hawsey Memorial Basketball Tournament for independent and undergraduate high school teams here tonight.

In the independent section of the meet, the Baskin girls defeated Louisiana Business College of Monroe, 54-39, and the Ruston Hot Shots won in the men's division over Pepsi - Cola of Monroe, 73-61.

The high school finals saw Central's girls whip Crowville, 57-29, and Ogden's boys stop Mangham, 80-47.

In earlier games of the day, the Fort Necessity high school boys beat Kilbourne, 65-47; Ogden High boys beat Fort Necessity, 71-54; and the Central High girls beat Delhi, 47-30.

Minden Defeats Jena, 79-66, For State AA Crown

JENA, La., March 12 (Special) The Minden High School quintet won the state Class AA basketball championship here tonight, by defeating the Jena High Giants, 79-66, in a first half thriller.

Jena led by one point at the close the first period, and the visitors gained a 33-32 halftime margin. But in the third and fourth, Minden scored outscored Jena by 12 points to ice the verdict.

Jack Moreland, Minden pivotman was the outstanding point-maker for the winners, with 12 goals and 15 free throws, for a 39 total. Ronald Manchester led Jena in the scoring department, with 14, followed by Jack Tarver, with 12; Marion Stewart, with 11, and F. Holt, with 13.

Pin Oak's Roman Patrol Claims Louisiana Derby

By ED TUNTALL

NEW ORLEANS, March 12 (AP)—Pin Oak farm's hevily favored Roman Patrol outclased his field with a four-length victory in the $49,000 Louisiana Derby today and became a leading contender for the Kentucky Derby.

The handsome son of Roman took command from J. G. Babbitz' Speed Rouser at the top of the stretch and left the field strung out behind him. Speed Rouser lasted to take second with Clearwater stable's Poertsville taking the show spot.

The crowd of 19,145 installed Roman Patrol as an even money favorite in the 10-horse field. He returned $4.20, $3.20 and $3.20.

Speed Rouser paid $8.20 and $5.40 with Poertersville returning $5.40 for the show spot.

Roman Patrol sped over the mile and one eighth test in 1:49 4-5ths, one fifth of a second off the track record.

The victory vaulted Roman Patrol into prime contention for the Kentucky Derby in May since today's "run for the orchids" is considered one of winter racing's top preps for three-year-olds.

Roman Patrol stayed close to the early pace as Woodley Lane farms' Blue Quest cut out the first quarter in a sizzling 23 1-5th seconds and reached the half-mile mark in 46 4-5th seconds.

Roman Patrol's backers had some anxious moments when Blue Quest opened up a commanding lead in the back stretch but Roman Patrol erased any fears when jockey Doug Dodson gave him the green light at the top of the final turn.

Wagering on the derby reached $131,276, an all time high for a single race at the Fair Grounds.

Jockey Ray Broussard, the nation's leading rider, booted in his one hundredth winner of the meeting on Nu Cole in the second race.

It was the first time in Fair Grounds history that a jockey had won 100 races in one meeting.

In a day of broken records, the daily double handle of $69,362 set a track standard, eclipsing the $56,830 wagered last Saturday. Frivolity ($7.40), winner of the first race and Nu Cole ($4) combined for a $17.20 daily double payoff.

Cook Accepts Guerrette Test Tomorrow

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Ralph "Red" Sims has never been one to seek personal fame or glory. He's just about the most modest guy you could meet, as easy going as they come, and we've never seen him yet in a great hurry of overly excited about anything, but when fellows like this country boy from out Jonesboro road way beyond West Monroe's incorporate limits continually shows the interest in development of youth that this 34-year-old has displayed in the better than ten years that we have had personal dealings with him in his athletic endeavors, he's just bound to pick up a little fame—even if only locally, like his 1954 "Service to Youth Award'" from the Optimist Club.

The L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion here is the latest to officially recognize the work of "Red" Sims. The Legion's athletic committee decided he's the man to coach their 1955 Legion Junior baseball team as successor to the departed "Woody" Boyles who has made new connections with Texarkana Junior College.

Sims, who never had the opportunity to participate in such organized baseball sports as Legion ball, Little League, Babe Ruth League, or even high school, although a Ouachita Parish High graduate, has nevertheless shown baseball ability in various local amateur and semi-pro leagues, but his recognition comes from being a leader. He has managed, coached and played in such semi-pro and amateur circuits as the old North Louisiana League, the Little Eight, and the Big Eight. Then he turned his attention to the kids wholeheartedly a few years ago, managing Little League and Little Bigger (Babe Ruth) League teams, and winning championships, too. So "Red" is winning promotion via the Legion Junior route.

Clarence Cook, the Oak Grove welterweight, meets his 16th professional ring test here tomorrow night against Guy Guerrette, Hartford, Conn., a battler with a record of 30 pro wins (19 by knockouts) and a lone draw against eight losses. A victory by the lean West Carroll puncher can earn himself a shot at bigger game. "He can have Del Flanagan or El Conscripto, the latter champion of Mexico, either one he wants," declared Promoter Gus Kallio. "So often it's said a local boy never really gets a chance, but if Cook can beat Guerrette I'll offer him that chance. Flanagan or Conscripto. I'll make them guarantees they'll accept to come here."

There has been a lot of feverish activity in wildlife circles to do something about water conservation and preservation of wetlands, a theme that will be the keynote of the 1955 National Wildlife Week. The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission comes out with the following subject, which we pass along:

"The sponsors of National Wildlife Week have asked us to consider the value of a swamp. This is not as quixotic a notion as, at first thought, it might seem. The scientists who study the relationship of living things, including man, to each other and to their environment, tell us that in nature's design there is no such thing as "waste land." One of the things that make America a rich and stimulating country, they suggest, is the variety of its land forms. Perhaps we need an Atchafalaya and the delta marshes as well as the rice and cotton fields.

"As a matter of fact, a swamp is one of nature's more productive kinds of land. The literature and history of America contain many references to the vegetative prolificacy and wildlife abundance of its swamps and marshes. Originally there were some 120 million acres of such 'wetlands' in what is now the United States. Fewer than 30 million acres remain that are fit for a mallard to live in. The rest have been drained, poisoned by pollution, or otherwise destroyed by the manipulations of man.

"From those 'wetlands' came the once great flights of wild fowl that 'darkened the sun' and inspired Audubon and other pioneer observers. From the 'wetlands' that remain come the flights of wild ducks and geese of today, such as they are.

"Marsh, swamp, slough and stream-course are havens also for many other kinds of wildlife. Ninety-five per cent of the annual fur harvest is trapped from the 'wetlands.' An acre of marsh in Louisiana may yield $25 or more per year in muskrat pelts—more than the same acre might yield in farm crops if drained and put to the plow.

"A great deal of our best hunting and fishing is dependent upon, or to be found in, the so-called 'wetlands.' It is difficult to tie a price tag on outdoor recreation in this day of indoor pressures, but, for the record, the $9 billion per year spent by American sportsmen rings several cash registers $60 million in Louisiana.

The point being made by the National Wildlife Federation and affiliated conservation groups this week is that all the swamps and marshes should not be drained because America needs to keep some of its 'wetlands.'

"Yes, a swamp or marsh may have great value, extending its benefits through the north-south length of a waterfowl flyway. We think the conservationists have a point in their Wildlife Week theme. We question with them the wisdom of using taxpayers' money to subsidize new farm drainage in this period of perplexing crop surpluses. It is costing the taxpayers enough to store the surpluses. We recommend also that Congress look twice at every drainage project proposed by construction agencies. Let's make certain the public benefits will actually outweigh the damages before sending more of our dwindling wetlands down the ditches."

Oak Grove's Ace Faces KO Artist In Kallio's Ring

Clarence Cook, the welterweight pride of Oak Grove and north Louisiana, and Guy "Rocky" Guerrette, Hartford, Conn., veteran of 39 professional battles, meet in a ten-round main event at Gus Kallio's Arena here tomorrow night in a match in which both fighters are risking their chances of better ranking in the welterweight division.

Guerrette, who has lost only eight out of his 39 pro battles and won 19 of his dates by knockouts, is considered plenty test for Cook who has been looking forward to a meeting with high - ranked Del Flanagan. Promoter Kallio, who has already been in communication with Flanagan's manager, said he would rather see Cook take one more good test before going against a battler of Flanagan's caliber.

"Some fans may think Cook has been matched with too strong a boy in Guerrette, but I would rather be promoting him against the Hartford boxer than Flanagan at this time. If he beats Guerrette, he can have Flanagan next if he wants him."

The Cook - Guerrette feature will have a supporting card of four other matches, including a six - rounder and three four - round events. A five - man battle royal is set for the early customers until the fight card officially begins at 8 o'clock.

Opening the preliminaries will be the following four - round bouts:

Earl Pardon, Bastrop, vs. Ruhl Brumley, Oak Grove.

Paul Farrar, Farmerville , vs. Ray Stewart, Bastrop.

Jimmy Fields, Farmerville, vs. Jimmy Coleman, Shreveport.

The six - round semi - final had "Tornado Henry" Burton, Negro middleweight of Monroe, matched against "Wildman" Don of Shreveport.

The Cook - Guerrette bout developed when the Connecticut mauler, said to be a miniature production of Rocky Marciano, the heavyweight champ, defeated Tino Longoria at Galveston, Tex., recently. Longoria was also decisioned by Cook in his last bout here in November.

From Houston, Tex., where Guerrette has been preparing for Cook comes word that the Hartford boy has no fear of Cook's superior reach, is confident he can beat the less experienced Oak Grove battler, and will be trying for a knockout.

"I hear this Cook is a lanky comer with a long reach," starts the confab from Guerrette, "but his reach will have nothing to do with it—one good righthand shot to the jaw will be the equalizer.

"And, as for Cook having a chance to win, I can't see anyone with but 15 pro fights beating me, and they tell me that's all the experience he has.

"I always think I'll win by a knockout, and with an inexperienced boy like Cook, I figure to flatten him. He may give me a little trouble, but I believe I'll be too strong for him and too good a puncher."

COOK'S RIVAL — Guy Guerrette (above) veteran Hartford, Conn., welterweight goes after his 31st ring victory in 40 fights (one went to a draw) when he meets Clarence Cook, Oak Grove, over the ten-round route at Gus Kallio's Arena here tomorrow night. It's the 16th pro match for Cook.

Contenders will have until next Sunday to get in their second round matches.

Winnsboro Girls Beat Tioga, Take 2nd Title In Row

BATON ROUGE, La., March 12 (Special) The Winsboro High School girls won their second straight Louisiana state Class A basketball championship here tonight by defeating Tioga in the finals, 39 to 38, and the Franklin parish sextet placed three players on the all-tournament team.

Winnsboro, led by Glenda Bennett with 27 points, jumped into a 10-9 first quarter lead, enjoyed a 23-15 edge at the half, and was ahead 36-29 in the last quarter when Tioga made a fruitless bid to catch the champs. Sue Robertson's 16 points led Tioga.

Denham Springs won third place by defeating Franklinton, 48-40, in the consolation game. In the morning semi-finals, Winnsboro beat Denham Springs, 34-16, and Tioga stopped Franklinton, 38-32.

The all-tourney selections:

Guards—Geneva Williams, Winnsboro; Allen and Jones, Franklinton; Nugent and Graves, Tioga; ond Williams, Denham Springs.

It was the second state championship within a week for a girl's team from Franklin parish. The Baskin High girls won their eighth straight Class B championship a week ago.

Steeler Q'back Inks 1955 Grid Contract

PITTSBURG, March 12 (AP) — Quarterback Jimmy Finks, who has played six straight seasons for the Pittsburg Steelers of the National Football League, today signed a contract for the 1955 season.

During his first three years with the Steelers, Finks played defensive back. In 1952, when the Steelers switched their offensive from the single - wing to the T- formation, Fink was transferred to the quarterback slot. He has been quarterbacking ever since.

Ezio Easily Captures Providence Handicap

LINCOLN, R. I., March 12 (AP)—T. P. Morgan's Ezio, winner of last Saturday's Inaugural Handicap of seven furlongs, today had no trouble carrying weight another furlong as he won the $10,000 Providence Handicap by 12 lengths at Lincoln Downs.

Favored at 2 to 1 by the crowd of 26,236 the 4 - year - old Gallant Duke colt toyed with the small field as he finished the mile on a heavy track in 1:42 4-5, just romping along ahead of W. G. Morton's Fife And Drum.

Ezio paid $5, $3.40 and $2.20 with Fife And Drum returning $5.20 and $2.60. Third went to the Bank Coal, half of an entry from the Red Head stable, who was two lengths further back. The entry paid $2.20 to show.

Billikens On Record Run To Claim N. I. T. Opener

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP) —A smart, well-drilled St. Louis University basketball team, lead by handsome Dick Boushka, shattered the National Invitation Tournament and Madison Square Garden college scoring records tonight as it routed Connecticut 110-103 with an unstoppable second half burst. St. Louis thus joined St. Francis (Pa.), Niagara and Louisville in the quarter-finals.

The N.I.T. record of 97 points was set by DePaul, with George Mikan starring 10 years ago. It was broken more than five minutes before the finish. The Billikens then went on to smash the Garden mark of 104 points set by U.C.L.A. against Dayton last December.

Boushka, who tallied 32 points, sank the second record-breaking field goal about a minute before the finish.

The two teams also shattered the record for a one-game collegiate total in a Garden game with 213 points. The old one was made when Seattle beat N.Y.U. 102-101 in 1952.

Still another record fell with St. Louis' 63 points in the second half. The Bills had set the old one-half scoring mark with 62 against N.Y.U. in 1953.

The St. Louis victory came after little St. Francis and its big star, Maurice Stokes, had trimmed Seton Hall, 89-78, in the opener of tonight's doubleheader. In the afternoon, Louisville turned back scrappy Manhattan, 91-86, and Niagara ended Lafayette's 20-game collegiate winning streak with an easy 83-70 victory.

Today's games set up these pairings for the quarter-final games: Louisville vs. top - seeded Duquesne and Niagara vs. fourth-seeded Cincinnati on Monday. St. Louis vs. second - deeded Dayton and St. Francis vs. the defending champion Holy Cross on Tuesday. The four seeded teams drew first round byes.

N.A.I.A. Cage Title Goes To East Texas

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (AP) —The East Texas State Lions of Commerce, with center Jim Miller scoring 27 points and mastering both backboards, put the Southeastern Oklahoma Savages' fabulous scoring in deep freeze to win the National Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament 71 to 54 tonight.

Central, Ogden, Baskin, Ruston Teams Winners

OGDEN, La., March 12 (Special) —Teams from Central, Ogden, Baskin, and Ruston won championships at the annual Charles Hawsey Memorial Basketball Tournament for independent and undergraduate high school teams here tonight.

In the independent section of the meet, the Baskin girls defeated Louisiana Business College of Monroe, 54-39, and the Ruston Hot Shots won in the men's division over Pepsi - Cola of Monroe, 73-61.

The high school finals saw Central's girls whip Crowville, 57-29, and Ogden's boys stop Mangham, 80-47.

In earlier games of the day, the Fort Necessity high school boys beat Kilbourne, 65-47; Ogden High boys beat Fort Necessity, 71-54; and the Central High girls beat Delhi, 47-30.

Minder Defeats Jena, 79-66, For State AA Crown

JENA, La., March 12 (Special) The Minden High School quintet won the state Class AA basketball championship here tonight, by defeating the Jena High Giants, 79-66, in a first half thriller.

Jena led by one point at the close the first period, and the visitors gained a 33-32 halftime margin. But in the third and fourth, Minden scored outscored Jena by 12 points to ice the verdict.

Jack Moreland, Minden pivotman was the outstanding point-maker for the winners, with 12 goals and 15 free throws, for a 39 total. Ronald Manchester led Jena in the scoring department, with 14, followed by Jack Tarver, with 12; Marion Stewart, with 11, and F. Holt, with 13.

Pin Oak's Roman Patrol Claims Louisiana Derby

By ED TUNTALL

NEW ORLEANS, March 12 (AP)—Pin Oak farm's hevily favored Roman Patrol outclased his field with a four-length victory in the $49,000 Louisiana Dery today and became a leading contender for the Kentucky Derby.

The handsome son of Roman took command from S. G. Babbitz' Speed Rouser at the top of the stretch and left the field strung out behind him. Speed Rouser lasted to take second with Clearwater stable's Poertsville taking the show spot.

The crowd of 19,145 installed Roman Patrol as an even money favorite in the 10-horse field. He returned $4.20, $3.20 and $3.20.

Speed Rouser paid $8.20 and $5.40 with Poertersville returning $5.40 for the show spot.

Roman Patrol sped over the mile and one eighth test in 1:49 4-5ths, one fifth of a second off the track record.

The victory vaulted Roman Patrol into prime contention for the Kentucky Derby in May since today's "run for the orchids" is considered one of winter racing's top preps for three-year-olds.

Roman Patrol stayed close to the early pace as Woodley Lane farms' Blue Quest cut out the first quarter in a sizzling 23 1-5th seconds and reached the half-mile mark in 46 4-5th seconds.

Roman Patrol's backers had some anxious moments when Blue Quest opened up a commanding lead in the back stretch but Roman Patrol erased any fears when jockey Doug Dodson gave him the green light at the top of the final turn.

Wagering on the derby reached $131,276, an all time high for a single race at the Fair Grounds.

Jockey Ray Broussard, the nation's leading rider, booted in his one hundredth winner of the meeting on Nu Cole in the second race.

It was the first time in Fair Grounds history that a jockey had won 100 races in one meeting.

In a day of broken records, the daily double handle of $89,362 set a track standard, eclipsing the $56,30 wagered last Saturday. Frivolity ($7.40), winner of the first race and Nu Cole ($4) combined for a $17.20 daily double payof

Jim Corbett Accepted As L. S. U. Athletic Director

Former Publicity Man Gets 5-Year Pact At $10,000

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, March 12 (AP)—Louisiana State University today named James J. Corbett, a former LSU sports publicity chief, athletic director to replace T. P. Heard.

The LSU board of supervisors gave Corbett a five-year contract at $10,000 per year.

The 35-year-old Corbett, a native of Boston and a distant relative of the late heavyweight champion, will leave his job as sports coordinator for the National Broadcasting Company about April 1 to take over at LSU.

Heard and head football coach Gaynell Tinsley were relieved of their duties by the board Feb. 5. Tinsley, head coach for seven seasons, will be paid off on the last two years of his contract. Heard goes on a year's leave of absence at the end of the spring term prior to retirement after 23 years as athletic director.

In other action, the board approved three changes in the football coaching staff recommended by Paul Dietzel, former Army line coach named Feb. 16 to replace Tinsley. The changes were:

1. Terminated the services of line coach Will Walls effective Feb. 18. Walls will be paid until his contract ends Jan. 31, 1956 at his $7,000 salary.

2. Hired Bill Peterson, former Mansfield, Ohio, High School coach effective Feb. 26 to replace Walls at a $7,000 yearly salary.

3. Raised the salary of Charles McClendon, picked by Dietzel as his top assistant, from $7,000 to $8,500.

Corbett entered Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond in 1939, left it to join the Marines in 1942 and returned to finish up in 1944 after he received a medical discharge from the Marine Corps.

He graduated from Southeastern in 1944 and joined the Associated Press staff in New Orleans. He soon was transferred to Baton Rouge and became LSU athletic publicity director in 1945.

Corbett left LSU in 1947 for a public relations post with a frozen food company in Ponchatoula, La., but returned to Baton Rouge and LSU in 1950.

In 1952, he was borrowed by NBC to act as liaison man between the network and the NCAA in the football television "Game of the Week" program.

After a year on leave of absence, Corbett returned to LSU but left early in 1954 for his present job with the radio and television network.

Sterling Gladden, chairman of the six-man screening committee which selected Corbett, said the joint athletic committee was unanimous in his selection.

The joint athletic committee, named to find a new athletic director and football coach, was composed of the LSU athletic council and the board committee and athletic and student activities.

The vote by the board also was unanimous. Corbett's name led every list of candidates and topped all speculation, despite the fact he made no formal application for the job.

The only note of conflict in the board session came when Cangelosi objected to the proposed raise for McClendon.

Cangelosi suggested the raise be limited to $8,000 but his motion died for lack of a second.

However, Mrs. Margaret Dixon and Mrs. Ella Schwing, the two women board members, joined Cangelosi in opposing the raise. They were against any boost in McClendon's pay, despite the fact he would have additional duties.

Mrs. Schwing, a former faculty member, said she knew many faculty members who had taken on extra duties "without one cent of extra pay."

Mrs. Dixon said, "I think he should be paid his present salary until the end of his contract."

Defending the pay hike, Gladden said coaching was a "hazardous" job and "in a different category than teaching."

The raise was approved on an 8-3 vote with Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Schwing and Cangelosi opposing.

Patty Berg Keeps One Stroke Lead For Titleholders

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 12 (AP)—Veteran Patty Berg, shooting for her sixth Women's Titleholders golf crown, posted a steady 74 today and clung to her one-stroke lead over freshman pro Mary Lena Faulk after 54 holes of the Blue-Ribbon tournament.

Red-haired Patty, who has won far more tournaments than any of the other women golfers, had a 218 aggregate after three rounds on the tough, 6,270-yard Augusta Country Club course. The St. Andrews, Ill., slammer's total was a new record for 54 holes, bettering the 220 shot by winner Louise Suggs in the first three tours a year ago.

Miss Faulk, one time National Amateur Champion, matched Patty's 74—two over men's par—and her 219 kept her in the runnerup spot for the third straight day.

Betsy Rawls, veteran from Spartanburg, S. C., soared to 78 as capricious winds gave the girls considerable trouble. She retained third place, however, with a total of 224.

Jackie Pung, Honolulu, carded a 79 for 226 and a fourth-place tie with Marlene Bauer, who parred the front nine today but was in constant trouble after the turn and needed 41 strokes on the last nine.

Ten strokes back after a miserable 40-40—80 for a 228 total was defending champion Suggs. Sleepless nights brought on by hay fever finally took their toll from the Sea Island, Ga., pro whose 71 made her the first day leader in the $5,000 meet.

Babe Zaharias, Tampa, another ailing member of the "big three", which has won 10 of the previous 15 tournaments, here, shared sixth ranking with Miss Suggs after an erratic third-round 78. The Babe missed two tournaments prior to this one with a heavy cold and fever. She has appeared tired here.

The leaders:

Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., 76-68-74—218.

Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., 72-73-74—219.

Rising Cost Of Shotgun Shells Promised Airing

By DION HENDERSON
The Associated Press

Are increases in the price of shotgun shells — hit by 15 separate boosts since 1946 — putting the cost of America's grand old sport of wingshooting beyond the reach of many shotgun enthusiasts?

Yes, say spokesmen for 10 of 12 major gun clubs around the country, queried in a random sampling by the Associated Press.

Their comment came as Rep. Reuss (D-Wis.) said in Washington that fair trade commission chairman Edward F. Howrey had advised him F.T.C. would undertake the investigation into the shell pricing situation as requested by Reuss.

In a formal complaint to Howery, Reuss declared that the 15 increases came with the competing U. S. ammunition companies usually raising prices almost simultaneously, indicating what he called "A deliberately unlawful system."

Meanwhile, these were some of the comments from important trap and skeet clubs, which use millions of shells in year-around firing at clay birds:

W. R. Beamish, president of the Twin City-Hopkins Gun Club at Minneapolis said, "Shotgun shell manufacturers are pricing both professional and amateur shooters out of the target sport. High prices have caused the number of shooters to dwindle to near nothing. Youngsters can't afford to use established facilities to learn intelligent use of firearms."

Beamish said that many members of his club had taken up reloading used shotgun hulls with newly marketed devices similar in use to those used by rifle hobbyists for years in handloading.

At Seattle, custodian Al Bonner of the Seattle Gun Club said that some members there also have taken up reloading, but that the "average shooter" has quit club activity because of the cost of shells.

A spokesman at Chicago's Lincoln Park Gun Club said many members were "pretty sore" at recent increases and favored the F.T.C. inquiry. Club members who have taken up reloading there report savings of $1 a box.

Factory trap loads now cost about $2.60 for 25 at club prices. Heavy hunting loads for a 12 gauge shotgun run about $1 higher retail.

Stewart Nevius, president of the Aqua Sierra Sportsmen's Club in Los Angeles, which he described as the largest private trap and skeet club in southern California with 200 members and 10 shooting layouts, declared, "They're just pricing shells right out of existence."

Although there's no club reloading as such, Nevius said, reloading by individuals "has increased a thousandfold over the past year. Cleaning up after a shot was getting to be a problem. Now with so many fellows reloading we don't have to worry—old cases are more or less allocated like nylons during the war." Savings run about $1 a box there too, Nevius added.

With 274 members of the Waukesha Gun Club—Wisconsin's largest, using 300,000 shells last year—voting on the question of future shell supplies this week, only 29 wanted to continue using U. S. factory loads. Of the voters, 93 favored importing foreign shells at a saving of 40 cents a box, 99 wanted reloading done as a club basis, at a similar savings. The remaining 57 held for another brand of foreign shell at a 20-cent saving.

On the other hand, B. B. Lot-

80 Cars To Start In Florida Grand Prix Race Today

SEBRING, Fla., March 12 (AP)—At 9 a.m. (CST) tomorrow, the flash of the starter's green flag will send 80 of the fastest sports cars in competition roaring away from the starting line in Florida's famous International Grand Prix of Endurance.

Before the brutal test of a man's nerves and a machine's durability ends in darkness 12 hours later, half of the fleet cars will have been abandoned in their pits—crippled by the hot and dangerous pace.

The deafening whine of powerful motors will shatter the traditional quiet of this small city in the heart of Florida's orange groves and will be heard around the world, for to sportsmen overseas this is the No. 1 sports event in the United States.

No gold is offered but famous drivers come from all over Europe and South America to compete in the Sebring race.

Their goal is the coveted points offered toward the world sports car championship. This is the only race in the U. S. in which such points can be earned. There are seven others — in Italy, Germany, France, Sicily, England, Mexico and Argentina.

Favored to grab the lion's share of the honors are the world-champion Ferraris from Italy in the unlimited class and in the smaller divisions, the giant-killing Oscas of Italy and the tough Porsches of Germany. British champion Stirling Moss drove one of the tiny Oscas to a startling triumph here last year when mechanical difficulties knocked the bigger cars out of the race.

A popular favorite to win the overall championship is a jet-black Ferrari owned by the Marquis De Portago daring, 27 - year - old Spanish sportsman. The Marquis will share wheel time with the reckless Italian ace, Umberto (Mad Man) Maglioli.

Another closely - watched Ferrari will be that of Luigi Chinetti of New York. It will be handled by the Italian veteran, Piero Taruffi, and Harry Schell of France. In one of the 10 other Ferraris will be the No. 1 American amateur wheelman, Jim Kimberly of Chicago.

Because the U. S. automobile industry hasn't gone in for sports car production, European cars and drivers have dominated the world's race courses. But one American, Briggs Cunningham, has been offering a growing challenge to European supremacy.

A Cunningham - built car won the Sebring race two years ago and a brand new one, the C6-R, will make its debut in tomorrow's grind. On this car rests the Palm Beach automotive genius's hopes of making a successful invasion of the continent this year.

Stan Musial is the only active player in the National League who has made more more than 2,000 base hits. He has 2,418.

African Giant Plans Bid For World's Boxing Title

By BERT JOHNSON

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 12 (AP)— "The Colossus of the Maize (corn) Fields"—that's what fans call the 7-foot 2-inch 310-pound South African who is aiming at the world heavyweight boxing crown.

His name is Ewart Frederick Potgieter. He's won five fights so far, and no opponent has lasted more than two rounds.

Jack Solomons, canny London promoter, has signed the 21-year-old giant farmer for fights in the United States and Britain. But Solomons will have to wait a year. Potgieter plans at least eight more fights in Johannesburg before going abroad.

Here are Potgieter's measurements: reach: 92 inches. Chest: 48 inches, expanded 52 inches. Neck 19 inches. Biceps 17½ inches. Waist 42 inches. Thigh 29 inches. Wrist 9½ inches. Calf 17½ inches. Ankle 10½ inches. Clenched fist 15½ inches.

Tallest fighter in ring history is Henry Johnson, "The Human Sky Scraper." He was 7 feet 2 inches tall and scaled 265 pounds. Potgieter equals Johnson's height and weighs 45 pounds more. Johnson was a Negro from Ottawa, Canada. He fought between 1898 and 1900.

Champion Jesse Williard of Kansas stood 6 feet 6 inches and weighed 250 pounds. He won the world heavyweight title in 1915 with a 26th round knock-out victory over Jack Johnson.

Italian giant Primo Carnera also won the world heavyweight title. He stood 6 feet 5¾ inches and weighed 254 pounds. Carnera knocked out Jack Sharkey in June, 1933, to win the world title. The Italian lost the title a year later to Max Baer.

Potgieter is a quiet and modest young young man who farms at Vryheid, Natal. He still finds the stares of Johannesburg people embarrassing — and he admits getting nervous before every fight.

"Before making my debut in Durban last July I was a nervous wreck for three days," he said. "When the bell goes, however, nothing else matters except to knock down the man in front of me."

What does it feel like to tower above six-footers in the ring? "It's a bit funny," he replied. "I'm always afraid that I might chop at an opponent instead of hit him. But I am getting used to the idea of fighting these smaller chaps."

He's looking forward to his trip overseas and said he has seen more of South Africa in seven months boxing than in his previous 20 years. "I have the itch to see other parts of the world — Britain, America and Australia. But to do so I know I must keep on winning."

Nobody had heard of Potgieter until last July. Then he made his boxing debut against Fred McCoy of Johannesburg.

McCoy stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 183 pounds. Potgieter knocked him out in 30 seconds.

His next fight was against 183-pound George Strydom. Potgieter knocked his opponent out in two minutes after putting him down four times.

Then came victim number 3 — 182-pound Ray Sand. Potgieter landed three ponderous rights and Sand was counted out in 38 seconds.

Some South African sports writers protested against Potgieter's tremendous physical advantage and said he should be barred from fighting normal - sized heavyweights.

But Potgieter went on to his fourth bout and knocked out 209-pound Jack Jansen in the second round.

His fifth fight ended with Izaak Kukard a knockout victim in the first round.

Potgieter comes from a family of big men. His grandfather was 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighed 380 pounds. Grandad Potgieter found his weight so burdensome that he took a sturdily-built chair about with him so that he could rest every so often.

His father is 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 250 pounds. Lambert, his 19-year-old brother, is 6 feet 4 inches and his two sisters both are nearly 6 feet. But his mother is only 5 feet 8 inches.

Norman Weiner, an Irish-Jew who emigrated to South Africa from Dublin in 1930, discovered Potgieter. Weiner was in his hotel office in Vryheid when he saw Potgieter's head and shoulders above a 6 feet high partition. Potgieter was on his way to a bar for his favorite drink — an orange juice. He went to the bar only because the milk bar he usually used was crowded.

Weiner asked Potgieter if he would like to take up boxing. The giant said he would talk it over with his father. A week later he said: "Right. I'll have a go."

And that's how the giant from Natal busted his way into the boxing business.

Unexpected Foul Gives Burch Win To Brazen Brat

BOWIE, Md., March 12 (AP)—An unexpected disqualification occurred in the $10,000-added Burch Memorial Handicap today with Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio's Brazen Brat being awarded first after finishing second to Elkcam stable's Ifabody.

Ifabody, against whom no one claimed a foul, was placed fourth with Ella K. Bryson's Kinda Smart getting second over R. C. Hanna's Candle Wood.

Oliver Cutshaw, rider of the fourth horse, Candle Wood, claimed foul against the second and third horses. He did not contend that the winning Ifabody had impended his mount.

Joseph F. Flanagan, state steward, said, however, that films of the race showed Ifabody coming out in the drive to bump Kinda Smart, who, in turn, bumped Candwood, Brazen Brat, he asserted, was not involved.

Athletes Of 22 Pan-Am Nations Set For Games

MEXICO CITY, March 12—UP—With all the pageantry and parties behind them, athletes from 22 countries move into actual combat Sunday for the first time in the 1955 Pan-American games.

Competition the first day will be held in track and field, basketball baseball, fencing, soccer, weightlifting and tennis.

The delegation from the United States is expected to hop off to a big lead as it most assuredly will dominate in the track and field events where it has a good chance to pile up a lot of points.

Coach Leo Johnson expects that his U. S. men's team will do a "good job" despite the 7,500-foot altitude.

"Our boys are in pretty good shape and we'll have a good account of ourselves," says Johnson. "This is a very strong team in the field events. We may have trouble on the track, however."

But sideline observers believe that the U. S. team has a good chance to win at least 14 of the 21 men's track and field events. Not only that, in many they may finish one-two-three.

The team pairings for the first day's competition are like this:

Men's basketball—Argentina vs. Venezuela.

Women's basketball— U. S. vs. Brazil, Mexico vs. Chile.

Baseball—Mexico vs. U. S., Dominica Republic vs. Venezuela.

Soccer— Venezuela vs. Mexico, Argentina vs. Dutch West Indies.

There are five men's events in track and field and two for women Sunday. In all of them except the 10,000 meters (a little more than six miles), and the women's discus, the U. S. participants are expected to give a good account of themselves.

Jim Corbett Accepted As L. S. U. Athletic Director

Former Publicity Man Gets 5-Year Pact At $10,000

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, March 12 (AP)—Louisiana State University today named James J. Corbett, a former LSU sports publicity chief, athletic director to replace T. P. Heard.

The LSU board of supervisors gave Corbett a five-year contract at $10,000 per year.

The 35-year-old Corbett, a native of Boston and a distant relative of the late heavyweight champion, will leave his job as sports coordinator for the National Broadcasting Company about April 1 to take over at LSU.

Heard and head football coach Gaynell Tinsley were relieved of their duties by the board Feb. 5. Tinsley, head coach for seven seasons, will be paid off on the last two years of his contract. Heard goes on a year's leave of absence at the end of the spring term prior to retirement after 23 years as athletic director.

In other action, the board approved three changes in the football coaching staff recommended by Paul Dietzel, former Army line coach named Feb. 16 to replace Tinsley. The changes were:

1. Terminated the services of line coach Will Walls effective Feb. 18. Walls will be paid until his contract ends Jan. 31, 1956 at his $7,000 salary.

2. Hired Bill Peterson, former Mansfield, Ohio, High School coach effective Feb. 26 to replace Walls at a $7,000 yearly salary.

3. Raised the salary of Charles McClendon, picked by Dietzel as his top assistant, from $7,000 to $8,500.

Corbett entered Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond in 1938, left it to join the Marines in 1942 and returned to finish up in 1944 after he received a medical discharge from the Marine Corps.

He graduated from Southeastern in 1944 and joined the Associated Press staff in New Orleans. He soon was transferred to Baton Rouge and became LSU athletic publicity director in 1945.

Corbett left LSU in 1947 for a public relations post with a frozen food company in Ponchatoula, La., but returned to Baton Rouge and LSU in 1950.

In 1952, he was borrowed by NBC to act as liaison man between the network and the NCAA in the football television "Game of the Week" program.

After a year on leave of absence, Corbett returned to LSU but left early in 1954 for his present job with the radio and television network.

Sterling Gladden, chairman of the six-man screening committee which selected Corbett, said the joint athletic committee was unanimous in his selection.

The joint athletic committee, named to find a new athletic director and football coach, was composed of the LSU athletic council and the board committee and athletic and student activities.

The vote by the board also was unanimous. Corbett's name led every list of candidates and topped all speculation, despite the fact he made no formal application for the job.

The only note of conflict in the board session came when Cangelosi objected to the proposed raise for McClendon.

Cangelosi suggested the raise be limited to $8,000 but his motion died for lack of a second.

However, Mrs. Margaret Dixon and Mrs. Ella Schwing, the two women board members, joined Cangelosi in opposing the raise. They were against any boost in McClendon's pay, despite the fact he would have additional duties.

Mrs. Schwing, a former faculty member, said she knew many faculty members who had taken on extra duties "without one cent of extra pay."

Mrs. Dixon said, "I think he should be paid his present salary until the end of his contract."

Defending the pay hike, Gladden said coaching was a "hazardous" job and "in a different category than teaching."

The raise was approved on an 8-3 vote with Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Schwing and Cangelosi opposing.

SYRACUSE WINS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Scoring 67 points in the second half, the Syracuse Nationals raced to a 112-92 victory over the Fort Wayne Pistons in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game today. The pistons still were unable to score their first win in pro basketball history on a Syracuse court.

Patty Berg Keeps One Stroke Lead For Titleholders

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 12 (AP)—Veteran Patty Berg, shooting for her sixth Women's Titleholders golf crown, posted a steady 74 today and clung to her one-stroke lead over freshman pro Mary Lena Faulk after 54 holes of the Blue-Ribbon tournament.

Red - haired Patty, who has won far more tournaments than any of the other women golfers, had a 218 aggregate after three rounds on the tough, 6,270-yard Augusta Country Club course. The St. Andrews, Ill., slammer's total was a new record for 54 holes, bettering the 220 shot by winner Louise Suggs in the first three tours a year ago.

Miss Faulk, one time National Amateur Champion, matched Patty's 74—two over men's par—and her 219 kept her in the runnerup spot for the third straight day.

Betsy Rawls, veteran from Spartanburg, S. C., soared to 78 as capricious winds gave the girls considerable trouble. She retained third place, however, with a total of 224.

Jackie Pung, Honolulu, carded a 79 for 226 and a fourth-place tie with Marlene Bauer, who parred the front nine today but was in constant trouble after the turn and needed 41 strokes on the last nine.

Ten strokes back after a miserable 40-40—80 for a 228 total was defending champion Suggs. Sleepless nights brought on by hay fever finally took their toll from the Sea Island, Ga., pro whose 71 made her the first day leader in the $5,000 meet.

Babe Zaharias, Tampa, another ailing member of the "big three", which has won 10 of the previous 15 tournaments, here, shared sixth ranking with Miss Suggs after an erratic third-round 78. The Babe missed two tournaments prior to this one with a heavy cold and fever. She has appeared tired here.

The leaders:

Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., 76-68-74—218.

Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., 72-73-74—219.

Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S. C., 77-69-78—224.

Marlene Bauer, Sarasota, Fla., 78-71-77—226.

Mrs. Jackie Pung, Honululu, 73-74-79—226.

Mrs. George Zaharias, Tampa, 75-75-78—228.

Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., 71-77-80—228.

Mickie Wright, San Diego, Calif., 77-77-75—229.

X-Pat Lesser, Seattle, 75-74-80—229.

Beverly Hanson, Indio, Calif., 78-80-74—232.

Betty Dodd, San Antonio, 82-74-76—232.

Fay Crocker, Montevideo, Uruguay, 80-76-76—232.

Marilyn Smith, Wichita, Kan., 74-77-81—232.

Pat O'Sullivan, Orange, Conn., 80-77-77—234.

X-Gloria Armstrong, Oakland, Calif., 79-73-82—234.

Betty Hicks, Palm Springs, Calif., 77-77-81—235.

Mrs. Peggy Kirk Bell, Mid Pines, N. C., 80-78-78—236.

Vonnie Colby, Hollywood, Fla., 79-77-80—236.

Bonnie Randolph, Columbus, Ohio., 80-77-81—238.

Rising Cost Of Shotgun Shells Promised Airing

By DION HENDERSON
The Associated Press

Are increases in the price of shotgun shells — hit by 15 separate boosts since 1946 — putting the cost of America's grand old sport of wingshooting beyond the reach of many shotgun enthusiasts?

Yes, say spokesmen for 10 of 12 major gun clubs around the country, queried in a random sampling by the Associated Press.

Their comment came as Rep. Reuss (D-Wis.) said in Washington that fair trade commission chairman Edward F. Howrey had advised him F.T.C. would undertake the investigation into the shell pricing situation as requested by Reuss.

In a formal complaint to Howery, Reuss declared that the 15 increases came with the competing U. S. ammunition companies usually raising prices almost simultaneously, indicating what he called "A deliberately unlawful system."

Meanwhile, these were some of the comments from important trap and skeet clubs, which use millions of shells in year-around firing at clay birds:

W. R. Beamish, president of the Twin City-Hopkins Gun Club at Minneapolis said, "Shotgun shell manufacturers are pricing both professional and amateur shooters out of the target sport. High prices have caused the number of shooters to dwindle to near nothing. Youngsters can't afford to use established facilities to learn intelligent use of firearms."

Beamish said that many members of his club had taken up reloading used shotgun hulls with newly marketed devices similar in use to those used by rifle hobbyists for years in handloading.

At Seattle, custodian Al Bonner of the Seattle Gun Club said that some members there also have taken up reloading, but that the "average shooter" has quit club activity because of the cost of shells.

A spokesman at Chicago's Lincoln Park Gun Club said many members were "pretty sore" at recent increases and favored the F.T.C. inquiry. Club members who have taken up reloading there report savings of $1 a box.

Factory trap loads now cost about $2.60 for 25 at club prices. Heavy hunting loads for a 12 gauge shotgun run about $1 higher retail.

Stewart Nevius, president of the Aqua Sierra Sportsmen's Club in Los Angeles, which he described as the largest private trap and skeet club in southern California with 200 members and 10 shooting layouts, declared, "They're just pricing shells right out of existence."

Although there's no club reloading as such, Nevius said, reloading by individuals "has increased a thousandfold over the past year. Cleaning up after a shot was getting to be a problem. Now with so many fellows reloading we don't have to worry—old cases are more or less allocated like nylons during the war." Savings run about $1 a box there too, Nevius added.

With 274 members of the Waukesha Gun Club—Wisconsin's largest, using 300,000 shells last year—voting on the question of future shell supplies this week, only 29 wanted to continue using U. S. factory loads. Of the voters, 93 favored importing foreign shells at a saving of 40 cents a box, 90 wanted reloading done as a club basis, at a similar savings. The remaining 57 held for another brand of foreign shell at a 20-cent saving.

On the other hand, B. B. Lot-

80 Cars To Start In Florida Grand Prix Race Today

SEBRING, Fla., March 12 (AP)—At 9 a.m. (CST) tomorrow, the flash of the starter's green flag will send 80 of the fastest sports cars in competition roaring away from the starting line in Florida's famous International Grand Prix of Endurance.

Before the brutal test of a man's nerves and a machine's durability ends in darkness 12 hours later, half of the fleet cars will have been abandoned in their pits—crippled by the hot and dangerous pace.

The deafening whine of powerful motors will shatter the traditional quiet of this small city in the heart of Florida's orange groves and will be heard around the world, for to sportsmen overseas this is the No. 1 sports event in the United States.

No gold is offered but famous drivers come from all over Europe and South America to compete in the Sebring race.

Their goal is the coveted points offered toward the world sports car championship. This is the only race in the U. S. in which such points can be earned. There are seven others — in Italy, Germany, France, Sicily, England, Mexico and Argentina.

Favored to grab the lion's share of the honors are the world-champion Ferraris from Italy in the unlimited class and in the smaller divisions, the giant-killing Oscas of Italy and the tough Porsches of Germany. British champion Stirling Moss drove one of the tiny Oscas to a startling triumph here last year when mechanical difficulties knocked the bigger cars out of the race.

A popular favorite to win the overall championship is a jet-black Ferrari owned by the Marquis De Portago daring, 27 - year - old Spanish sportsman. The Marquis will share wheel time with the reckless Italian ace, Umberto (Mad Man) Maglioli.

Another closely - watched Ferrari will be that of Luigi Chinetti of New York. It will be handled by the Italian veteran, Piero Taruffi, and Harry Schell of France. In one of the 10 other Ferraris will be the No. 1 American amateur wheelman, Jim Kimberly of Chicago.

Because the U. S. automobile industry hasn't gone in for sports car production, European cars and drivers have dominated the world's race courses. But one American, Briggs Cunningham, has been offering a growing challenge to European supremacy.

A Cunningham - built car won the Sebring race two years ago and a brand new one, the C6-R, will make its debut in tomorrow's grind. On this car rests the Palm Beach automotive genius's hopes of making a successful invasion of the continent this year.

Stan Musial is the only active player in the National League who has made more more than 2,000 base hits. He has 2,418.

African Giant Plans Bid For World's Boxing Title

By BERT JOHNSON

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 12 (AP)— "The Colossus of the Maize (corn) Fields"—that's what fans call the 7-foot 2-inch 310-pound South African who is aiming at the world heavyweight boxing crown.

His name is Ewart Frederick Potgieter. He's won five fights so far, and no opponent has lasted more than two rounds.

Jack Solomons, canny London promoter, has signed the 21-year-old giant farmer for fights in the United States and Britain. But Solomons will have to wait a year. Potgieter plans at least eight more fights in Johannesburg before going abroad.

Here are Potgieter's measurements: reach: 92 inches. Chest: 48 inches, expanded 52 inches. Neck 19 inches. Biceps 17½ inches. Waist 42 inches. Thigh 29 inches. Wrist 9½ inches. Calf 17½ inches. Ankle 10½ inches. Clenched fist 15½ inches.

Tallest fighter in ring history is Henry Johnson, "The Human Sky Scraper." He was 7 feet 2 inches tall and scaled 265 pounds. Potgieter equals Johnson's height and weighs 45 pounds more. Johnson was a Negro from Ottawa, Canada. He fought between 1898 and 1900.

Champion Jesse Williard of Kansas stood 6 feet 6 inches and weighed 250 pounds. He won the world heavyweight title in 1915 with a 26th round knock-out victory over Jack Johnson.

Italian giant Primo Carnera also won the world heavyweight title. He stood 6 feet 5¾ inches and weighed 254 pounds. Carnera knocked out Jack Sharkey in June, 1933, to win the world title. The Italian lost the title a year later to Max Baer.

Potgieter is a quiet and modest young young man who farms at Vryheid, Natal. He still finds the stares of Johannesburg people embarrassing — and he admits getting nervous before every fight.

"Before making my debut in Durban last July I was a nervous wreck for three days," he said. "When the bell goes, however, nothing else matters except to knock down the man in front of me."

What does it feel like to tower above six-footers in the ring? "It's a bit funny," he replied. "I'm always afraid that I might chop at an opponent instead of hit him. But I am getting used to the idea of fighting these smaller chaps."

He's looking forward to his trip overseas and said he has seen more of South Africa in seven months boxing than in his previous 20 years. "I have the itch to see other parts of the world — Britain, America and Australia. But to do so I know I must keep on winning."

Nobody had heard of Potgieter until last July. Then he made his boxing debut against Fred McCoy of Johannesburg.

McCoy stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 183 pounds. Potgieter knocked him out in 30 seconds.

His next fight was against 183-pound George Strydom. Potgieter knocked his opponent out in two minutes after putting him down four times.

Then came victim number 3 — 182-pound Ray Sand. Potgieter landed three ponderous rights and Sand was counted out in 38 seconds.

Some South African sports writers protested against Potgieter's tremendous physical advantage and said he should be barred from fighting normal - sized heavyweights.

But Potgieter went on to his fourth bout and knocked out 209-pound Jack Jansen in the second round.

His fifth fight ended with Izaak Kukard a knockout victim in the first round.

Potgieter comes from a family of big men. His grandfather was 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighed 380 pounds. Grandad Potgieter found his weight so burdensome that he took a sturdily-built chair about with him so that he could rest every so often.

His father is 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 250 pounds. Lambert, his 19-year-old brother, is 6 feet 4 inches and his two sisters both are nearly 6 feet. But his mother is only 5 feet 8 inches.

Norman Weiner, an Irish-Jew who emigrated to South Africa from Dublin in 1930, discovered Potgieter. Weiner was in his hotel office in Vryheid when he saw Potgieter's head and shoulders above a 6 feet high partition. Potgieter was on his way to a bar for his favorite drink — an orange juice. He went to the bar only because the milk bar he usually used was crowded.

Weiner asked Potgieter if he would like to take up boxing. The giant said he would talk it over with his father. A week later he said: "Right. I'll have a go."

And that's how the giant from Natal busted his way into the boxing business.

Unexpected Foul Gives Burch Win To Brazen Brat

BOWIE, Md., March 12 (AP)—An unexpected disqualification occurred in the $10,000-added Burch Memorial Handicap today with Mrs. Samuel M. Pistorio's Brazen Brat being awarded first after finishing second to Elkcam stable's Ifabody.

Ifabody, against whom no one claimed a foul, was placed fourth with Ella K. Bryson's Kinda Smart getting second over R. C. Hanna's Candle Wood.

Oliver Cutshaw, rider of the fourth horse, Candle Wood, claimed foul against the second and third horses. He did not contend that the winning Ifabody had impended his mount.

Joseph F. Flanagan, state steward, said, however, that films of the race showed Ifabody coming out in the drive to bump Kinda Smart, who, in turn, bumped Candwood. Brazen Brat, he asserted, was not involved.

Athletes Of 22 Pan-Am Nations Set For Games

MEXICO CITY, March 12—UP—With all the pageantry and parties behind them, athletes from 22 countries move into actual combat Sunday for the first time in the 1955 Pan-American games.

Competition the first day will be held in track and field, basketball baseball, fencing, soccer, weightlifting and tennis.

The delegation from the United States is expected to hop off to a big lead as it most assuredly will dominate in the track and field events where it has a good chance to pile up a lot of points.

Coach Leo Johnson expects that his U. S. men's team will do a "good job" despite the 7,500-foot altitude.

"Our boys are in pretty good shape and we'll have a good account of ourselves," says Johnson. "This is a very strong team in the field events. We may have trouble on the track, however."

But sideline observers believe that the U. S. team has a good chance to win at least 14 of the 21 men's track and field events. Not only that, in many they may finish one-two-three.

The team pairings for the first day's competition are like this:

Men's basketball—Argentina vs. Venezuela.

Women's basketball— U. S. vs. Brazil, Mexico vs. Chile.

Baseball—Mexico vs. U. S., Dominica Republic vs. Venezuela.

Soccer— Venezuela vs. Mexico, Argentina vs. Dutch West Indies.

There are five men's events in track and field and two for women Sunday. In all of them except the 10,000 meters (a little more than six miles), and the women's discus, the U. S. participants are expected to give a good account of themselves.

Northeast In Baseball Double Bill Here Tomorrow

Face Mississippi College In Debut For Coach Luffey

Coach George Luffey makes his debut as baseball tutor at Northeast State College when he sends his Redskins against the Choctaws of Mississippi College in a double header here tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on the Northeast diamond. It's the season opening for Northeast under Luffey who succeeded the resigned "Woody" Boyles as coach of the Tribe when Boyles went to Texarkana Junior College.

Northeast was also due to meet Arkansas A. and M. College here Tuesday afternoon, but at the request of officials of the Monticello school reslated the game for Wednesday.

"We were glad to make the change," Luffey said. "It will give our boys a day's rest between the Monday double header and the meeting with A. and M."

Sheriff Bailey Grant and Devone Payne, head football coach at Northeast, will participate in season opening ceremonies in which Sheriff Grant will pitch the first ball with Coach Payne catching. Coach Luffey last night said both games would be six-inning affairs.

Coach Luffey has been working out with a squad of 23 players that was cut to 22 when Dick Campbell, pitcher, who was being counted on for duty tomorrow, suffered an ankle fracture that will probably keep his out of action for a month.

The Redskin coach wasn't quite ready to announce his starting lineup, but the Northeast roster includes:

Outfielders—Charles Mahaffey, Sicily Island, and Jackie Neal, Tommy Leos, and Guy DuPriest, Monroe.

Infielders — Harry Rushing, Pioneer; Thad Tucker, Crowville; Harold Moore, Bonita; Jimmy Bradley, Natchez, Miss.; and Sam Campbell, Bob May, Harold Davis, and Donald Stewart, Monroe.

Catchers — Tommy Boyles, Monroe; Bill Thompson, Collinston; and Frank Jones, Downsville.

Pitchers — "Bo" Laird, Crowville; Tom Hutson, Lake Providence; Joe Jordan, Chatham; Bob Watts, Bonita; Bob Betz, Auburn, Ind.; and Carol George and Charles McBeth, Monroe.

3 Newcomers, Calendo In Arena Tag Tuesday

A trio of newcomers make their initial appearance at Kallio's Arena Tuesday night in the feature tag team match, with only Mario Calendo, who wrestled here last week, the "veteran" of the quartet.

Eddy Malone, Tampa, Fla. pairs with Calendo to form one team of the main go; and Don Wayne, Pawkusky, Okla. pairs with another Oklahoman, Herb Welch, in the other corner. Welch is the brother of Lester Welch, who has been a highly popular matman here in past weeks.

He is the former junior heavyweight champion of the south, and if he is a rip-rearing, slam - bang wrestler like Lester, he is bound to be another crowd-pleaser.

Last Tuesday night, Kallio's new wrestling affiliation, the National Wrestling Alliance, had somewhat of a letdown in their usual action-filled match, but this was neither theirs nor the promoter's fault.

A substitute referee had to be brought in, as well as a sub wrestler. Bill Barney, the billed official, was unable to work the card because of a hand injury; and a grappler by the name of Goetz filled in for highly capable Red Roberts, who, at the last minute, was unable to appear.

With the reserve ref drawing the ire of the fans all evening because of the reserve grappler's illegal tactics, the entire program was reminiscent of the old school of wrestlers who formerly fought here week after week.

Perhaps the National circuit's booker for this arena, as well as Promoter Kallio, will go all out this week to erase the "run-of-the mine" program of last week, which was definitely more of the old order than the new.

Two ten minute time limit bouts, between opposing team members, each requiring but one fall to win, will precede the main event; and Bill Barney is again slated to handle all officiating duties.

Tech's Bub Haile Gets Recognition At N.A.I.A. Meet

RUSTON, La., March 12 (Special) —Louisiana Tech's cage team, state representatives to the national NAIA tournament in Kansas City this week, brought home additional honors when a Bulldog player won one of the meet's high awards.

George (Bub) Haile, Canine guard from Jonesboro, was presented the E. S. Liston award made annually to an outstanding player of junior standing at the national cage tourney. The award is made on the basis of high scholastic standing, character and athletic ability and carries with it a $300 scholarship as well as a plaque to be added to the Tech trophy case.

Presented to Haile by Mrs. E. S. Liston, the award is named in honor of the late E. S. Liston, one of the organizers of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball which later became the present National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Tech cage is an English major who has had an especially high scholastic standing. He has made below an "A" in only one course during his three and a half years at the college.

An ordained Baptist minister, Haile is now serving as pastor of Pleasant Hill Baptist Church in Lincoln parish and Ansley Baptist Church in Jackson parish. Following graduation from Tech he plans to enter seminary for additional study.

The Tech student is active in the Baptist Student Union and is one of six Louisiana students chosen by the state B.S.U. organization to do missionary work in foreign countries this summer. Haile will go to Hawaii to preach and do vacation Bible school work there.

Haile and his Bulldog teammates defeated Coe College, 94-65, in first round play of the Kansas City N.A.I.A. tourney, but were defeated in second round action by Stubenville College, 65-90. This is Haile's third season with the Techsters.

6 Major League Clubs Will Play In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 12 —UP Six major league baseball teams will make an appearance in Louisiana at Pelican Stadium here, with the first of three games scheduled for Thursday, March 31.

Meeting in the opening game at 2 p.m. will be the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves.

The Chicago White Sox of the American League tangle with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League in a 2 p.m. game on Friday, April 1, while the third game pits the American League champion Cleveland Indians of Al Lopez against the World Champion New York Giants at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 3.

The Cleveland-New York game pits the same two teams which met in the 1954 World Series, a series in which the Giants upset the favored Indians.

No other spring training games are scheduled anywhere in Louisiana, although there are numerous games slated for Montgomery and Birmingham, Ala.

Gavilan, Trainer Fined $100 Each For Loose Talk

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 12 —UP— Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan and his trainer were fined $100 each Saturday for some heated remarks made after the Cuban boxer lost a decision to Hector Constance Feb. 23.

The Miami Beach Boxing Commission levied the fine against Gavilan and trainer Mundito Medina and reprimanded them for "bad sportsmanship."

Chairman Flamen Adae warned that any further outbursts will result in a suspension and would take effect in all NBA territories, adding "we mean business."

"Your action was unsportsmanlike and detrimental to boxing," said Adae. "Two courses are left open to us—suspension or a fine."

But the commission did not attempt to interfer with Gavilan's scheduled bout with Bobby Dykes next Wednesday night across Biscayne Bay in Miami. Adae said the match was "made in good faith and we don't want to interfere with it."

The Cuban hawk was as meek as a canary as he was being reprimanded for the first time in his career.

"I know that everybody that night talk a lot . . . but I wasn't mad," said Gavilan. "I remember everything I say and I don't call nobody crooks and nobody robbers."

Medina told the commission he considered the group "very honest."

"Otherwise," he said, "we would never have come back to Florida."

Medina said his heated remarks following the fight were addressed to a needling bystander, and did not refer to the judges. Gavilan was quoted as saying after the bout that the judges "did not act with honor."

But he said Saturday that "honor" is used differently in Cuba and that what he meant by his comment was "the decision was incorrect."

Bulldogs Open Baseball With Sports Wednesday

RUSTON, Mar. 12 (Special) — Louisiana Tech's baseballers continued stiff practice drills the latter part of the week preparing for the opening game of the season here Wednesday against the Shreveport Sports.

The exhibition contest between the professionals and the collegians is to start at 3 p.m. at Tech Field.

Tech's Coach Barry Hinton has been carefully looking over a crew of 55 hopeful players currently working out with the Bulldogs and hopes to come up with another championship team this season. Last year the Canines had a very successful season and tied with Southeastern Louisiana for the Gulf States Conference title.

One major injury and several minor ones have showed up in the Tech camp since diamond practice got underway. Third baseman Ralph Cross, Shreveport, sustained a broken leg while playing Church League basketball in Shreveport last week and will be lost for the season. Bobby Herring, Doyline shortstop, has an injured hand and pitcher Alton Pilcher of Choudrant has a cut finger. There are several sprained ankles.

Tech's starters in the battle with the tough Sports have not yet been determined. Coach Hinton says his pitcher will likely be chosen from a group of players which includes lefty Doyline Kile and righthanders Milford Andrews, Kenneth Brown, Jesse Mercer, Bob Humble, Stern Baughman and Ronny Coil. Catcher will be either J. R. Boyette or Clyde Hunt.

Northeast In Baseball Double Bill Here Tomorrow

Face Mississippi College In Debut For Coach Luffey

Coach George Luffey makes his debut as baseball tutor at Northeast State College when he sends his Redskins against the Choctaws of Mississippi College in a double header here tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on the Northeast diamond. It's the season opening for Northeast under Luffey who succeeded the resigned "Woody" Boyles as coach of the Tribe when Boyles went to Texarkana Junior College.

Northeast was also due to meet Arkansas A. and M. College here Tuesday afternoon, but at the request of officials of the Monticello school reslated the game for Wednesday.

"We were glad to make the change," Luffey said. "It will give our boys a day's rest between the Monday double header and the meeting with A. and M."

Sheriff Bailey Grant and Devone Payne, head football coach at Northeast, will participate in season opening ceremonies in which Sheriff Grant will pitch the first ball with Coach Payne catching. Coach Luffey last night said both games would be six-inning affairs.

Coach Luffey has been working out with a squad of 23 players that was cut to 22 when Dick Campbell, pitcher, who was being counted on for duty tomorrow, suffered an ankle fracture that will probably keep his out of action for a month.

The Redskin coach wasn't quite ready to announce his starting lineup, but the Northeast roster includes:

Outfielders—Charles Mahaffey, Sicily Island, and Jackie Neal, Tommy Leos, and Guy DuPriest, Monroe.

Catchers — Tommy Boyles, Monroe; Bill Thompson, Collinston; and Frank Jones, Downsville.

Pitchers — "Bo" Laird, Crowville; Tom Hutson, Lake Providence; Joe Jordan, Chatham; Bob Watts, Bonita; Bob Betz, Auburn, Ind.; and Carol George and Charles McBeth, Monroe.

3 Newcomers, Calendo In Arena Tag Tuesday

A trio of newcomers make their initial appearance at Kallio's Arena Tuesday night in the feature tag team match, with only Mario Calendo, who wrestled here last week, the "veteran" of the quartet.

Eddy Malone, Tampa, Fla. pairs with Calendo to form one team of the main go; and Don Wayne, Pawkusky, Okla. pairs with another Oklahoman, Herb Welch, in the other corner. Welch is the brother of Lester Welch, who has been a highly popular matman here in past weeks.

He is the former junior heavyweight champion of the south, and if he is a rip-rearing, slam - bang wrestler like Lester, he is bound to be another crowd-pleaser.

Last Tuesday night, Kallio's new wrestling affiliation, the National Wrestling Alliance, had somewhat of a letdown in their usual action-filled match, but this was neither theirs nor the promoter's fault.

A substitute referee had to be brought in, as well as a sub wrestler. Bill Barney, the billed official, was unable to work the card because of a hand injury; and a grappler by the name of Goetz filled in for highly capable Red Roberts, who, at the last minute, was unable to appear.

With the reserve ref drawing the ire of the fans all evening because of the reserve grappler's illegal tactics, the entire program was reminiscent of the old school of wrestlers who formerly fought here week after week.

Perhaps the National circuit's booker for this arena, as well as Promoter Kallio, will go all out this week to erase the "run-of-the mine" program of last week, which was definitely more of the old order than the new.

Two ten minute time limit bouts, between opposing team members, each requiring but one fall to win, will precede the main event; and Bill Barney is again slated to handle all officiating duties.

Tech's Bub Haile Gets Recognition At N.A.I.A. Meet

RUSTON, La., March 12 (Special) —Louisiana Tech's cage team, state representatives to the national NAIA tournament in Kansas City this week, brought home additional honors when a Bulldog player won one of the meet's high awards.

George (Bub) Haile, Canine guard from Jonesboro, was presented the E. S. Liston award made annually to an outstanding player of junior standing at the national cage tourney. The award is made on the basis of high scholastic standing, character and athletic ability and carries with it a $300 scholarship as well as a plaque to be added to the Tech trophy case.

Presented to Haile by Mrs. E. S. Liston, the award is named in honor of the late E. S. Liston, one of the organizers of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball which later became the present National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Tech cage is an English major who has had an especially high scholastic standing. He has made below an "A" in only one course during his three and a half years at the college.

An ordained Baptist minister, Haile is now serving as pastor of Pleasant Hill Baptist Church in Lincoln parish and Ansley Baptist Church in Jackson parish. Following graduation from Tech he plans to enter seminary for additional study.

The Tech student is active in the Baptist Student Union and is one of six Louisiana students chosen by the state B.S.U. organization to do missionary work in foreign countries this summer. Haile will go to Hawaii to preach and do vacation Bible school work there.

Haile and his Bulldog teammates defeated Cox College, 94-85, in first round play of the Kansas City N.A.I.A. tourney, but were defeated in second round action by Stubenville College, 65-80. This is Haile's third season with the Techsters.

Gavilan, Trainer Fined $100 Each For Loose Talk

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 12 —UP— Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan and his trainer were fined $100 each Saturday for some heated remarks made after the Cuban boxer lost a decision to Hector Constance Feb. 23.

The Miami Beach Boxing Commission levied the fine against Gavilan and trainer Mundito Medina and reprimanded them for "bad sportsmanship."

Chairman Flamen Adae warned that any further outbursts will result in a suspension and would take effect in all NBA territories, adding "we mean business."

"Your action was unsportsmanlike and detrimental to boxing," said Adae. "Two courses are left open to us—suspension or a fine."

But the commission did not attempt to interfer with Gavilan's scheduled bout with Bobby Dykes next Wednesday night across Biscayne Bay in Miami. Adae said the match was "made in good faith and we don't want to interfere with it."

The Cuban hawk was as meek as a canary as he was being reprimanded for the first time in his career.

"I know that everybody that night talk a lot . . . but I wasn't mad," said Gavilan. "I remember everything I say and I don't call nobody crooks and nobody robbers."

Medina told the commission he considered the group "very honest."

"Otherwise," he said, "we would never have come back to Florida."

Medina said his heated remarks following the fight were addressed to a needling bystander, and did not refer to the judges. Gavilan was quoted as saying after the bout that the judges "did not act with honor."

But he said Saturday that "honor" is used differently in Cuba and that what he meant by his comment was "the decision was incorrect."

6 Major League Clubs Will Play In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 12 —UP Six major league baseball teams will make an appearance in Louisiana at Pelican Stadium here, with the first of three games scheduled for Thursday, March 31.

Meeting in the opening game at 2 p.m. will be the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves.

The Chicago White Sox of the American League tangle with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League in a 2 p.m. game on Friday, April 1, while the third game pits the American League champion Cleveland Indians of Al Lopez against the World Champion New York Giants at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 3.

The Cleveland-New York game pits the same two teams which met in the 1954 World Series, a series in which the Giants upset the favored Indians.

No other spring training games are scheduled anywhere in Louisiana, although there are numerous games slated for Montgomery and Birmingham, Ala.

Covenant Presbyterian just about sewed up the championship of the Church Bowling League with a sweep of four points from First Methodist of West Monroe while second place St. Paschal's was dropping four to St. Paul Methodist to give Covenant a nine-point lead with only a few more weeks to play. John Yarbrough's 180 game and E. E. Lawson's 461 series topped Covenant. Weir used a 47 game and 385 series to lead First Methodist.

B. Clay showed a 185 game and 490 series to pace St. Paul over St. Paschal's, the latter led by Father Vitus' 176 game and Flores' 476 series.

First Presbyterian three points to one with Keith Moore showing a 182 high game and Bell a 500 series for the "Firsts." Bob Scocc led Memorial with a 152 game and 430 series.

Ellender Fights To Keep Controls Off Gas Industry

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 12 —(Special)— Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) this weekend called for an amendment in the 1938 Natural Gas Act in order to keep heavy-handed federal bureaucracy out of an area which Congress never intended for it to occupy.

Ellender warned that unless independent gas producers and gas gatherers are freed from the threat of eventual federal control "exploration will be stifled and. . .ultimately a critical shortage of natural gas will be forced upon us." He said that regulation of gas production would also eventually lead to regulation of the entire petroleum industry since in many cases gas and oil production are practically inseparable.

Debunking the claim that federal control is necessary to prevent gouging of consumers, Ellender said that only 10 per cent of the consumer price of natural gas goes to the producer. He declared that consumers could expect no more than a 10 per cent reduction in present natural gas costs even if gas producers should give their product away.

The Louisiana Senator, who has waged a constant Senate battle against federal centralization of government, said that the possibility of gas monopolities would become very real under any federalization of the gas industry. "It is not too far-fetched to state that the next result. . .would be to limit the field to the large companies, the big firms, who could bear the financial expense and delay involved" in federal control, he asserted. "I cannot believe that those who now clamor so vociferously for federal control over these industries have ever stopped to consider that bureaucratic strangulation would lead eventually to monopoly," Ellender added.

The Senator, commenting on a proposed world disarmament plan offered recently by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said he cosponsored the measure because it would serve notice to the world "that the democratic nations are anxious to reduce the arms race." But he warned that "we must not let our realism run away with us.

"Any program of this nature is not only useless but ultimately dangerous unless it can be enforced. In our effort to achieve a basis for real peace, we must not set the example to such an extent that we drop our guard and leave ourselves ripe for easy conquest," he concluded.

Ellender also indicated that he and Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) plan to introduce a measure to authorize a federal guarantee for bond issues floated by small communities to finance municipal improvements.

Minn. Woman Dies In Accident At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 33-year-old Minneapolis, Minn., woman was killed early today in a two-car collision.

Mrs. Marguerite Graffunder was pronounced dead on arrival at Charity Hospital. She was thrown from an automobile struck by another at an intersection.

First district police reported Albert W. West of San Antonio, Tex., driver of the car in which Mrs. Graffunder was riding, said he failed to see the stop sign at the intersection.

A late model car, driven by Frank Keating of New Orleans, struck West's car. Both Mrs. Graffunder and her 35-year-old husband Carl were thrown from the car.

Attendants at Charity Hospital said Mrs. Graffunder's husband was treated for lacerations of the scalp.

First district officers said both West and Keating were booked with negligent homicide.

BLESS SHIPMENT—Greek Orthodox priests bless a shipment of 420,000 pounds of hybrid seed corn donated by Americans through CROP, the Christian Rural Overseas Program of Church World Service. The seed, enough to plant 60,000 acres, was shipped from Philadelphia to Greece for spring planting in refugee village communities. Ceremony aboard freighter SS Ferncape was attended (from right to left) by national CROP director Albert W. Farmer, Church World Service executive director R. Norris Wilson, Dr. Eugene Blake, president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA, and government and business leaders.

Ellender Fights To Keep Controls Off Gas Industry

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 12 —(Special)— Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) this weekend called for an amendment in the 1938 Natural Gas Act in order to keep heavy-handed federal bureaucracy out of an area which Congress never intended for it to occupy.

Ellender warned that unless independent gas producers and gas gatherers are freed from the threat of eventual federal control "exploration will be stifled and. . .ultimately a critical shortage of natural gas will be forced upon us." He said that regulation of gas production would also eventually lead to regulation of the entire petroleum industry since in many cases gas and oil production are practically inseparable.

Debunking the claim that federal control is necessary to prevent gouging of consumers, Ellender said that only 10 per cent of the consumer price of natural gas goes to the producer. He declared that consumers could expect no more than a 10 per cent reduction in present natural gas costs even if gas producers should give their product away.

The Louisiana Senator, who has waged a constant Senate battle against federal centralization of government, said that the possibility of gas monopolities would become very real under any federalization of the gas industry. "It is not too far-fetched to state that the next result. . .would be to limit the field to the large companies, the big firms, who could bear the financial expense and delay involved" in federal control, he asserted. "I cannot believe that those who now clamor so vociferously for federal control over these industries have ever stopped to consider that bureaucratic strangulation would lead eventually to monopoly," Ellender added.

The Senator, commenting on a proposed world disarmament plan offered recently by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said he co-sponsored the measure because it would serve notice to the world "that the democratic nations are anxious to reduce the arms race." But he warned that "we must not let our realism run away with us.

"Any program of this nature is not only useless but ultimately dangerous unless it can be enforced. In our effort to achieve a basis for real peace, we must not set the example to such an extent that we drop our guard and leave ourselves ripe for easy conquest," he concluded.

Ellender also indicated that he and Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) plan to introduce a measure to authorize a federal guarantee for bond issues floated by small communities to finance municipal improvements.

Minn. Woman Dies In Accident At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 33-year-old Minneapolis, Minn., woman was killed early today in a two-car collision.

Mrs. Marguerite Graffunder was pronounced dead on arrival at Charity Hospital. She was thrown from an automobile struck by another at an intersection.

First district police reported Albert W. West of San Antonio, Tex., driver of the car in which Mrs. Graffunder was riding, said he failed to see the stop sign at the intersection.

A late model car, driven by Frank Keating of New Orleans, struck West's car. Both Mrs. Graffunder and her 35-year-old husband Carl were thrown from the car.

Attendants at Charity Hospital said Mrs. Graffunder's husband was treated for lacerations of the scalp.

First district officers said both West and Keating were booked with negligent homicide.

Jr. Charity League Names Officers For Coming Year

The March meeting of the Junior Charity League was held at a local restaurant with Mrs. Corbin Turpin, presiding. Mrs. Jamar Adcock and Mrs. Jack Taylor decorated the tables with pink camellias and royal robe violets.

A long agenda of the League's activities was presented which included an up to date report on the Follies, the presentation of sixteen new members and bidding goodbye to members joining the inactive list.

Mrs. Robert Wood and her co-chairman, Mrs. Joe Dixon explained the work of the talent committee and urged that members and talented people in the community participate in the Follies program. They stated that the director of the Follies, David Jones, would arrive in Monroe within the week and rehearsals would begin promptly. Mrs. Jack Taylor, ticket chairman, gave an account of how ticket sales would be accomplished.

Mrs. Emmett Mitchell presented a silver tray, as a gift from the League, to Mrs. Turpin, the outgoing president, and introduced Mrs. Cavitt Cookston who will guide the League this coming year. Other officers chosen were: Vice-President, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove; secretary, Mrs. Robert Wood; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Jr.; finance, Mrs. W. L. Carbrey; assistant finance, Mrs. Tim Allen; placement, Mrs. Joe Dixon; charity hospital, Mrs. A. C. Warner; social service, Mrs. Roy C. Meek; 1st assistant, social service, Mrs. Lawrence Fox; 2nd assistant social service, Mrs. Robert George; Crippled Children's Clinic, Mrs. R. T. Faulk Jr.; clothes bank, Mrs. Bill McDowell; Charlons editor, Mrs. Jack Taylor; public relations, Mrs. Paul Ransom.

The new members welcomed into the League were Mrs. John Allin, Mrs. T. A. Calloway, Mrs. Robert Downing, Mrs. L. A. Fluesmeier, Mrs. Bruce Gregg, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Mrs. Allen Jones, Mrs. Pascal Norris, Mrs. Bon Oliphint, Mrs. Joe Powell, Mrs. Fred Sartor, Mrs. Tommy Sandridge, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Benton Wakefield, and Mrs. George Wright, Jr.

Members going on the inactive list were Mrs. Merton Abington, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Atkinson, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mrs. William Gannaway, Mrs. Lon Huer, Mrs. Bill Husted, Jr., Mrs. R. L. Pierce, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. Lorain Armstrong, a life member, joined the group for luncheon.

Mrs. Sherrouse Mrs. Harrison Party Hostesses

Mrs. Charles B. Sherrouse and Mrs. Claude Harrison gave a bridal luncheon on Tuesday for Miss Gloria Faye Rawls of New Orleans, whose wedding will be solemnized in April in New Orleans.

The party was given at the Sherrouse home on Island Drive where the receiving rooms were festive with spring blossoms in shades of pink. A bouquet of pink and lavender hyacinths, tulips, iris and flowering peach formed the centerpiece for the luncheon table. Pink candles burned in silver holders at each side.

The guests other than the honoree were her mother, Mrs. J. C. Rawls, Mrs. Wright Elliott, Mrs. W. O. Turner, all of New Orleans, Mrs. A. O. Evans, Mrs. R. L. Phillips of Sterlington and Mrs. Edward Holmes.

Third Symphony Concert To Be Given March 24

The next Monroe - West Monroe Symphony Concert is scheduled to be presented, by the Symphony Orchestra, Thursday night, March 24, at Brown Auditorium, N. E. Louisiana College. Dr. Harry Lemert, director of the orchestra, reports that the program will be composed of numbers that are familiar to all music lovers. They will include compositions of Mozart, Beethoven, Handel, Saint-Saens and Rimsky-Korsakov.

This will be the third program, of the current season, for the symphony orchestra, and they have been holding regular rehearsals in preparation for this event. With a talented group of over fifty members, their prime purpose is the achievement of their association in group performance. The public, and the members of the Symphony Association are fortunate indeed to have the opportunity to hear them, in concert. This season, the public will be privileged to enjoy four programs.

The next concert will include two featured artists, which should prove to be of special interest. Miss Ruth Temple, pianist, will be heard with the orchestra, in Beethoven's "Concerto No. 1 in C Major, for piano and Orchestra." Also, a harpist, from Dallas, Tex., will be heard in one or two numbers, with the orchestra. These two artists, together with the regular members, will make this a concert of unusual appeal, and a large turnout is expected, at this performance.

Members of the Symphony Orchestra Association will comprise only a part of the audience, as it is possible for non members to enjoy all of these concerts, also. Any one who enjoys truly fine music, presented by this group of outstanding musicians, may attend.

Jones-McDowell

Mr. and Mrs. Lee McDowell announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Evelyn McDowell, to Lee Loyce Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jones. The ceremony was performed in Greenville, Miss., February 26. Both families are from Oak Grove.

Split ladyfingers and spread with raspberry or strawberry jam. Serve with vanilla custard or pudding for a delicious dessert.

MISS RITA FEITHS' betrothal to Al Hirson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hirson, of University City, Missouri, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reis Feith. They plan an early summer wedding.

Purely Personal

Miss Emy Lou Biedenharn left Friday for New York City where she sails, March 16, on the Queen Mary for Cherbourg, France. After several days in Paris she will join friends on the French Riviera. From there the cruise, somewhat different from the usual, on the Greek ship, Agamemnon, will include ports in Egypt, the Holy Land, Greece and the islands in the Mediterranean. Their host for the two weeks cruise will be Guy Casadesus, son of the famous pianist. Miss Biedenharn will then visit friends in Italy, Germany and England, arriving back in New York about June 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landry leave today for New Orleans, sailing on the Antilles on Tuesday. After a Caribbean Cruise, they will land in Plymouth, England and be met by their son, Lt. Fred L. Landry and Mrs. Landry. After a tour of the continent, they will visit Lt. and Mrs. Landry and baby son, Fred II, in Aldeburgh, England, where Lt. Landry is stationed with the Air Force. They plan to return to New York early in June.

Mrs. Kennedy Brown left Friday for Jackson, Miss. where she was the overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Art Surguine, who have recently moved to Jackson, from Florida. She was joined there on Saturday by Mrs. Herman von Kaas of Milwaukee and Mrs. F. W. Mouso of Delafield, Wisc. They will arrive in Monroe today from Natchez and continue their visit for several days, with Mrs. Brown in her home on Myrtle St.

Dogwood Drive Opens March 26

Plain Dealing Dogwood Drive will be formally opened Saturday, March 26, according to Ben Winham, president. The opening date was set at a meeting of the association members Thursday evening. The recent warm weather has been very favorable and prospects are good for a fine blossoming of the dogwoods.

The drive will be opened with the usual colorful ceremonies which include the crowning of the Dogwood Queen and a parade of floats, bands, marching units and riding clubs.

Governor Robert F. Kennon will be asked to crown the queen, who will be selected by a secret committee. Her identity will not be revealed until the moment of coronation.

Invitations are being extended to neighboring communities to participate in the festival by sending young ladies to represent them on the new queen's court. Also, invitations are being extended to high school bands and marching units, civic groups, chambers of commerce, and city and parish officials of northwest Louisiana and southwest Arkansas to participate in the ceremonies and to enter floats in the parade.

The floats this year will have a musical theme and will depict many favorite songs.

The ceremonies will begin with the coronation at the Drive headquarters on Highway 10 on the southern outskirts of Plain Dealing at 1:30 p.m. Immediately after the coronation and the band concert, the parade will get underway. In the evening there will be a ball for teen-agers at the headquarters club.

The drive will remain open through Easter Sunday, April 10. There will be a Union Euster service at Gilmer Park, one of the beauty spots on the drive.

Sisterhood Caravan To Visit State

The Louisiana Federation of Temple Sisterhoods will sponsor its third Caravan, to points in the state, beginning today.

A group of New Orleans Sisterhood leaders will make a three day journey to north Louisiana, to tell Sisterhoods there about the recent biennial in Los Angeles, Calif., to stress leadership study, and outline a complete picture of Sisterhood on the national, district, and local levels. They will open an all day session in Shreveport today and Monroe Monday and Tuesday.

Caravan speakers will be Mrs. Bernard Goldsmith, state president and national executive board member; Mrs. Paul Kling, Jr., state corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lewis S. Alcus, state first vice-president, and bulletin and publicity chairman; and Mrs. German Baginsky, regional advisor of the Southern Federation of Temple Youth, all New Orleanians.

The Caravan's goal is to keep at high pitch interest in Sisterhood among the 12 units in the state, Mrs. Goldsmith said.

Mobile Azaleas In Mass Bloom

MOBILE—Mobile's famed azaleas, delayed for several weeks by cold weather, are now making a brilliant showing and within the next week or so should be in mass bloom. This report comes from Gaines Betbeze, Azalea Trail president, who points out that many other flowers — dogwood, redbud, bridal wreath, wisteria, and many other varieties — are joining the pageant of beauty along the 35-mile floral route.

Visitors are now coming to Mobile in great numbers and all states and several foreign countries have been represented in the city which has just completed a fabulous Mardi Gras celebration, as well as the crowning of Lee Ann Meriwether, Miss America of 1955, as Azalea Trail Queen.

Visitors arriving here during March will have the opportunity of enjoying, in addition to the flowers, many special events — music, drama, art shows, etc. — held in connection with the festival.

Also, an attraction at this time is the magnificient beauty of Bellingrath Gradens, "Charm Spot of the Deep South," some twenty miles south of Mobile where azaleas and camellias are reaching the peak of their beauty.

Full details concerning the Azalea Trail, which is sponsored by the Mobile Junior Chamber of Commerce, are available by writing the Mobile Azalea Trail, P. O. Box 172, Mobile, Ala.

Jr. Charity League Names Officers For Coming Year

The March meeting of the Junior Charity League was held at a local restaurant with Mrs. Corbin Turpin, presiding. Mrs. Jamar Adcock and Mrs. Jack Taylor decorated the tables with pink camellias and royal robe violets.

A long agenda of the League's activities was presented which included an up to date report on the Follies, the presentation of sixteen new members and bidding goodbye to members joining the inactive list.

Mrs. Robert Wood and her co-chairman, Mrs. Joe Dixon explained the work of the talent committee and urged that members and talented people in the community participate in the Follies program. They stated that the director of the Follies, David Jones, would arrive in Monroe within the week and rehearsals would begin promptly. Mrs. Jack Taylor, ticket chairman, gave an account of how ticket sales would be accomplished.

Mrs. Emmett Mitchell presented a silver tray, as a gift from the League, to Mrs. Turpin, the outgoing president, and introduced Mrs. Cavitt Cookston who will guide the League this coming year. Other officers chosen were: Vice-President, Mrs. H. B. Hargrove; secretary, Mrs. Robert Wood; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Jr.; finance, Mrs. W. L. Carbrey; assistant finance, Mrs. Tim Allen; placement, Mrs. Joe Dixon; charity hospital, Mrs. A. C. Warner; social service, Mrs. Roy C. Meek; 1st assistant, social service, Mrs. Lawrence Fox; 2nd assistant social service, Mrs. Robert George; Crippled Children's Clinic, Mrs. R. T. Faulk Jr.; clothes bank, Mrs. Bill McDowell; Charlons editor, Mrs. Jack Taylor; public relations, Mrs. Paul Ransom.

The new members welcomed into the League were Mrs. John Allin, Mrs. T. A. Calloway, Mrs. Robert Downing, Mrs. L. A. Fluesmeier, Mrs. Bruce Gregg, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Mrs. Allen Jones, Mrs. Pascal Norris, Mrs. Ben Oliphint, Mrs. Joe Powell, Mrs. Fred Sartor, Mrs. Tommy Sandridge, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Benton Wakefield, and Mrs. George Wright, Jr.

Members going on the inactive list were Mrs. Merton Abington, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Atkinson, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mrs. William Gannaway, Mrs. Lon Huer, Mrs. Bill Husted, Jr., Mrs. R. L. Pierce, Mrs. Edwin Rowan, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. Lorain Armstrong, a life member, joined the group for luncheon.

Mrs. Sherrouse Mrs. Harrison Party Hostesses

Mrs. Charles B. Sherrouse and Mrs. Claude Harrison gave a bridal luncheon on Tuesday for Miss Gloria Faye Rawls of New Orleans, whose wedding will be solemnized in April in New Orleans.

The party was given at the Sherrouse home on Island Drive where the receiving rooms were festive with spring blossoms in shades of pink. A bouquet of pink and lavender hyacinths, tulips, iris and flowering peach formed the centerpiece for the luncheon table. Pink candles burned in silver holders at each side.

The guests other than the honoree were her mother, Mrs. J. C. Rawls, Mrs. Wright Elliott, Mrs. W. O. Turner, all of New Orleans, Mrs. A. O. Evans, Mrs. R. L. Phillips of Sterlington and Mrs. Edward Holmes.

Third Symphony Concert To Be Given March 24

The next Monroe - West Monroe Symphony Concert is scheduled to be presented, by the Symphony Orchestra, Thursday night, March 24, at Brown Auditorium, N. E. Louisiana College. Dr. Harry Lemert, director of the orchestra, reports that the program will be composed of numbers that are familiar to all music lovers. They will include compositions of Mozart, Beethoven, Handel, Saint-Saens and Rimsky-Korsakov.

This will be the third program, of the current season, for the symphony orchestra, and they have been holding regular rehearsals in preparation for this event. With a talented group of over fifty members, their prime purpose is the achievement of their association in group performance. The public, and the members of the Symphony Association are fortunate indeed to have the opportunity to hear them, in concert. This season, the public will be privileged to enjoy four programs.

The next concert will include two featured artists, which should prove to be of special interest. Miss Ruth Temple, pianist, will be heard with the orchestra, in Beethoven's "Concerto No. 1 in C Major, for piano and Orchestra." Also, a harpist, from Dallas, Tex., will be heard in one or two numbers, with the orchestra. These two artists, together with the regular members, will make this a concert of unusual appeal, and a large turnout is expected, at this performance.

Members of the Symphony Orchestra Association will comprise only a part of the audience, as it is possible for non members to enjoy all of these concerts, also. Any one who enjoys truly fine music, presented by this group of outstanding musicians, may attend.

Pace-Glover Vows Said In Beautiful Church Ceremony

The Temple Baptist Church in Ruston was the scene Saturday evening at 5:30 o'clock of the marriage of Miss Eugenia Anne Glover to James Bendel Pace. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Glover of Ruston and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Pace of Farmerville.

Dr. J. C. Murphy heard the vows before an altar decorated with a profusion of white gladiola, stock and pom mums interspersed with smilax and greenery. Tall wrought iron candelabra held burning white tapers placed on each side of the altar. Evergreens and fernery were placed in choir loft and on the altar. White tapers and smilax were in the windows.

Preceding the double ring ceremony, Miss Ann Mabry of Ruston and Miss Linda Howard of Lake Providence lighted the candles. They were dressed in identical ballerina length dresses of light blue taffeta and nylon net made with sculptured bodices of irridescent sequins and wore matching bandeaus of blue velvet ribbon in their hair. Their wrist corsages were of red carnations.

Miss Jeanette Hogan rendered a program of organ music. She later accompanied Miss Martha Dunnahoe who sang, "At Dawning," "Eternally" and "No Other Love."

Mr. Charles Rugg of Athens served his cousin as best man. Ushers were Robert Humble of Calhoun, Robert Nolan of Farmerville, Billy W. Henderson and M. F. Copeland of Ruston.

Miss Frances Myers attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a ballerina length dress of light blue taffeta and nylon net made with tight bodice of irridescent sequins and wore bandeau of blue velvet ribbon in her hair. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations with white satin streamers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Misses Sue Pace, sister of the groom, Miss Margaret Glover, sister of the bride, Louise Hammock and Ione Hill, a cousin of the bride. They wore white dresses identical to the maid of honor and wore matching bandeaus. Their colonial bouquets were made of red and white carnations with red satin streamers. Acting as junior bridesmaid was another cousin of the bride, Penny Howard of Lake Providence. She was lovely in a ballerina length dress not identical to the other attendants but made of white nylon net over taffeta with tiny puffed sleeves and bands over the shoulders. She also wore white bandeau and carried bouquet identical to bridesmaids, only smaller.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original bridal gown of white satin and French Chantilly lace fashioned with a basque waist and nylon net yoke and the collar was edged in seal-nylon lops of lace. The bouffant skirt of lace over satin terminated in a chapel train. Her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace was encircled with pearls and had scallops of lace around the brim. Attached to it was a fingertip veil of illusion. A spray of gardenias formed her bridal bouquet. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Glover chose a dress of blue with navy accessories. Her corsage was of garnet colored rose buds. Mrs. Pace, mother of the groom wore a dress of dusty rose with navy accessories. Her corsage was also of garnet colored rose buds.

Immediately following the wedding the parents of the bride were hosts at a reception in the church parlor. Receiving were the bride and groom, their mothers and bride's attendants.

The reception table was covered with lovely cutwork tablecloth centered by crystal candelabra holding burning white tapers and at the base was placed the bride's bouquet of white gardenias. Bridesmaid's bouquets were placed at points on the table and at the bride's book. The wedding cake, a lovely four tiered confection topped by miniature bride and groom was made by Mrs. Dick Taylor and presented to the bride. It was was beautifully decorated with white wedding bells, roses and lily-of the valley. For a touch of color, pale green leaves were added.

Presiding at the guest's book was Miss Maribeth Graves of Bernice. Pouring punch was Miss Lubie Sutton and serving the wedding cake was Mrs. F. D. Mabry.

Out - of - town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Keener Howard, Penny and Linda, Mrs. R. K. Howard of Lake Providence; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Turner and Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Braswell, of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hill and Ione; Mrs. Sam Correro, Mrs. Anthony Correro, Mrs. Press Berry, Jr. and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tousinau and Cherry of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. R. When the bride left for the wedding trip she wore a becoming suit of dusty rose with black accessories and single white gardenia. The couple on their return will make their home in Homer. Both are recent graduates of Louisiana Tech.

Aux. Celebrates Community Service Month

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Community service month was celebrated at the Tuesday evening meeting of Powell Martin Barrett Unit No. 37, American Legion Auxiliary under the chairmanship of Mrs. Naomi H. Rosenzweig.

Community service activities included $5.00 donation to the local heart fund; book placed on the library memorial shelf on daylilies in memory of Mrs. Edna Pilcher Gilfoil; blood bank file loaned to the East Carroll parish hospital; potted ferns and plants donated to the Legion Home and to the library; co-operation in the municipal beautification program by appointment of Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen and Mrs. W. B. Cone to serve on the board; thanks extended to the parish draft board for payment of subscription of The Star for the library; training of juniors in phases of the auxiliary program and Mrs. M. M. Walsworth and Mrs. Dick Madden's guidance for presentation of a skit on safety at the April meeting; the units wire to Washington congressmen requesting a vote for national security training legislation.

Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen, speaker for the month, pointed out that the community service program was as broad and far reaching as the pride and interest the members felt in their own community, and urged that each member, whether chairman or committee member, work in their individual area to make the town a better place in which to live. Great praise was given the auxiliary and the Legion for the many projects sponsored for the good of the community.

Prior to the business session a pot luck supper was enjoyed.

Pace-Glover Vows Said In Beautiful Church Ceremony

The Temple Baptist Church in Ruston was the scene Saturday evening at 5:30 o'clock of the marriage of Miss Eugenia Anne Glover to James Bendel Pace. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Glover of Ruston and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Pace of Farmerville.

Dr. J. C. Murphy heard the vows before an altar decorated with a profusion of white gladiola, stock and pom mums interspersed with smilax and greenery. Tall wrought iron candelabra held burning white tapers placed on each side of the altar. Evergreens and fernery were placed in choir loft and on the altar. White tapers and smilax were in the windows.

Preceding the double ring ceremony, Miss Ann Mabry of Ruston and Miss Linda Howard of Lake Providence lighted the candles. They were dressed in identical ballerina length dresses of light blue taffeta and nylon net made with sculptured bodices of irridescent sequins and wore matching bandeaus of blue velvet ribbon in their hair. Their wrist corsages were of red carnations.

Miss Jeanette Hogan rendered a program of organ music. She later accompanied Miss Martha Dunnahoe who sang, "At Dawning," "Eternally" and "No Other Love."

Mr. Charles Rugg of Athens served his cousin as best man. Ushers were Robert Humble of Calhoun, Robert Nolan of Farmerville, Billy W. Henderson and M. F. Copeland of Ruston.

Miss Frances Myers attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a ballerina length dress of light blue taffeta and nylon net made with tight bodice of irridescent sequins and wore bandeau of blue velvet ribbon in her hair. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations with white satin streamers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Misses Sue Pace, sister of the groom, Miss Margaret Glover, sister of the bride, Louise Hammock and Ione Hill, a cousin of the bride. They wore white dresses identical to the maid of honor and wore matching bandeaus. Their colonial bouquets were made of red and white carnations with red satin streamers. Acting as junior bridesmaid was another cousin of the bride, Penny Howard of Lake Providence. She was lovely in a ballerina length dress not identical to the other attendants but made of white nylon net over taffeta with tiny puffed sleeves and bands over the shoulders. She also wore white bandeau and carried bouquet identical to bridesmaids, only smaller.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original bridal gown of white satin and French Chantilly lace fashioned with a basque waist and nylon net yoke and the collar was edged in seal-lops of lace. The bouffant skirt of lace over satin terminated in a chapel train. Her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace was encircled with pearls and had scallops of lace around the brim. Attached to it was a fingertip veil of illusion. A spray of gardenias formed her bridal bouquet. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Glover chose a dress of blue nylon with navy accessories. Her corsage was of garnet colored rose buds. Mrs. Pace, mother of the groom wore a dress of dusty rose with navy accessories. Her corsage was also of garnet colored rose buds.

Immediately following the wedding the parents of the bride were hosts at a reception in the church parlor. Receiving were the bride and groom, their mothers and bride's attendants.

The reception table was covered with lovely cutwork tablecloth centered by crystal candelabra holding burning white tapers and at the base was placed the bride's bouquet of white gardenias. Bridesmaid's bouquets were placed at points on the table and at the bride's book. The wedding cake, a lovely four tiered confection topped by miniature bride and groom was made by Mrs. Dick Taylor and presented to the bride. It was was beautifully decorated with white wedding bells, roses and lily-of the valley. For a touch of color, pale green leaves were added.

Presiding at the guest's book was Miss Maribeth Graves of Bernice. Pouring punch was Miss Lubie Sutton and serving the wedding cake was Mrs. F. D. Mabry.

Out - of - town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Keener Howard, Penny and Linda, Mrs. R. K. Howard of Lake Providence; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Turner and Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Braswell, of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hill and Ione; Mrs. Sam Correro, Mrs. Anthony Correro, Mrs. Press Berry, Jr. and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tousinau and Cherry of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Barbee and Mr. and Mrs. Harris Wise of Shreveport; Mrs. David Rugg, Mr. Jasper Rugg, Mrs. Emma Rabun, Mrs. O. E. Glover of Farmerville; Mrs. Will Harris, Mrs. P. E. Glover, Mrs. Jennie Lou Graves, Mrs. Janie Milner, of Bernice; Mrs. Fred Hamilton and Mrs. Ora Wilkinson of Downsville; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Perry of Bastrop. Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Hammock, Ronnie and Ree of Logansport, Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll Farrar of Bernice; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Farrar of Lillie; Mr. and Mrs. Nicklas and Merrill Nicklas of El Dorado; Mrs. Drew Greer of Homer.

MRS. JAMES C. CUNNINGHAM

Former Monroyan Is Wed In Hammond, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Cunningham, the former Miss Marilyn Jean Coleman, are making their home at 5919 Hyslop Place, Hammond, Ind., following their recent marriage there at St. John Bosco Church.

The Reverend John Bart solemnized the 5 p.m. rites uniting in marriage the daughter of George D. Coleman and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Roy of West Monroe.

The bride wore a white knit dress for her wedding. Her fingertip veil was secured by a pearl trimmed lace crown and she carried a bouquet of Amazon lilies of the valley.

Miss Dorothy Franyi, the maid of honor wore a pink knit dress and carried pink camellias and lily of the valley.

John W. Malmay served the bridegroom as best man at the double ring ceremony, following which the couple received 150 guests at a reception in the home of the bride's father. Mrs. Cunningham changed into a gray suit with black and red accessories for traveling to Chicago, where the couple spent their honeymoon.

A student at Purdue University, Calumet Campus, Mr. Cunningham attended both Louisiana Tech and Northeast State College in Louisiana.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Woodrow Roy, mother of the bridegroom, Gary Roy and John W. Malmay, all of West Monroe.

Girl Scout News

The green uniform was very much in evidence last Sunday in the Twin Cities, as groups of girls attended church, ate together at noon and afterward took part in the Girl Scout birthday celebration. The ones we saw at church certainly looked like typical Girl Scouts. Among the troops making a day of it by eating dinner together after church were Troops 9, 14, 23, 36, and 43.

As for the birthday program, it is one that is carried out entirely by the girls. There is nothing the grownups like to see any better than Brownies going up on the stage to light a candle for their troop and to present the birthday pennies. Of course, you want to know what the birthday pennies amounted to. $37.23, we're told. Surely a few more pennies and nickels and dimes will straggle in to make a total of $100.00.

True to their promise, Troop 23 had the largest offering, $23.00. Leader, Mrs. L. L. Nash, says the girls worked hard on their project of a party to which they invited the upper grades at St. Matthews and also invited these friends to donate to the fund. Last year's leader, Troop 21, Mrs. Raymond Boyd, leader, was second this year. We mention these troops for their special efforts, realizing at the same time that the large amount comes from the girls who give pennies for each year of their ages or for their troop numbers.

Nancy Martin, of Troop 31, presided beautifully over the program, which opened with a flag ceremony in charge of seven girls of troop 43. Linda Bird was in charge, Eileen Ewing and Charlene Cascio were flag bearers for the United States and Girl Scout flags and color guards were Alma Faulk, Pat Ford, Sue Hill and Bonnie Dupuy.

In the International Friendship playlet, the girls of Troop 31 all took part, with the symbolism of the trefoil of the world association being explained by Karen Brady, Nell Laws, Ann Ragland, Mary Martin and Harriet Hays. Edwina Hopkins of Troop 29 was the spirit of Friendship and the girls representing Scouting in other countries and the U. S. A. were Paula Bauer, and Sahron Hays, Troop 47, Tavie Kenny, Troop 21, Carol Haddad and Linda Keller, Troop 34, Susie Quillen, Troop 43, Janet Beard, Troop 9, and Ann McCarty, Troop 31.

Ann McCarty showed such speaking ability at the annual dinner in February that she has since been elected by the girls for a speaking part on several occasions. The Choral Prayer which followed the flag ceremony was given by eleven girls of Troop 33, whose leader is Mrs. L. E. Skains. Laura Allen, Anne Hemphill, Sally Barham, Helen Touchstone, Nancy Johnson, Tommie Jean Dixon, Minta Goyne, Mary Lee Milstead, Linda Crow, Jeanne Foster, and Lea Skains.

We hope you saw and heard some of the local and national radio and television programs. Eight girls of Senior Troop 14 were guests on Mrs. Swift's program where they demonstrated homemade gadgets for out of door cooking, as contrasted with the up-to-date equipment Mrs. Swift uses. The girls who appeared are Boofie Malone, Ingrid Peterson, Betty Hines, Betty Hemphill, Marie Nel-

I. H. Garlands Host Open House In New Home

The I. H. Garlands and their daughter, Joyce, were hosts at an open house on Sunday in their new home on Crew Lake.

Scores of friends and well-wishers called during the afternoon.

Guests were received by Mrs. Garland who was wearing a becoming grey spring suit complemented by a corsage of white gladiolas. Miss Garland was attired in a pink model.

Mrs. Don Garland assisted in receiving guests and showing them through the new residence.

A picturesque arrangement of red carnations enhanced the living room. In the dining area was a large bouquet of pink gladiolas.

Red camellias in a low bowl formed the centerpiece for the dining table which was overlaid with a lace cloth over yellow. Presiding at the punch service and assisting in the courtesies were Misses May Joyce Fuller, Patricia Ann Fuller, Mary Ann Robinson and Pamelia Fuller.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Norman, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson, Jr., Edwin Yancey, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, L. J. Downes, Dr. and Mrs. John Hooks, all of Rayville.

Mrs. Colvin Fuller of West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Smith of Mangham, Mrs. Rowena Jones and son of Lillie, Rev. and Mrs. James Poole and son of Oak Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. James Deal and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Fuller and daughters of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Roberts of Alto, Mr. Lasley Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hoben of Clear Lake, Mrs. Ruth Ingram and daughter and Mr. J. Nolan of Picayune, Miss.

Vary that ready-prepared pie crust mix. Use lemon juice, instead of water, as the liquid and add a teaspoon or two of grated lemon rind. This flavor combinations is wonderful with apple pie. Or add about half a cup of finely chopped pecans to the mix before adding the water called for on the package and use when you want pastry shells for chiffon pies.

Nash, says the girls worked hard on their project of a party to which they invited the upper grades at St. Matthews and also invited these friends to donate to the fund. Last year's leader, Troop 21, Mrs. Raymond Boyd, leader, was second this year. We mention these troops for their special efforts, realizing at the same time that the large amount comes from the girls who give pennies for each year of their ages or for their troop numbers.

Nancy Martin, of Troop 31, presided beautifully over the program, which opened with a flag ceremony in charge of seven girls of troop 43. Linda Bird was in charge, Eileen Ewing and Charlene Cascio were flag bearers for the United States and Girl Scout flags and color guards were Alma Faulk, Pat Ford, Sue Hill and Bonnie Dupuy.

In the International Friendship playlet, the girls of Troop 31 all took part, with the symbolism of the trefoil of the world association being explained by Karen Brady, Nell Laws, Ann Ragland, Mary Martin and Harriet Hays. Edwina Hopkins of Troop 29 was the spirit of Friendship and the girls representing Scouting in other countries and the U. S. A. were Paula Bauer, and Sahron Hays, Troop 47, Tavie Kenny, Troop 21, Carol Haddad and Linda Keller, Troop 34, Susie Quillen, Troop 43, Janet Beard, Troop 9, and Ann McCarty, Troop 31.

Ann McCarty showed such speaking ability at the annual dinner in February that she has since been elected by the girls for a speaking part on several occasions. The Choral Prayer which followed the flag ceremony was given by eleven girls of Troop 33, whose leader is Mrs. L. E. Skains. Laura Allen, Anne Hemphill, Sally Barham, Helen Touchstone, Nancy Johnson, Tommie Jean Dixon, Minta Goyne, Mary Lee Milstead, Linda Crow, Jeanne Foster, and Lea Skains.

We hope you saw and heard some of the local and national radio and television programs. Eight girls of Senior Troop 14 were guests on Mrs. Swift's program where they demonstrated homemade gadgets for out of door cooking, as contrasted with the up-to-date equipment Mrs. Swift uses. The girls who appeared are Boofie Malone, Ingrid Peterson, Betty Hines, Betty Hemphill, Marie Nelson, Sue Grower, Malise Mapp and Jo Ann Usrey. They know what they're talking about, because they use that kind of equipment in their camping program.

I. H. Garlands Host Open House In New Home

The I. H. Garlands and their daughter, Joyce, were hosts at an open house on Sunday in their new home on Crew Lake.

Scores of friends and well-wishers called during the afternoon.

Guests were received by Mrs. Garland who was wearing a becoming grey spring suit complemented by a corsage of white gladiolas. Miss Garland was attired in a pink model.

Mrs. Don Garland assisted in receiving guests and showing them through the new residence.

A picturesque arrangement of red carnations enhanced the living room. In the dining area was a large bouquet of pink gladiolas.

Red camellias in a low bowl formed the centerpiece for the dining table which was overlaid with a lace cloth over yellow. Presiding at the punch service and assisting in the courtesies were Misses May Joyce Fuller, Patricia Ann Fuller, Mary Ann Robinson and Pamelia Fuller.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Norman, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson, Jr., Edwin Yancey, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, L. J. Downes, Dr. and Mrs. John Hooks, all of Rayville.

Mrs. Colvin Fuller of West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Smith of Mangham, Mrs. Rowena Jones and son of Lillie, Rev. and Mrs. James Poole and son of Oak Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. James Deal and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Fuller and daughters of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Roberts of Alto, Mr. Lasley Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hoben of Clear Lake, Mrs. Ruth Ingram and daughter and Mr. J. Nolan of Picayune, Miss.

Vary that ready-prepared pie crust mix. Use lemon juice, instead of water, as the liquid and add a teaspoon or two of grated lemon rind. This flavor combinations is wonderful with apple pie. Or add about half a cup of finely chopped pecans to the mix before adding the water called for on the package and use when you want pastry shells for chiffon pies.

MRS. JOE R. ENGLISH

Miss Cooper Is Bride Of Joe R. English

Miss Orel Lene Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cooper, of Sterlington and Joe R. English, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. English of Marion, N. C. were united in marriage on Thursday evening, March 3, at Queensboro Baptist Church in Shreveport, with Rev. Stanley Jordan officiating. The wedding ceremony, performed in the presence of a few close friends and relatives, was marked with quiet dignity and lovely simplicity.

The brides only attendant was her twin sister, Miss Bobbye Jene Cooper of Sterlington. Howard W. McDonald of Shreveport, served as best man.

Mrs. English, a graduate of Louisiana Tech, is a teacher in the Judson St. School in Shreveport, where she and her twin sister have been employed for the past two years.

Mr. English attended North Carolina State Coilege in Railegh, N.C. before serving in the Armed Forces. He plans to resume his college work at Louisiana Tech next semester.

News From The Public Library

To a lover of books there is something about the appearance of a stack of new books that is especially thrilling. This week we added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library a number of new titles of fiction, books to be read for pure entertainment. None of them will probably ever be classed as great books, but most of them are appealing and well written.

Among this week's books are three which can be classed as serious novels. "Venture into Darkness" by Alice Tisdale Hobart is a novel about an American businessman who came to grips with communism in China. It is a fascinating story of international intrigue, written by an author who lived twenty years in China and really knows the country. "The Experts" by Martin Mayer is a novel of present day politics and about a man who doubted himself. "The Curlew's Cry" by Mildred Walker is an interesting picture of the growth of an American town during the past century. It is also the story of a woman and how she found herself at last.

Books with a foreign setting are always popular, especially when they are mixed with intrigue and mystery. "Fellow Passenger" by Geoffrey Household is another of his stories of suspense. It deals with the adventures of a young Englishman, whose past had not always been too circumspect. "Maracaibo" is a story of adventure and of love set in the oil fields of Venezuela where black gold is drawn up from the very floor of Lake Maracaibo. "Escape from Pimlico" by Robert Standish is a novel of a woman's will to triumph over every obstacle that stood in the way of her personal fulfillment. It has an interesting setting which changes from London to an island in the Bahamas.

"The Man from Mesabi" by Sarah Lockwood is a novel of iron, money and love with its setting in the Mesabi region of Minnesota. "By Sun and Candlelight" by Patricia Campbell is a novel with the setting in a tiny lumber community in Puget Sound late in the 19th century. It is the story of three women and two men and is a very interesting story. "The Moment Before the Rain" by Elizabeth Enright is a collection of eighteen short stories, written with beauty and perceptiveness.

Emile Loring is an author who has a large popular following who will welcome her latest story "I Take This Man." It is a story of romance and suspense set in a background of glittering society and withal it includes a simple love story.

In addition to the books mentioned there are a number of new mysteries available at all the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. We invite your patronage.

Want an extra-special cream sauce for cooked vegetables. Make a white sauce using half vegetable liquid and half cream for the milk called for in the standard recipe. This works well with such vegetables as cauliflower, snap beans, peas and carrots. Top the vegetables with the sauce, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and brown under the broiler.

Make sandwiches of thin eggplant slices and cheese; arrange in a baking dish and cover with tomato sauce. Bake in a moderate oven and serve with crusty French bread and a green salad. For dessert a sponge cake filled with vanilla custard and small cups of strong hot coffee.

MR. AND MRS. ALLEN L. SHELL

Allen L. Shells Celebrate Their 50th Anniversary

On the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Shell were honored in a special celebration at their family home in Chatham last Sunday. Six of their seven children and 21 of their 27 grandchildren and great grandchildren were present, as well as many other relatives and friends.

Those enjoying the occasion with the couple were Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Russell and children — Doug, Betty, Gwyn, Kent, Sissy, Bill, Ronnie and Gary; Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Brumfield and daughters, Barbara and Beverly; Travis Vincent, all of Orange, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Shell and daughter, Lillie Mae; Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Shell, and children, Dickie and Jan, of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Garland Shell of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacobs, Paul Dwayne, David and Dwight of Chatham; Reverend J. T. Garrett, Chatham; Mrs. Alice Griggs, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Robinson and Dee; Lee Hunt, Joel Griggs; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Griggs and daughter, Lynn; Mr. Richard Griggs — all of West Monroe; Mr. Sidney Griggs and sons, Harold and Jessie, of Chatham.

In addition to enjoying dinner with their family and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Shell visited 93-year-old Reverend Dennis Fordham in the Zoar Community who performed their wedding ceremony.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By MARION FISHER

This is "International Theatre Month," a world - wide movement sponsored each March in the U. S. by the American National Theatre and Academy and the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO. This ITM movement encourages community, educational, and professional theatres to focus their spotlights on plays whose universal themes bring home to audiences the United Nations aim of world peace through international understanding.

In this connection we quote Laurence Olivier, British actor, and producer. "Of all the arts, that of the theatre is the most universal, at the same time as being the most immediate in its good influence, in that, of all things, it is the initial glamorizer of thought, the sugar to coat the dry pill of idea."

It is timely that our own Monroe Little Theatre is preparing during the month of March, the classic, rollicking comedy, by Oliver Goldsmith, "She Stoops to Conquer," as its fourth production of the season. Although two weeks of rehearsals, with an incomplete cast, have been somewhat of a handicap to director Thom Feuerstein, he optimistically anticipates that the coming week will put an end to this difficulty.

An item of interest, concerning the stage setting, for this play, is the fact that it will have three different sets. This will be effected by using painted back-drops. The eighteenth century costumes will add interest, and color to the characterizations. All in all, this play is going to be a definite "must" for all theaterites in this area.

On Thursday and Friday nights, of the past week, the Business and Professional Women's Club of Bastrop, put on Thornton Wilder's "Our Town." It was an outstanding success, and much credit goes to Bill Harp for his competent direction. Bill made the trip, from New York to his home town for the purpose of working with this talented cast, which played to a full house both nights. Monroe Little Theaterites will remember Bill for his roles in "Rope," and "All My Sons" at our local playhouse. He has recently been working as a set decorator, in several N. Y. shows, including "Studio One." Among first nighters in the audience at the Bastrop High school, on Thursday night, were seen board member Julius Cahn, vice president of the board, Lealis Hale, and his wife, Frances, Mrs. P. E. Walker, and other Monroe Little Theatreites.

Thumbnail sketch — Ann Thompson, who plays the role of "Miss Constance" in "She Stoops To Conquer" is a native of Bastrop, La. She has lived in Monroe for the last twelve years, and is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and also of N. E. Louisiana State, with a degree of B. S. in education. Although this is Ann's first appearance in a Little Theatre play, she participated in her senior class play, in high school, in the role of script girl. She was also active, as a member of the stage crew in dramatic presentations, in college. She is a member of the faculty of the West Monroe High school, teaching shorthand and typing, as well as being sponsor for the "Rebelettes." Her hobby is collecting records of both classical and popular music.

News From The Public Library

Patrons of the Ouachita parish public library are urged to remember that the monthly showing of preview films will take place this week. Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, has announced that four films dealing with the subject of marriage and family life will be shown at the Monroe library Monday night and at the West Monroe branch library on Tuesday night. The time for both showings will be 6 p.m. These films are especially fine for adolescents and those working with adolescents.

For persons planning a trip abroad or to any of the neighboring countries this summer are reminded it is not too early to start reading. A fascinating title received this last week is "McKay's Guide to Bermuda, the Bahamas and the Caribbean." Similar books are available for Mexico and most of the European countries.

Problems of teen-agers are a concern of the parish librarian whenever she makes out a book order. To fill the demand for books written to help them solve some of their problems, the Franklin Parish Library has recently purchased a number of very interesting titles. One of the most popular of these is "Your Dating Days" by Landis. Some others now in use or on order include "Milestones for Modern Teens" by Crawford; "How to be a Successful Teen-ager" by Menninger; and "What's Your P. Q. (personality quotient)" by Daly.

The Franklin Parish Library has had to purchase duplicate copies of books mentioned or reviewed on TV programs. Among the books for which there is still a strong demand are "I'll Cry Tomorrow," "Qataban and Sheba," "I Looked and I Listened," and "The Tumult and the Shouting." Of course, books discussed by northeast librarians at special "Reading Festival" TV programs are always requested.

In February 368 new books were added to the collection of the Franklin Parish library, bringing the total book collection to 15,744, Mrs. Eunice H. Cotton, librarian, has announced.

The Madison parish library is giving regular assistance to members of the committee working out details of the historical parade planned as a part of the Kate Stone Day celebration in Tallulah on March 17. This will honor the publication of the book "Broken Burn, The Journal of Kate Stone, 1861-1868" by the L. S. U. Press.

Kate Stone, then a young girl, was a resident of Madison when the War Between the States began and later the family trekked to Texas and back. The journal was preserved by her daughter, Amy Holmes, who still lives in Tallulah and has been edited by Dr. John Q. Anderson.

The East Carroll parish library has been unusually busy this past month due partly to the fact that this is a reading season and partly to the increased activity because of the reading festival. As part of the festival program, talks to three groups have been planned for March. Miss Elizabeth Cammack, parish librarian, talked to the Lake Providence Garden Club on March 8th using as a basis an annotated bibliography, "Guides for Gardeners," issued by the library. Mrs. Naomi Rosemzweig, Lake Providence branch assistant will discuss books on color in the home and interior decoration as part of a home demonstration meeting on March the 22nd. Miss Myra Bishop, Bookmobile assistant, is scheduled to appear before a Hobby Club in the Monticello community late in March. Her subject is books on hobbies.

Lenten reading which has been popular recently include "In God's Image" by Stevenson, "Ride the Wild Horses" by Hamilton, "Channels of Spiritual Power" by Laubach, "Calvery in China" by Greene and the "Greatest Story Ever Told" by Ousler.

And along with flower-growing books, Mrs. Bellah H. Hyle reports a great demand for books on flower arrangements, and the growing of specific plants, camellias, dahlias, azaleas, iris and so on.

One of the services of the LaSalle parish library is to provide films for use by organized groups. During the month of February nineteen films were shown to 871 people in the parish.

ITINERARY OF ANNUAL GARDEN TOUR
OF THE
SHREVEPORT BEAUTIFICATION FOUNDATION
1955

MAP OF GARDEN TOUR—The tour this year starts at the ravine garden on the Centenary College campus. Here membership can be purchased and tour maps will be available. A membership fee of $2.00 provides admittance to all gardens, and proceeds will be used to support the beautification projects of the foundation.

Shreveport Garden Tour Set For March 19-20

SHREVEPORT — The annual garden tour of the Shreveport Beautification Foundation will be held on Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20, and will include five of Shreveport's most interesting gardens, according to Mrs. Hollingsworth B. Barret, tour committee chairman. Gardens open for the tour are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Dean, 807 River Road; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Neild, 1075 Erie; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Colon, 520 Elmwood; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Holcomb, Jr., 957 Monrovia; and Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Herring, 205 Bruce Street. Also included in the tour will be the Foundation's recent beautification project, a ravine garden, on the Centenary College campus.

Mr. Guy Kendrick, president, stated that 1955 Beautification Foundation membership cards will admit members to all gardens, and memberships will be on sale at $2.00 each with the following in charge: Dean garden, Mrs. John F. Magale; Neild garden, Mrs. Green Smitherman; Colon garden, Mrs. N. C. Barker; Holcomb garden, Mrs. Howard Crumley; Herring garden, Mrs. Charles Boone; Centenary Campus, Mrs. John R. Palmer; or at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce in the Captain Shreve Hotel. Maps of the tour and memberships will also be available Saturday and Sunday on the Centenary College campus. All revenues of the garden tour and the Foundation are used to help finance its beautification projects in the Shreveport area.

"Both contemporary and traditional garden plantings have been chosen and gardens included in the tour this year should delight the hundreds of Ark-La-Tex flower lovers who attend each year," Mrs. Barret said.

Favorite Poems Program For Caddoan Club

The Caddoan Club met at Oak Ridge community hall Monday evening with Mrs. C. M. Williams and Mrs. S. P. Williams as co - hostesses.

Mrs. Glen L. Greene led the program on favorite poems. Poems were given by Mrs. Jack Carey, Mrs. C. M. Williams, Mrs. W. A. Shaw, Mrs. J. M. Poole, Mrs. W. P. Smith and Mrs. T. R. Files who recited "My Last Duchess" by Robert Browning.

Edwards Barham, representing the Junior Red Cross of Oak Ridge High School, spoke to the club in the interest of the Red Cross campaign. The club decided to hold a rummage sale on Saturday to raise funds for the Red Cross.

Pages to serve a day at the L. F. W. C. convention in Monroe the last of April were named, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mrs. J. M. Poole, Mrs. H. A. Pipes, Jr., and Mrs. W. M. Rolfe.

The hostesses served refreshments to Miss Betty Jean Winnon, Mrs. Mason McEnery, Mrs. W. M. Nolan, Mrs. H. E. Stevenson, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mrs. W. A. Shaw, Mrs. W. M. Rolfe, Mrs. J. M. Poole, Mrs. H. Junior Members Speak For Red Cross

The Pierian Club met at Oak Ridge community hall Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. S. White and Mrs. R. C. Windsor as hostesses.

Kay Conger and Helen Jones, members of the Junior Red Cross in Oak Ridge High School spoke in the interest of the Red Cross campaign now being carried on for funds.

Mrs. C. E. Shepard, chairman of education, explained the scope of that department. As a member of the community Oak Ridge development committee, she suggested that there may be people, desirous of enrolling their children in our excellent school and bringing them up in a small community, who will move in, and commute to work in near-by commercial centers.

A film was shown, through the courtesy of Jackson and Perkins Company of Newark, presenting the new giant hardy chrysanthemums.

Refreshments were served from a St. Patrick's Day table to Mrs. E. B. Smith, who was welcomed as a new member, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Shepard, Mrs. James Rolfe, Mrs. C. G. Rolfe, Mrs. W. M. Nolan, Mrs. Elmer McLendon, Mrs. Norman McDuffie, Mrs. M. T. Limerick, Mrs. Edwin Conger, Mrs. A. B. Conger, Mrs. J. P. Causey, Mrs. John Barr and Mrs. E. M. Barham.

You won't have to do any heavy scrubbing of the broiler in your range if you line it with aluminum foil before using.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By MARION FISHER

This is "International Theatre Month," a world - wide movement sponsored each March in the U. S. by the American National Theatre and Academy and the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO. This ITM movement encourages community, educational, and professional theatres to focus their spotlights on plays whose universal themes bring home to audiences the United Nations aim of world peace through international understanding.

In this connection we quote Laurence Olivier, British actor, and producer. "Of all the arts, that of the theatre is the most universal, at the same time as being the most immediate in its good influence, in that, of all things, it is the initial glamorizer of thought, the sugar to coat the dry pill of idea."

It is timely that our own Monroe Little Theatre is preparing during the month of March, the classic, rollicking comedy, by Oliver Goldsmith, "She Stoops to Conquer," as its fourth production of the season. Although two weeks of rehearsals, with an incomplete cast, have been somewhat of a handicap to director Thom Feuerstein, he optimistically anticipates that the coming week will put an end to this difficulty.

An item of interest, concerning the stage setting, for this play, is the fact that it will have three different sets. This will be effected by using painted back-drops. The eighteenth century costumes will add interest, and color to the characterizations. All in all, this play is going to be a definite "must" for all theaterites in this area.

On Thursday and Friday nights, of the past week, the Business and Professional Womens Club of Bastrop, put on Thornton Wilder's "Our Town." It was an outstanding success, and much credit goes to Bill Harp for his competent direction. Bill made the trip, from New York to his home town for the purpose of working with this talented cast, which played to a full house both nights. Monroe Little Theaterites will remember Bill for his roles in "Rope," and "All My Sons" at our local playhouse. He has recently been working as a set decorator, in several N. Y. shows, including "Studio One." Among first nighters in the audience at the Bastrop High school, on Thursday night, were seen board member Julius Cahn, vice president of the board, Lealis Hale, and his wife, Frances, Mrs. P. E. Walker, and other Monroe Little Theatreites.

Thumbnail sketch — Ann Thompson, who plays the role of "Miss Constance" in "She Stoops To Conquer" is a native of Bastrop, La. She has lived in Monroe for the last twelve years, and is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and also of N. E. Louisiana State, with a degree of B. S. in education. Although this is Ann's first appearance in a Little Theatre play, she participated in her senior class play, in high school, in the role of script girl. She was also active, as a member of the stage crew in dramatic presentations, in college. She is a member of the faculty of the West Monroe High school, teaching shorthand and typing, as well as being sponsor for the "Rebelettes." Her hobby is collecting records of both classical and popular music.

News From The Public Library

Patrons of the Ouachita parish public library are urged to remember that the monthly showing of preview films will take place this week. Meatless Meals

At this time of the year many housewives are faced with the problem of preparing meatless dishes. Let's remember that one - dish meals can be our answer for these Lenten dishes. A one - dish meal should contain a protein food. This can be a meat substitute such as dried beans, peas, other cereal products and a sauce. Be sure that there are vegetables to supply the vitamin A and C contents. The sauce that you use may be a white sauce, or milk or vegetable juice, and the topping could be mashed potatoes, potato chips, cereal products, or bread crumbs. Last, but not least, be sure to include a carbohydrate food. This carbohydrate food is a food that gives the extra satiety value to your one-dish meal and is the filler. A one-dish meal can provide one - third to one - half of your meal's requirement. Recipes prepared by Mrs. Irene Turner, nutrition specialist, on one - dish, meals can be obtained by calling 3-2251, or contacting the nutrition leader of the home demonstration club in your community. These leaders were trained in preparing one-dish meals and each gave this demonstration to her club.

Vegetables — Varieties Recommended

It's gardening time. Follow recommendations when buying seeds.

Tomatoes: Marglobe, Rutgers, Louisiana All season, Vancross.

Snap beans: Canfreezer, Kentucky Wonder, Green Savage, Blue Lake.

Lima beans: (Bush) Henderson's, Clark's, Early Thorogreen.

Lima beans: (Pole) Sieva, Challenger, Willow Leaf.

Corn: Aristogold Bantam - Evergreen.

Okra: Louisiana Spineless Green Velvet, Louisiana Market.

Use ten pounds 8-8-8 or equal to 100 foot row of tomatoes and side dress with two pounds nitrogen when first blossoms appear. A dozen or so plants put out now and protected with fruit jars or caps will give early tomatoes.

For okra use six pounds of same fertilizer per 100 feet row and side dress with nitrogen; corn, use eight pounds and side dress with three pounds of nitrogen. For lima and pole beans use four pounds of 5-10-5 per 100 feet of row. No side dressing needed.

Washing That Nylon Taffeta Peticoat.

"Don't throw away that favorite nylon taffeta petticoat just because it has lost its stiffness. Starch it. Putting the perkiness back into nylon taffeta is easy.

1. "First launder petticoat as usual, leaving it damp for starching. Then measure two quarts cold water into pan large enough for starching, and gradually add 1¼ cups precooked cold water starch.

2. "Dip petticoat up and down several times in starch solution, pressing starch solution through garment. Do not wring. Fasten dripping skirt at wasitband to line and let it drip dry. Petticoat will be extremely stiff when dry but will have a softer finish after ironing.

3. "Iron petticoat with iron set at temperature for nylon and while it is still lamp."

Meatless Meals

At this time of the year many housewives are faced with the problem of preparing meatless dishes. Let's remember that one - dish meals can be our answer for these Lenten dishes. A one - dish meal should contain a protein food. This can be a meat substitute such as dried beans, peas, other cereal products and a sauce. Be sure that there are vegetables to supply the vitamin A and C contents. The sauce that you use may be a white sauce, or milk or vegetable juice, and the topping could be mashed potatoes, potato chips, cereal products, or bread crumbs. Last, but not least, be sure to include a carbohydrate food. This carbohydrate food is a food that gives the extra satiety value to your one-dish meal and is the filler. A one-dish meal can provide one - third to one - half of your meal's requirement. Recipes prepared by Mrs. Irene Turner, nutrition specialist, on one - dish meals can be obtained by calling 3-2251, or contacting the nutrition leader of the home demonstration club in your community. These leaders were trained in preparing one-dish meals and each gave this demonstration to her club.

Vegetables — Varieties Recommended

It's gardening time. Follow recommendations when buying seeds.

Tomatoes: Marglobe, Rutgers, Louisiana All season, Vancross.

Snap beans: Canfreezer, Kentucky Wonder, Green Savage, Blue Lake.

Lima beans: (Bush) Henderson's, Clark's, Early Thorogreen.

Lima beans: (Pole) Sieva, Challenger, Willow Leaf.

Corn: Aristogold Bantam - Evergreen.

Okra: Louisiana Spineless Green Velvet, Louisiana Market.

Use ten pounds 8-8-8 or equal to 100 foot row of tomatoes and side dress with two pounds nitrogen when first blossoms appear. A dozen or so plants put out now and protected with fruit jars or cans will give early tomatoes.

For okra use six pounds of same fertilizer per 100 feet row and side dress with nitrogen; corn, use eight pounds and side dress with three pounds of nitrogen. For lima and pole beans use four pounds of 5-10-5 per 100 feet of row. No side dressing needed.

Washing That Nylon Taffeta Peticoat.

"Don't throw away that favorite nylon taffeta petticoat just because it has lost its stiffness. Starch it. Putting the perkiness back into nylon taffeta is easy.

1. "First launder petticoat as usual, leaving it damp for starching. Then measure two quarts cold water into pan large enough for starching, and gradually add 1¼ cups precooked cold water starch.

2. "Dip petticoat up and down several times in starch solution, pressing starch solution through garment. Do not wring. Fasten dripping skirt at wasitband to line and let it drip dry. Petticoat will be extremely stiff when dry but will have a softer finish after ironing.

3. "Iron petticoat with iron set at temperature for nylon and while it is still lamp."

Northwestern Graduate School Will Open April 1

NATCHITOCHES, March 12 (Special) —An academic convocation to give formal recognition to the opening of the Northwestern State College graduate school, and at the same time to inaugurate Dr. John S. Kyser as president of NSC, is in the planning stage here this week.

According to Mitchell Reames, co-chairman of the inauguration committee, a two-day program, in which some of the country's outstanding educators will take part, is planned. Formal opening of the graduate school will be held on April 1, and the inauguration of the NSC president will be set forth the next day.

Tentative plans for the entire event call for a program to launch the graduate program on Friday, April 1, with Dr. T. M. Stinnett, executive secretary of the national commission on teacher education and professional standards, making the principal address.

On Friday evening there will be a banquet with Dr. Roger P. McCutcheon, director of the program for the preparation of college teachers at Vanderbilt University, being the principal speaker. Dr. McCutcheon, is former dean of the graduate school at Tulane University.

On Saturday morning, April 2, will be held formal ceremonies inaugurating President Kyser. Chief speaker for this event will be Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida. Following the inaugural, there will be a luncheon, the final event of the convocation.

TO ATTEND MEET

Clyde J. Pohl, 1300 South Fifth Street, junior past head consul of the Louisiana Head Camp, and H. J. Bouler, of Swartz, an auditor of the Louisiana Camp, will attend the state convention of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, March 20 to 22, in the Bentley Hotel, Alexandria.

NW College Science Fair Set March 26

NATCHITOCHES, March 12 — (Special) —Entries are pouring in for the Northwestern State College Regional Science Fair, to be held here on March 26, it was announced today by J. A. Manning of the Natchitoches high school faculty and chairman of the fair committee.

According to Manning, approximately 200 high school students from the surrounding area will have exhibits in the forthcoming program. Winners of the exhibitions in the regional fair will be eligible to enter the statewide science fair in New Orleans on April 15.

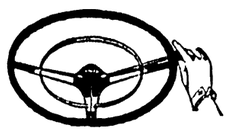
Are you a "Do-It-Yourself" Driver?

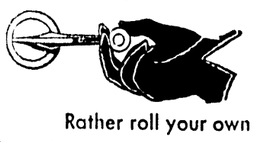
Or would you rather be waited on hand and foot?



Rather shift for yourself . . . or let Powerglide do it?

Shifting's smooth and easy with Chevrolet's new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission. A flick of your wrist is all it takes to shift gears.

Powerglide, too, is better than ever this year. Even smoother and sturdier. It's the most popular automatic transmission* in Chevrolet's field!



Rather roll your own . . . or just push a button?

Chevrolet gives you separate crank controls both for windows and ventipanes. It's one of many extra conveniences in Chevrolet's Body by Fisher.

Your fingertip adjusts all four windows with automatic window and seat controls.* Are available on all Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models.

Position the seat yourself . . . or let electricity do it?

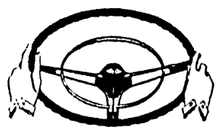
Chevrolet's big, beautifully upholstered front seat moves up and forward or down and back into your most comfortable driving position.

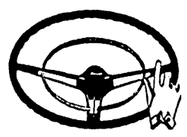
No worry about your battery in a new Chevrolet. It's the only car in its field with the reserve power of a 12-volt electrical system!

Apply the brakes like this . . . or have power make it easier?

Improved brakes and new swing-type pedals make stopping a cinch. And Chevrolet's exclusive Anti-Dive control gives you "heads up" stops!

Chevrolet Power Brakes* are better than ever this year—let you stop by a simple pivot of your foot from accelerator to swing type brake pedal.





Want standard steering . . . or extra-easy Power Steering?

Try this easy new Chevrolet steering. Only Chevrolet and some higher-priced cars use a ball bearing system to cut friction to a minimum.

There's nothing quite so easy as Power Steering, of course. Good news: Chevrolet's new linkage-type Power Steering* carries a reduced price!

Automatically—

Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars!

What's a high-priced car got that Chevrolet hasn't? Not automatic power features. Not style—just look below. Not performance—just try out Chevrolet's new V8 or one of the new 6's. Not ride—perhaps the thing that will surprise you most is Chevrolet's fine, solid feel on the road. Come put it to the test. See how Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars in every way!

Optional at extra cost.

According to Mitchell Reames, co-chairman of the inauguration committee, a two-day program, in which some of the country's outstanding educators will take part, is planned. Formal opening of the graduate school will be held on April 1, and the inauguration of the NSC president will be set forth the next day.

Tentative plans for the entire event call for a program to launch the graduate program on Friday, April 1, with Dr. T. M. Stinnett, executive secretary of the national commission on teacher education and professional standards, making the principal address.

On Friday evening there will be a banquet with Dr. Roger P. McCutcheon, director of the program for the preparation of college teachers at Vanderbilt University, being the principal speaker. Dr. McCutcheon, is former dean of the graduate school at Tulane University.

On Saturday morning, April 2, will be held formal ceremonies inaugurating President Kyser. Chief speaker for this event will be Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida. Following the inaugural, there will be a luncheon, the final event of the convocation.

TO ATTEND MEET

Clyde J. Pohl, 1300 South Fifth Street, junior past head consul of the Louisiana Head Camp, and H. J. Bouler, of Swartz, an auditor of the Louisiana Camp, will attend the state convention of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, March 20 to 22, in the Bentley Hotel, Alexandria.

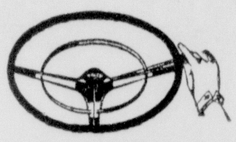
Are you a "Do-It-Yourself" Driver?

Or would you rather be waited on hand and foot?



Rather shift for yourself . . . or let Powerglide do it?

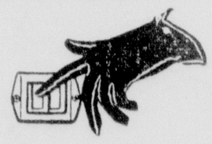
Shifting's smooth and easy with Chevrolet's new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission. A flick of your wrist is all it takes to shift gears.

Powerglide, too, is better than ever this year. Even smoother and sturdier. It's the most popular automatic transmission* in Chevrolet's field!

Rather roll your own . . . or just push a button?

Chevrolet gives you separate crank controls both for windows and ventipanes. It's one of many extra conveniences in Chevrolet's Body by Fisher.

Your fingertip adjusts all four windows with automatic window and seat controls.* Are available on all Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models.



Position the seat yourself . . . or let electricity do it?

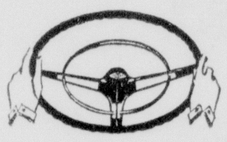
Chevrolet's big, beautifully upholstered front seat moves up and forward or down and back into your most comfortable driving position.

No worry about your battery in a new Chevrolet. It's the only car in its field with the reserve power of a 12-volt electrical system!

Apply the brakes like this . . . or have power make it easier?

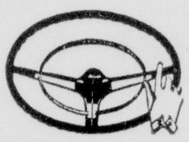
Improved brakes and new swing-type pedals make stopping a cinch. And Chevrolet's exclusive Anti-Dive control gives you "heads up" stops!

Chevrolet Power Brakes* are better than ever this year—let you stop by a simple pivot of your foot from accelerator to swing type brake pedal.



Want standard steering . . . or extra-easy Power Steering?

Try this easy new Chevrolet steering. Only Chevrolet and some higher-priced cars use a ball bearing system to cut friction to a minimum.



There's nothing quite so easy as Power Steering, of course. Good news: Chevrolet's new linkage-type Power Steering* carries a reduced price!

Automatically—

Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars!

What's a high-priced car got that Chevrolet hasn't? Not automatic power features. Not style—just look below. Not performance—just try out Chevrolet's new V8 or one of the new 6's. Not ride—perhaps the thing that will surprise you most is Chevrolet's fine, solid feel on the road. Come put it to the test. See how Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars in every way!

*Optional at extra cost.

Nearly $3 Million Oil Surplus In Plaquemine Coffer

BATON ROUGE — UP — Oil-rich Plaquemines parish wound up the year 1953 with a surplus of nearly $3 million, the state auditor reported today.

The auditor said the police jury had excess funds of $2,963,535 on hand for the year ending Dec. 31, 1953.

Most of the money, $2,081,796, was listed under a "postwar construction fund." Of this amount, $578,000 was invested in United States savings bonds and certificates of indebtedness.

Auditor Allison R. Kolb said of the expenditures during the year, $6040 went to "tidelands legal and promotional defense." Leander Perez, district attorney and political leader of the parish, has led a campaign to get the tidelands for Louisiana.

Kolb criticized the police jurors on the following grounds:

"As commented upon in several previous reports, the police jury made contributions to various organizations. . .many of these, however worthy, were made in violation of article 4 of the state constitution."

The gifts included grants of $1000 each to the Boy Scouts and 4-H club.

"Contrary to provisions of the revised statutes, the police jury did not approve bills for payment, this function being performed by the finance committee.

"A large part of the sums advanced or reimbursed to various parish officials for expenses attending conventions. . .was not supported by documentary evidence.

"The coroner had not presented a bill for his services for the year. . .efforts should be made to have the coroner present his bills currently."

Kolb also said the clerk of court owes the jury $7239. "A settlement of this account is to be effected in the near future," he said.

In an audit of the secretary of state's office for the fiscal year ended last June 30, Kolb said a total of $1,844,632 has been spent to equipt the state's cities and parishes with voting machines.

Purchase of machines for parishes which did not previously use them accounted for $1.5 million, Kolb said.

The auditor added that Washington parish still owes the state $1066 as its pro rata share of the cost of holding elections. Sabine parish owes $545 for the same expense, Kolb said, and the City of Gramercy owes $24.

DESIGN FOR ESCAPE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., (AP) — "Escape" was called a major factor in determining the taste of the modern American consumer at the Ann Arbor Conference on Design and the American Consumer. Robert Iglehart, of New York University's art education department, told delegates that "consumption for escape was manifested by such ironies as the ranch home in the upper Bronx." Another example of escape, he said, was the rebirth of the "rose pattern" in modren china and silverware. This is perhaps "an escape to medieval romance," Iglehart said.

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

Small Redbud Tree Is Very Effective

When the redbuds are in bloom we decide we'll plant more of them in our own gardens. Then, when planting time comes next winter, we forget. Gardeners in surrounding towns should drive into Monroe today to see these showy small trees. They're especially beautiful at 707 St. John, the school board office. The lavender - pink against the gray house is most effective. The redubd is a short life tree, the average life span being about fifteen years. So if you have one that age you'd do well to start replacing with small ones. You'll usually find small trees coming up all around the large ones.

Garden Jobs

I forgot to tell you last month to fertilize native iris with 5-10-5 or 8-8-8. This should have been done in February, but it's still not too late. Also fertilize lawns with 8-8-8. Feed pansies every two weeks with liquid fertilizer made by dissolving a cup of 5-10-5 in a gallon of water. Put one cupful around each plant. As bulbs cease blooming, fertilize with bone meal. If these bulbs are in your azalea bed, be very careful that you don't get the bone meal close to their roots. It is not advisable to plant the two together. Azaleas like acid soil and mulch. Bulbs like neither. In fact, bulbs do much better completely out of the shrubbery beds.

When fertilizing don't forget the hydrangeas. They like 8-8-8 and lots of leaf mold. Then if you want special colors, put sulphur to make them blue, lime will make them pink. This takes two years to get a change, though, so don't get impatient. Root pruning induces blooms. Hydrangeas like the north side of the house.

Your clematis and lilacs like a sweet soil. A little lime worked around the roots will help. Clematis likes it's feet in the shade, it's head in the sun.

You can start sprigging St. Augustine now. This grass does better if you don't put out such long sprigs. Cut them about five or six inches in length. Longer sprigs are cut back with the lawn mower, and there's too much length for the new forming roots to feed. Just as these sprigs root and start growing, fertilize with some 8-8-8.

Other satisfactory grasses are Centipede and Zoysia Matrella. Neither need mowing very often. Centipede looks very much like St. Augustine except the blades are smaller. It is set out by sprigging, too. The Zoysia is very slow spreading and much more expensive than Centipede or St. Augustine but it is a very beautiful grass, with fine blades. It has a velvety look. Both centipede and Zoysia will grow in the shade.

Some people like Bermuda, but I'd never plant this grass. It's a sneaking, thieving thing, sending long runners under the ground, winding itself around the roots of valuable plants and choking them to death. Keep the compost pile stirred occasionally.

The pearl bushes, crabapples, wisterias, and flowering peaches are in bud. It's not too late to plant these four flowering plants, if you failed to get them out at the proper time.

Jes' Talking

If you have a very large camellia bush, it's doubtful if fertilizer sprinkled on the top of the ground will be of much benefit. It's a good idea to draw an imaginary circle around the tree out at the edge of the spread of the branches. Divide this in three parts. On the edge of one of the lines, take the spade and cut through the roots, holding the soil back. Put some 5-10-5 in the hole. This root pruning will develop new feeder roots that are in position to get the food. Next year do the same to the other third and in 1957 take the last third. That's planning a long time ahead, isn't it?

If you want to see some gorgeous hyacinths, drive down Trenton street, West Monroe to the Reynolds home, 1007. Then on down the street to the Feazel home, 1015. Turn left there on Young street. In the side garden is an entire bed of double hyacinths and other colorful spring blossoms. The pastel colors are just luscious together. Also drive down College street, Monroe and see those primrose jasmine in the boulevard.

Mrs. Pat Carr, 108 Bell avenue, Monroe has some blue iris she wants to give away. Mrs. Melbe Morris at 408 Clayton, Monroe, has a very large white flowering quince She'll divide the plant with anybody who will bring somebody to dig it. This will take plenty of muscle, so talk very nice to the man in the family. And, remember, you'll only get part of the plant, but even one small root is worth the digging. (Says me who won't be doing the heavy work.)

Announcements

The home demonstration agent in Lincoln parish will bring you the TV demonstration Monday on Open House at 1:00 p.m. Tuesday we'll sew; Wednesday Mrs. Jardine will bring you the three flower arrangements that were winners from the 5th District Garden Center, then we'll do some planting; Thursday is marketing and cooking day; Friday Clyde Ingram, L. Helpful Hints Which Turn Talents To $

There are many women who carry on successful businesses in their homes.

Before I investigated the question, I had no idea how many women have successful businesses in their homes. Some of these are the result of a woman's natural flair or talent which has expressed itself in a hobby. These often bring in only a small income but provide an outlet for her urge toward self expression.

There also are many interesting, unusual, and highly commercial businesses being run by women in their homes. If you think it would be fun to try to develop a hobby and maybe a business at the same time; if you would enjoy the activity and could use the money, perhaps I can give you some helpful suggestions.

In the first place, you should look at yourself objectively and decide what you are good at, what your main assets are. If you have a talent for cooking and are mildly famous for certain of your recipes; if your friends are always asking you how you make things, then perhaps your hobby or business should be connected with cooking.

There are dozens of ways in which you can tap this flair. Of course you must be practical about deciding what you will try to do. For instance, it would be foolish to open a tea room, even though you have the space and a flair for it, unless there is a ready made market due to a good location.

You may need to place an advertisement in your local newspaper when you are ready for customers, although word of mouth advertising is most valuable and is often the reason for the beginning of a new business.

Always check with the local authorities to find out whether your project requires a license.

First be sure that you have some talent for what you plan to accomplish and then be certain that there is a need in your neighborhood which your idea or product fills. As an example, if you live near a large apartment house you may want to furnish and deliver the evening meal to those who are too busy or too tired after a day in the office to prepare it themselves.

The Women's Division of The Department of Commerce of the State of New York has given me permission to use some of their expert advice in my leaflet No. 68 "Want A Business of Your Own?" If you would like to have it send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

Space Needed For Spreading Shrubs

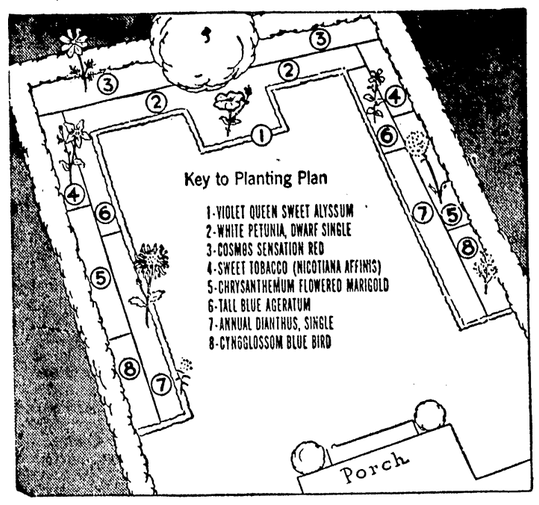
Very large shrubs that grow taller than ten feet must be used with care in the landscape. This is especially true if you have a small place. Big shrubs like Fortune's olive, sweet olive, evergreen photinia, camellias, loquat, Chinese holly, Burford holly, yaupon and banashrub will eat up the space you want for smaller plants and for flower beds before you know it. Usually, we make mistakes with large shrubs because we cannot really conceive of how big they will get to be in five years. On large properties, the big shrubs are useful for backgrounds and screens and to fill in, in scale, between the smaller things and the tress like magnolias, hollies and oaks. It is true that we can keep some of the large shrubs like Chinese and Burford hollies down by pruning them carefully once or twice a year. Even if you plan to do this, do not forget that they may eventually get to the size where they cannot be pruned back any smaller without killing them. Then you will have to move them out.

One thing we must all keep in mind in planting big shrubs is the question of how fat they will get. Large specimens of some kinds may cover a much as twenty feet from side to side. We usually keep them smaller than this, but after they begin to get too high for the step-ladder, the upper branches cannot be reached to shorten them. In many of the old gardens of the south, the shrubs originally planted on two sides of the walks grew together and covered the walk. When we visit these gardens today, we are walking in what were originally the flower beds!

Some of the spreading shrubs like the pyracanthas and the elaeagnuses must be given a great deal of space. They are not very practical shrubs to plant along a walk unless they are set in the ground at least ten feet from the edge of the walk. Even at this distance they will reach the walk in two or three years. We mentioned in a recent column that pyracanthas take well to training on a frame if you wish to give the time to keeping them tied up and guided along the frame. Elaeagnuses and pyracanthas are good shrubs to fill up corners. They provide good and safe nesting places for birds. The berries of pyracanthas can be seen a long distance, and the sweet flowers of the elaeagnuses will fill the air with fragrance for a long distance.

The most floriferous of the elaeagnuses is the variety fruitlandii. This shrub originated in the old Fruitland nursery at Augusta, Ga., where so many good flowering shrubs came from in our grandmothers' days. It seems to be a cross between a large leaved species of elaeagnus (which happens to be tender to cold weather) and one of the hardy species. The little side branches are simply smothered with the tiny flowers in the fall, and the air about this shrub is filled with fragrance. The little red fruits which ripen in late winter are fine bird food — and human food. You can make a false raspberry jelly from these little fruits, but be sure to add a little coloring and some lemon juice. The jelly is usually grey and just a little sad without these two ingredients.

Elaeagnuses are not true climbers but what we call scramblers. All the young branches start life in the form of long prickles or ... and then grow into branches as so many thorny shrubs do. If you will look carefully, you will see that these young branches turn backward a little.



A PATIO without flowers around it is never complete.

House And Garden Meet In Flower-Fenced Patio

Today's patio is any place where house and garden meet and mingle. The modern idea is that gardens shall contribute charm to the home, and be intimately associated with everyday living. They will be enjoyed most when near to the center of social activity, rather than hidden behind walls or hedges.

Every home can and should have a patio. A paved area close to a door is preferable, where you can take a sun bath. Flowers like sunbaths too. Those who prefer shade can hoist a garden umbrella. A patio without flowers around it will never seem complete, and among them should be fragrant flowers. Most fragrant of all is the sweet tobacco, nicotiana affinis. This is the old fashioned kind, which is far more fragrant than the improved varieties, as is so often the case.

The illustration shows a patio planting which can be made easily even by the inexperienced, from the seeds of annual flowers. All subjects are easily grown from seed sown directly where they are to grow. The planting is arranged with low growing plants in the foreground, taller ones behind. The color scheme is based upon harmony by contrast, with complementary colors placed together, where each will enhance the beauty of its neighbors.

Annual flowers grown from seeds blossom from early summer until frost comes, if the faded flowers are kept picked off, and reasonable care is taken of the plants. With them can be planted both bulbs and perennials, to give a continuous display of bloom from the time the ground thaws out until the autumn freeze-up. Annuals never outgrow their place, no matter how small the area. They are always in scale, making both house and grounds seem larger than they would, were larger and taller plants set out, soon to become overgrown for their locations.

Remember that annual flowers need sunshine. Avoid planting a garden where the tops and roots of trees, hedges, or shrubbery shade the flowers, and compete with them for nourishment and moisture in the soil.

A location on the north side of the house is not likely to be favorable for the garden illustrated unless it is placed beyond the line to which the shadow of the roof extends in midsummer at 10 a.m. The location should also be free of shade from trees and other buildings for at least six hours a day.

Garden Clubs In Busiest Season

The Iris Garden Club of Delhi presented our delightful flower this week. All of the horticulture was in the blue ribbon class. Mrs. Kent Breard and Mrs. John Lewis of Monroe judged the show. In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. Mrs. Cooper Bryant for Unsurpassable Daffodil, Mrs. Katherine Barnes for blue Dutch Iris and Mrs. Charles Hall for White Dutch Hyacinth. In the arrangement section first place was awarded to Mrs. Frank O'Neal. Against a chartreuse background Mrs. O'Neal created a beautiful circular design of Burford holly and pussywillow. Yellow daffodils were used to enhance the open crescent line. Mrs. W. A. Gaharan was awarded second place for a beautiful line - mass arrangement of pop - corn spirea and King Alfred daffodils arranged in a black free form container. Mrs. J. B. Morris was awarded third place. In a low white container Mrs. Morris cretiful line - mass arrangement of white pear blossoms with magnolia soulangeana as a focal point. The small purple buds of the magnolia followed the lines established by the pear blossoms. Beautiful color harmony!

March and April are busy months for the Garden Clubs. New officers are being elected and will take office either this month or next. Flower shows are being planned and some have already been staged. The Suburban Garden Club of Ruston recently had their spring show. The theme was "Spring Sunshine" and the spring flowering bulbs were featured. I have never seen finer hyacinths and daffodils! North Louisiana is certainly "bulb" country. There are so many fine daffodil varieties it is impossible to have them all. These I have seen and checked on their performance and feel they are a "must" for next year—Silver Star, Aerolite, Carlton, Fortune, Imperator (largest white trumpet) and among the Triandrus hybrids Moonshine and Shot Silk. Among the Leedsi White Nile with a frilly white crown and a perianth of snowy whiteness. Irene Copeland, a double with large full snow - white flowers and primrose markings, and of course More Cluisana (Candystick) tulips to make a bigger show! Jo Evans reminds us that you do not have to pick your pansies to keep them blooming.

You don't have to have a flower garden to create arrangements, but it helps. Some roadside material I have seen this week are the sweet gum buds, hickory buds and flowers, the new buds on oak saplings. Flowers and leaves of rutabaga that have gone to seed. Green leaves of the Savoy cabbage available at your grocers. Our best arrangers have developed a "seeing eye" and can find beauty and ideas in all plant material.

Dates to remember: The Hemerocallis Society Annual Convention, Baton Rouge, May 17-18-19. Louisiana State Flower Show, March 19-20. Flower show school II, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and The Garden Center Arrangements of the Week on TV each Wednesday at 1 p. m. on Mildred Swift's Open House.

Small Redbud Tree Is Very Effective

When the redbuds are in bloom we decide we'll plant more of them in our own gardens. Then, when planting time comes next winter, we forget. Gardeners in surrounding towns should drive into Monroe today to see these showy small trees. They're especially beautiful at 707 St. John, the school board office. The lavender - pink against the gray house is most effective. The redubd is a short life tree, the average life span being about fifteen years. So if you have one that age you'd do well to start replacing with small ones. You'll usually find small trees coming up all around the large ones.

Garden Jobs

I forgot to tell you last month to fertilize native iris with 5-10-5 or 8-8-8. This should have been done in February, but it's still not too late. Also fertilize lawns with 8-8-8. Feed pansies every two weeks with liquid fertilizer made by dissolving a cup of 5-10-5 in a gallon of water. Put one cupful around each plant. As bulbs cease blooming, fertilize with bone meal. If these bulbs are in your azalea bed, be very careful that you don't get the bone meal close to their roots. It is not advisable to plant the two together. Azaleas like acid soil and mulch. Bulbs like neither. In fact, bulbs do much better completely out of the shrubbery beds.

When fertilizing don't forget the hydrangeas. They like 8-8-8 and lots of leaf mold. Then if you want special colors, put sulphur to make them blue, lime will make them pink. This takes two years to get a change, though, so don't get impatient. Root pruning induces blooms. Hydrangeas like the north side of the house.

Your clematis and lilacs like a sweet soil. A little lime worked around the roots will help. Clematis likes it's feet in the shade, it's head in the sun.

You can start sprigging St. Augustine now. This grass does better if you don't put out such long sprigs. Cut them about five or six inches in length. Longer sprigs are cut back with the lawn mower, and there's too much length for the new forming roots to feed. Just as these sprigs root and start growing, fertilize with some 8-8-8.

Other satisfactory grasses are Centipede and Zoysia Matrella. Neither need mowing very often. Centipede looks very much like St. Augustine except the blades are smaller. It is set out by sprigging, too. The Zoysia is very slow spreading and much more expensive than Centipede or St. Augustine but it is a very beautiful grass, with fine blades. It has a velvety look. Both centipede and Zoysia will grow in the shade.

Some people like Bermuda, but I'd never plant this grass. It's a sneaking, thieving thing, sending long runners under the ground, winding itself around the roots of valuable plants and choking them to death. Keep the compost pile stirred occasionally.

The pearl bushes, crabapples, wisterias, and flowering peaches are in bud. It's not too late to plant these four flowering plants, if you failed to get them out at the proper time.

Jes' Talking

If you have a very large camellia bush, it's doubtful if fertilizer sprinkled on the top of the ground will be of much benefit. It's a good idea to draw an imaginary circle around the tree out at the edge of the spread of the branches. Divide this in three parts. On the edge of one of the lines, take the spade and cut through the roots, holding the soil back. Put some 5-10-5 in the hole. This root pruning will develop new feeder roots that are in position to get the food. Next year do the same to the other third and in 1957 take the last third. That's planning a long time ahead, isn't it?

If you want to see some gorgeous hyacinths, drive down Trenton street, West Monroe to the Reynolds home, 1007. Then on down the street to the Feazel home, 1015. Turn left there on Young street. In the side garden is an entire bed of double hyacinths and other colorful spring blossoms. The pastel colors are just luscious together. Also drive down College street, Monroe and see those primrose jasmine in the boulevard.

Mrs. Pat Carr, 108 Bell avenue, Monroe has some blue iris she wants to give away. Mrs. Melbe Morris at 408 Clayton, Monroe, has a very large white flowering quince She'll divide the plant with anybody who will bring somebody to dig it. This will take plenty of muscle, so talk very nice to the man in the family. And, remember, you'll only get part of the plant, but even one small root is worth the digging. (Says me who won't be doing the heavy work.)

Announcements

The home demonstration agent in Lincoln parish will bring you the TV demonstration Monday on Open House at 1:00 p.m. Tuesday we'll sew; Wednesday Mrs. Jardine will bring you the three flower arrangements that were winners from the 5th District Garden Center, then we'll do some planting; Thursday is marketing and cooking day; Friday Clyde Ingram, L. S. U. extension poultry specialist will tell you how to get the best buy in poultry. You're invited to tune in. See you next Sunday.

Why Grow Old?

Helpful Hints Which Turn Talents To $

There are many women who carry on successful businesses in their homes.

Before I investigated the question, I had no idea how many women have successful businesses in their homes. Some of these are the result of a woman's natural flair or talent which has expressed itself in a hobby. These often bring in only a small income but provide an outlet for her urge toward self expression.

There also are many interesting, unusual, and highly commercial businesses being run by women in their homes. If you think it would be fun to try to develop a hobby and maybe a business at the same time; if you would enjoy the activity and could use the money, perhaps I can give you some helpful suggestions.

In the first place, you should look at yourself objectively and decide what you are good at, what your main assets are. If you have a talent for cooking and are mildly famous for certain of your recipes; if your friends are always asking you how you make things, then perhaps your hobby or business should be connected with cooking.

There are dozens of ways in which you can tap this flair. Of course you must be practical about deciding what you will try to do. For instance, it would be foolish to open a tea room, even though you have the space and a flair for it, unless there is a ready made market due to a good location.

You may need to place an advertisement in your local newspaper when you are ready for customers, although word of mouth advertising is most valuable and is often the reason for the beginning of a new business.

Always check with the local authorities to find out whether your project requires a license.

First be sure that you have some talent for what you plan to accomplish and then be certain that there is a need in your neighborhood which your idea or product fills. As an example, if you live near a large apartment house you may want to furnish and deliver the evening meal to those who are too busy or too tired after a day in the office to prepare it themselves.

The Women's Division of The Department of Commerce of the State of New York has given me permission to use some of their expert advice in my leaflet No. 68 "Want A Business of Your Own?" If you would like to have it send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

Space Needed For Spreading Shrubs

Very large shrubs that grow taller than ten feet must be used with care in the landscape. This is especially true if you have a small place. Big shrubs like Fortune's olive, sweet olive, evergreen photinia, camellias, loquat, Chinese holly, Burford holly, yaupon and banashrub will eat up the space you want for smaller plants and for flower beds before you know it. Usually, we make mistakes with large shrubs because we cannot really conceive of how big they will get to be in five years. On large properties, the big shrubs are useful for backgrounds and screens and to fill in, in scale, between the smaller things and the tress like magnolias, hollies and oaks. It is true that we can keep some of the large shrubs like Chinese and Burford hollies down by pruning them carefully once or twice a year. Even if you plan to do this, do not forget that they may eventually get to the size where they cannot be pruned back any smaller without killing them. Then you will have to move them out.

One thing we must all keep in mind in planting big shrubs is the question of how fat they will get. Large specimens of some kinds may cover a much as twenty feet from side to side. We usually keep them smaller than this, but after they begin to get too high for the step-ladder, the upper branches cannot be reached to shorten them. In many of the old gardens of the south, the shrubs originally planted on two sides of the walks grew together and covered the walk. When we visit these gardens today, we are walking in what were originally the flower beds!

Some of the spreading shrubs like the pyracanthas and the elaeagnuses must be given a great deal of space. They are not very practical shrubs to plant along a walk unless they are set in the ground at least ten feet from the edge of the walk. Even at this distance they will reach the walk in two or three years. We mentioned in a recent column that pyracanthas take well to training on a frame if you wish to give the time to keeping them tied up and guided along the frame. Elaeagnuses and pyracanthas are good shrubs to fill up corners. They provide good and safe nesting places for birds. The berries of pyracanthas can be seen a long distance, and the sweet flowers of the elaeagnuses will fill the air with fragrance for a long distance.

The most floriferous of the elaeagnuses is the variety fruitlandii. This shrub originated in the old Fruitland nursery at Augusta, Ga., where so many good flowering shrubs came from in our grandmothers' days. It seems to be a cross between a large leaved species of elaeagnus (which happens to be tender to cold weather) and one of the hardy species. The little side branches are simply smothered with the tiny flowers in the fall, and the air about this shrub is filled with fragrance. The little red fruits which ripen in late winter are fine bird food — and human food. You can make a false raspberry jelly from these little fruits, but be sure to add a little coloring and some lemon juice. The jelly is usually grey and just a little sad without these two ingredients.

Elaeagnuses are not true climbers but what we call scramblers. All the young branches start life in the form of long prickles or ... and then grow into branches as so many thorny shrubs do. If you will look carefully, you will see that these young branches turn backward a little.

4-H Club, Born In Rural Areas, Now Holds Interest Of Many Youths In Towns

By ANNABEL PANKEY
(World Correspondent)

RUSTON, March 12 (Special)—Though originally a rural movement which began in the south, the 4-H Club organization, which just completed serving its national club week, is no longer confined to country children and agricultural endeavors such as pig raising.

A cross section of the membership rolls of Lincoln parish, typical of most parishes, reveals both city and rural clubbers whose pursuits vary all the way from cattle breeding, junior leadership and the making of good handicraft.

An example is Roddy Duchesne, 14, who is the son of a Louisiana Tech college professor. Roddy lives in the suburbs of Ruston, is in the ninth grade at Ruston High school and has been engaged in 4-H work for four years. His many projects embrace sheep raising, home electric and grounds interests, and junior leadership. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Duchesne.

A few miles up the highway from Roddy's house is the home of another clubber, Joe Loria. Joe is interested in pigs and last fall was quite a ribbon taker at the parish fair. Though he is only 15, Joe, who after school and on Saturdays, assists his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Loria of near Vienna, in the operation of their combination filling station and grocery store, has been active in 4-H for a number of years.

Then there is Kennon Goff of Ruston. Kennon, who is 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Goff. His father is a lawyer and former state senator from Lincoln parish. Kennon is in the eighth grade and is particularly interested in junior leadership. His favorite 4-H work right now is helping with club parade floats.

And there is Wanda Walsworth who belongs to the Methodist Children's Home 4-H group, whose leader is Joann Blondin of Ruston. Wanda, though only ten is already deeply interested in clothing and names baking and handicraft as her other projects. She is in the fourth grade at Hillcrest Grammar school in Ruston.

There are also Maryanne and Roy Glover, a brother and sister "team," who are both sophomores in the Ruston High school. These two do everything together, 4-H-wise. They are quite prominent in junior leadership and have been consistent winner in sweet potato contests over a period of several years. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Glover, who are farming near Ruston.

Jean Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Rogers of Dubach, is another active Lincoln parish 4-H worker. Though only 13 years old, she is president of her club and deeply interested in three projects embracing baking, school health and clothing.

In Hico, an enthusiastic member of this fine national organization is 12-year-old Rex Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Clements. Rex, whose father is coach at the Hico High school, is in the eighth grade and has as his club interests, handicraft and pig raising.

Among older youths who proudly wear the green clover emblem of the 4-H, are 16 year-old James Smith, the son of a Choudrant poultryman. Young Smith, who is president of his local group, is specializing in junior leadership, pig raising and poultry projects. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith.

Another older 4-H member, and one who has achieved nationwide recognition for her beautiful miniature doll collection, which she has dressed in costumes representing peoples of the world, is Ann Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Robinson of Ruston. Ann is 17 and a Ruston High senior. Her club projects are clothing, home improvement and handicraft.

Typical of the youngest group, one of 4-H's most alert, is little Gail Hestbeck who, though she is only 11, is in her third year in club work. Gail, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Hestbeck of Ruston, has been both president and vice - president of her local club. Her interests lie in clothing and health.

The announcement told of activation of a unit, the first in the Air Force, teaming F84 jet reconnaissance fighters from Great Falls, Mont., Air Force Base with giant B36 bombers from Fairchild AFB in Spokane. Speedy fighters are carried inside the bomber. They can be launched and recovered in flight. The jet makes connection with an apparatus on the belly of the bomber. (AP Wirephoto)

Kennon Will Be Invited To Demo Governor Talks

By JAMES V. MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP)—National Democratic Committeeman Camille Gravel says Gov. Robert Kennon, touch "dyed in the wool" for Eisenhower, will be invited to a spring session of Democratic governors.

And Kennon, informed of the latest turn in party events, commented, "It certainly would be a great idea to get the governors together. There are differences of opinion among them.

"If the conference is held and I am invited, I would attend if at all feasible."

Kennon, who attempted unsuccessfully to swing Louisiana into the Eisenhower column in the 1952 presidential contest, broke with the National Democratic Party because he contended it had abandoned Jeffersonian Democracy.

Since then, Kennon, a lifelong Democrat, has been a frequent White House visitor and has gained national prominence as chairman of the National Governors Conference.

Democratic Louisiana stayed with Adlai Stevenson in 1952, although Eisenhower received the largest vote ever given a Republican.

Gravel, a Stevenson man in the last election, said the Democratic Party is "much stronger" in Louisiana than it was in the 1952 election. "Louisiana will overwhelmingly support the Democratic nominee in 1956," he predicted.

Gravel is the Alexandria attorney who shook up Kennon's political house by defeating state Sen. Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. of New Orleans, the governor's choice for national committeeman.

National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler said Tuesday he will call a spring conference of all Democratic governors and hoped to give them "more importance in the party structure."

Explaining the move, Butler said he is counting heavily on state administrations to bring victory to the Democratic national ticket in 1956.

Gravel said he talked with Butler this week and "we feel Kennon should be invited to the governors conference, which probably will be held in Washington early in May.

"What Kennon will contribute to the conference will depend on what he does after he goes there, if he decides to go," Gravel said.

Kennon has mentioned several Democrats he believes would make good party nominees. In Richmond last week, Kennon said he would like to see Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia nominated. And he said somebody like Byrd or Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas would appeal to conservative Southern Democrats.

Kennon mentioned other names.

Gravel takes the view that Kennon "first said he would support President Eisenhower if he runs again.

"Then he suggested Gov. Shivers. And when he got to Virginia he said he favored Sen. Byrd. If he had visited South Carolina, he probably would have said the same thing about Jimmy Byrnes.

"I'm sure he would support for Democratic nominee the person he felt confident could not win—Kennon is dyed-in-the-wool for Eisenhower."

Centenary Choir Will Be Heard Here On March 25

"Our choir must have good salesmen" states the opening page in a handy - sized travel code booklet carried by each member of the famous Centenary College choir which appears here March 25, sponsored by the Wesley Foundation, of Northeast Louisiana State College.

An accepted rule in the selling game is that each salesman must know his produce.

This group of 49 singing collegians has been billed as specialists who know their product. The curtain rises at 8 p.m. in Brown auditorium on the night of Friday, March 25.

The program will range from classic to jazz, from college songs to spiritual and religious numbers. The choir also brings a variable program in sight as costumed groups act out in pantomime the setting or story of the number.

Director Alvin C. Voran has sold the choir group on the idea they are three-fold slaesmen, of themselves, of Centenary and of Shreveport.

That his work in the educational community and choral fields has borne fruit is stressed by Shreveport newspapers who have dubbed the choir "Singing ambassadors of good will."

It has appeared before seven Lions International conventions in New York, Chicago, Atlantic City, and San Francisco and has filled many engagements in southern cities.

Five-Year-Old Girl Catches Big Fish

FERRIDAY, March 12 (Special)—Barbara Earl LeFevre, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter LeFevre, caught a bass recently while fishing with her father at Lake Concordia, near Ferriday.

The bass weighed three and one-half pounds, which is a large fish for these parts.

Although lichens are not now used as dye plants, they were so used in ancient times.

Blue Jackets At Tech To Elect Officers March 17

RUSTON, March 12 (Special)—Louisiana Tech Blue Jacket officers for 1955-56 will be elected at a meeting of the organization on March 17. Ten coeds have been nominated.

Officers to be elected include president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and publicity chairman. Because of classification and points, only five of the girls nominated are eligible for the office of president.

The five girls eligible for the office of president include Carolyn Hays, Springhill; Carolyn Kayser, Shreveport; Sara Butchee, Kinder; Sarah Kees, Urania; Diane Ford, Ruston. Other officers chosen may be any of the 10 nominees. Joeleene Murphey, Alexandria; Elizabeth Valentine, Shreveport; Bettye Spicer, Shreveport; Jeanne Mack, Springhill; and Emily Jo Morgan, Shreveport; are the other five nominated.

The nominating committee, consisting of seven graduating seniors, includes Ann Robertson, Shreveport; Vida Lord, Shreveport; Ava Dean Terry, Bastrop; Nancy Barber, Ruston; Mary Mack, Springhill; Gay Ellis, Shreveport; and Ann Boyd, Collinston.

Small plastic containers in which cheese comes make fine "pans" in which to mold fudge. Pour the fudge into these round or half-moon containers so it comes almost, but not quite, to the top. Cover and keep on hand for company serving or use for small gifts. Nice to take to a convalescent or to a luncheon hostess.

Judge Digby Is The Only La. Ike Appointee In A Major Federal Position

By KAY RAY
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 12 (Special) — At the half-way point in the Eisenhower Administration, the President has seen fit to appoint only two Louisianans, one of whom has since resigned, to key government posts on the national level.

This is despite the huge Eisenhower vote rolled up in the Pelican State in 1952—and the fact that a review of Presidential appointments over the past two years shows the President has named approximately 700 persons to major patronage jobs in Washington. These do not include appointments to federal positions within the states; neither do they include appointments to part time advisory boards and commissions.

Louisiana's sole holder of a key administration job is Vice-Chairman Seaborn Lee Digby of the Federal Power Commission. Digby, native of Union Parish and a Democrat, was nominated to the FPC by the President July 28, 1953, and took office the following month.

The one other Louisianan tapped by the President for such an important role was Eldon C. Upton, New Orleans Republican, who was nominated to the Federal Maritime Board in July, 1953, and served until several months ago when he resigned in order to return to his insurance business.

In early 1953, John Minor Wisdom, Republican national committeeman from the state and dispenser of patronage, announced he had turned down an offer to become assistant U. S. attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division in order to stay in New Orleans "where I can do Louisiana's Republican organization the most good."

Wisdom did accept membership on the Government Contracts Committee, a part-time position, and he also went to London to represent this country at the international conference on pollution of seas and coasts.

President Eisenhower handed the choicest political plums within the state to Edwin F. Hunter, Jr. and Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins, Jr., when he named them U. S. district judges for the western district.

Other presidential appointments have included George R. Blue, U. S. attorney for the eastern district, and T. Fitzhugh Wilson, U.S. attorney for the western district.

Eisenhower also named Theodore H. Lyons, collector of customs for District 20 (New Orleans) and Edwin A. Leland, Jr., comptroller of customs at New Orleans. Joseph C. Morris was reappointed to the National Science Board and Brig. Gen. John R. Hardin was named a member and president of the Mississippi River Commission. Sam Jones, former Louisiana governor, was named a member of the Committee on Intergovernmental Relations.

Numerous postmasterships over the state have been filled by the President — but in less than two years 82 postmasters lost their jobs when the same number of fourth-class postoffices were discontinued.

Louisiana's patronage fate is in direct contrast with that of neighboring Texas which cast its lot with Eisenhower in 1952. The Lone Star state has at least 30 persons in key government posts, ranging from the cabinet level, where Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby is secretary of the department of health, education and welfare, on down.

New York has received the lion's share of patronage in the Eisenhower administration mainly because of the influence of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. More than 50 New Yorkers have been named to top level positions in the cabinet, junior cabinet, regulatory agencies and other important executive bodies.

BMI GRADUATE

Miss Johnnie Cloud

Miss Cloud entered BMI on May 15, 1954 and took the Complete General Business Course. She completed the Course in less than eight months with an "A" average. She was very cooperative, congenial, and dependable. She took the State Civil Service test passing it with honors. Immediately after graduation, she was placed with the Department of Public Welfare in Monroe.

Miss Cloud says: "I was graduated from BMI on February 15, 1955. I thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the time I spent attending school at BMI. Everyone is so nice and friendly and one immediately feels as though he has a place and a part in all the goings on there.

The faculty is well trained and capable of teaching young people the most practical, modern, and efficient methods of work.

The training that one receives at BMI will enable him to go out into the business world ready, willing, and capable to meet any and all situations that may arise and handle them with a feeling of competeney.

I am glad I chose BMI as my school for business training, and I encourage every young person to do the same."—Adv.

4-H Club, Born In Rural Areas, Now Holds Interest Of Many Youths In Towns

By ANNABEL PANKEY
(World Correspondent)

RUSTON, March 12 (Special)—Though originally a rural movement which began in the south, the 4-H Club organization, which just completed serving its national club week, is no longer confined to country children and agricultural endeavors such as pig raising.

A cross section of the membership rolls of Lincoln parish, typical of most parishes, reveals both city and rural clubbers whose pursuits vary all the way from cattle breeding, junior leadership and the making of good handicraft.

An example is Roddy Duchesne, 14, who is the son of a Louisiana Tech college professor. Roddy lives in the suburbs of Ruston, is in the ninth grade at Ruston High school and has been engaged in 4-H work for four years. His many projects embrace sheep raising, home electric and grounds interests, and junior leadership. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Duchesne.

A few miles up the highway from Roddy's house is the home of another clubber, Joe Loria. Joe is interested in pigs and last fall was quite a ribbon taker at the parish fair. Though he is only 15, Joe, who after school and on Saturdays, assists his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Loria of near Vienna, in the operation of their combination filling station and grocery store, has been active in 4-H for a number of years.

Then there is Kennon Goff of Ruston. Kennon, who is 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Goff. His father is a lawyer and former state senator from Lincoln parish. Kennon is in the eighth grade and is particularly interested in junior leadership. His favorite 4-H work right now is helping with club parade floats.

And there is Wanda Walsworth who belongs to the Methodist Children's Home 4-H group, whose leader is Joann Blondin of Ruston. Wanda, though only ten is already deeply interested in clothing and names baking and handicraft as her other projects. She is in the fourth grade at Hillcrest Grammar school in Ruston.

There are also Maryanne and Roy Glover, a brother and sister "team," who are both sophomores in the Ruston High school. These two do everything together, 4-H-wise. They are quite prominent in junior leadership and have been consistent winner in sweet potato contests over a period of several years. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Glover, who are farming near Ruston.

Jean Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Rogers of Dubach, is another active Lincoln parish 4-H worker. Though only 13 years old, she is president of her club and deeply interested in three projects embracing baking, school health and clothing.

In Hico, an enthusiastic member of this fine national organization is 12-year-old Rex Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Clements. Rex, whose father is coach at the Hico High school, is in the eighth grade and has as his club interests, handicraft and pig raising.

Among older youths who proudly wear the green clover emblem of the 4-H, are 16 year-old James Smith, the son of a Choudrant poultryman. Young Smith, who is president of his local group, is specializing in junior leadership, pig raising and poultry projects. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith.

Another older 4-H member, and one who has achieved nationwide recognition for her beautiful miniature doll collection, which she has dressed in costumes representing peoples of the world, is Ann Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Robinson of Ruston. Ann is 17 and a Ruston High senior. Her club projects are clothing, home improvement and handicraft.

Typical of the youngest group, one of 4-H's most alert, is little Gail Hestbeck who, though she is only 11, is in her third year in club work. Gail, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Hestbeck of Ruston, has been both president and vice - president of her local club. Her interests lie in clothing and health.

'MOTHER SHIP' UNIT DUE FOR PACIFIC NORTHWEST — The Air Force has announced this will soon be a common sight in the Spokane area. The announcement told of activation of a unit, the first in the Air Force, teaming F84 jet reconnaissance fighters from Great Falls, Mont., Air Force Base with giant B36 bombers from Fairchild AFB in Spokane. Speedy fighters are carried inside the bomber. They can be launched and recovered in flight. The jet makes connection with an apparatus on the belly of the bomber. (AP Wirephoto)

Kennon Will Be Invited To Demo Governor Talks

By JAMES V. MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP) — National Democratic Committeeman Camille Gravel says Gov. Robert Kennon, tough "dyed-in-the-wool" for Eisenhower, will be invited to a spring session of Democratic governors.

And Kennon, informed of the latest turn in party events, commented, "It certainly would be a great idea to get the governors together. There are differences of opinion among them.

"If the conference is held and I am invited, I would attend if at all feasible."

Kennon, who attempted unsuccessfully to swing Louisiana into the Eisenhower column in the 1952 presidential contest, broke with the National Democratic Party because he contended it had abandoned Jeffersonian Democracy.

Since then, Kennon, a lifelong Democrat, has been a frequent White House visitor and has gained national prominence as chairman of the National Governors Conference.

Democratic Louisiana stayed with Adlai Stevenson in 1952, although Eisenhower received the largest vote ever given a Republican.

Gravel, a Stevenson man in the last election, said the Democratic Party is "much stronger" in Louisiana than it was in the 1952 election. "Louisiana will overwhelmingly support the Democratic nominee in 1956," he predicted.

Gravel is the Alexandria attorney who shook up Kennon's political house by defeating state Sen. Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. of New Orleans, the governor's choice for national committeeman.

National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler said Tuesday he will call a spring conference of all Democratic governors and hoped to give them "more importance in the party structure."

Explaining the move, Butler said he is counting heavily on state administrations to bring victory to the Democratic national ticket in 1956.

Gravel said he talked with Butler this week and "we feel Kennon should be invited to the governors conference, which probably will be held in Washington early in May.

"What Kennon will contribute to the conference will depend on what he does after he goes there, if he decides to go," Gravel said.

Kennon has mentioned several Democrats he believes would make good party nominees. In Richmond last week, Kennon said he would like to see Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia nominated. And he said somebody like Byrd or Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas would appeal to conservative Southern Democrats.

Kennon mentioned other names.

Gravel takes the view that Kennon "first said he would support President Eisenhower if he runs again.

"Then he suggested Gov. Shivers. And when he got to Virginia he said he favored Sen. Byrd. If he had visited South Carolina, he probably would have said the same thing about Jimmy Byrnes.

"I'm sure he would support for Democratic nominee the person he felt confident could not win—Kennon is dyed-in-the-wool for Eisenhower."

Centenary Choir Will Be Heard Here On March 25

"Our choir must have good salesmen" states the opening page in a handy - sized travel code booklet carried by each member of the famous Centenary College choir which appears here March 25, sponsored by the Wesley Foundation, of Northeast Louisiana State College.

An accepted rule in the selling game is that each salesman must know his produce.

This group of 49 singing collegians has been billed as specialists who know their product. The curtain rises at 8 p.m. in Brown auditorium on the night of Friday, March 25.

The program will range from classic to jazz, from college songs to spiritual and religious numbers. The choir also brings a variable program in sight as costumed groups act out in pantomime the setting or story of the number.

Director Alvin C. Voran has sold the choir group on the idea they are three-fold slaesmen, of themselves, of Centenary and of Shreveport.

That his work in the educational community and choral fields has borne fruit is stressed by Shreveport newspapers who have dubbed the choir "Singing ambassadors of good will."

It has appeared before seven Lions International conventions in New York, Chicago, Atlantic City, and San Francisco and has filled many engagements in southern cities.

'Conquest Of Space' Is Challenging Thriller

The motion picture that has scooped the headlines, Paramount's astonishing "Conquest of Space" will open Thursday at the Paramount Theatre. A thrilling dramatization of the blueprints of the space laboratories, George Pal's Technicolor spectacle of man's first assault against interplanetary space will offer a foretaste of an adventure science says is just around the corner.

Recently, the nation's newspapers have carried story after story that informed the general public that space travel is out of the drawing board stage. And now the screen's most famous producer of science - fiction has integrated science's most up - to - date findings into a movie that advances space travel into the realm of science - fact.

"Conquest of Space" is the story of the courageous air force men stationed on The Wheel, a space station 500 miles above the earth's surface and circling our planet at tremendous speed. But more especially, it is the gripping story of one unit of these men — the group from which the crew of the interplanetary rocket will come. This group undergoes the most unusual and rigorous training possible, under the constant supervision of observers whose duty it is to spot the slightest defect in them. For these men are humans — humans who must face the unknown challenges and terrors of a flight never before undertaken by man. They must live closely together and fight together against the hostile forces of an unexplored universe. The choosing of this crew, the flight itself, and the interplay of personality under these extraordinary stresses promise some of the screen's most powerful and exciting entertainment.

'20,000 Leagues' Coming To Film At Local Theatre

Walt Disney's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," elaborate live-action CinemaScope - Technicolor production, with a distinguished cast, outstanding technical victories, and its famed origin has proved to be an underwater heaven for cast and crew.

Kirk Douglas, James Mason, Paul Lukas and Peter Lorre star in the Buena Vista release which Richard Fleischer directed.

Cinematographers Franz Planer and Till Gabbani worked on the underwater sequences at Nassau, where the major portion of the film was made far below the surface of the Caribbean Sea. Planer's crew included Bud Mautino, operator, with camera assistants Richard Johnson and Gene Farrell on the job of capturing the perilous underwater realm on film.

Harper Goff, designer for the production, John Meehan, art director and Howard Hollander, assistant art director made it possible for the cast to work underwater in specially developed diving gear as safe as modern engineering could make them yet sufficiently mobile so as not to interfere with the basic demands of movie production.

The entire drama — hailed as a miracle of screen entertainment— had a five month production schedule, exclusive of the year of preproduction planning. Eight weeks were spent on location in the Bahamas and Jamaica, where the major portions of the sequences were made.

Scenes shot in periods of moments complicated production, since only four dives a day were permitted, each one not more than 55 minutes. The estimated cost of $4,000,000 will probably be doubled before the physical film is shown all over.

Early Action Is Anticipated On Parity Measures

WASHINGTON, March 12 (Special) —Legislation which would reinstate 90 per cent of parity price supports for cotton, rice, corn, wheat and peanuts is headed for early House action, probably "within the next week or two," Rep. Otto E. Passman, of the Fifth Congressional District, said today.

The House Agriculture committee Tuesday approved a bill to support these five basic crops at the 90 per cent level. A provision was also added which would raise the price support floor for dairy products from the present level of 75 per cent of pairty to 80.

The Eisenhower administration succeeded last year in scrapping the fixed supports on "basic" commodities. Substituted was a measure providing a "flexible" system ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard of fixing farm prices, declared by law to give producers a fair return in relation to the price of things they buy.

Passman said he believed the House would reverse its action of last year and pass the 90 per cent support bill.

Make life easy for yourself when you roast a turkey breast-down. When it's time to turn the bird, use paper towels folded into thick pads with which to hold each end of the bird as you lift and turn.

Rush Named Town Clerk, Collector

OAK GROVE, March 12 (Special) — W. I. (Bill) Rush was named by the Oak Grove city council recently as town clerk and tax collector.

Rush replaces the late E. E. Hurly.

He is a former member of the town council and has been associated with similar work for a number of years.

MANY RIVERS TO CROSS—Robert Taylor and Eleanor Parker are the stars of "Many Rivers to Cross," an M-G-M picture filmed in CinemaScope and color, opening today at the Jim Theater. This is the story of a woman-shy Kentucky trapper and a girl determined to win him as her husband. Victor McLaglen, Russ Tamblyn, Jeff Richards and James Arness have prominent supporting roles.

Employment In Labor Market Is Showing Gains

In the monthly report of the Monroe Labor market, C. T. Baird, manager, it was shown that employment edged upward from 23,975 workers in January to 24,225 in February. Gains were not widely scattered but centered in a limited number of industries, primarily in the non - manufacturing group. Expansion and seasonal factors are the principal reasons stated for the increases in employment. The total employment level still exceeds that of a year ago when 22,625 workers were gainfully employed.

In manufacturing, gains cetnered primarily in one industrial group where expansion boosted employment in paper goods. No fluctuations were noted in any of the other industries as their employment remained stable.

Employment in manufacturing has climbed from 5,040 in February, 1954, to 5,400 in February, 1955. The increase has resulted primarily from expansion and the opening of new industries.

Applicants for jobs are now available in most occupations, especially in those hard to fill in recent months. The offices are located at 405-A Louisville Avenue.

Wonderful for company: Oven or spit-roast a couple of frying chickens. Make a sauce using the drippings, chicken broth, curry powder and egg yolks for thickening. Serve the sauce over the carved chicken and accompany with shredded coconut, finely chopped salted peanuts and chutney. This dish needs steamed rice as a go-along, of course.

A pound can of corned beef hash can be turned into a small meat loaf if it is mixed with a lightly beaten egg, a quarter cup of milk, a cup of firmly packed soft bread crumbs and a little grated onion. Bake in a moderate oven until firm through.

'Conquest Of Space' Is Challenging Thriller

The motion picture that has scooped the headlines, Paramount's astonishing "Conquest of Space" will open Thursday at the Paramount Theatre. A thrilling dramatization of the blueprints of the space laboratories, George Pal's Technicolor spectacle of man's first assault against interplanetary space will offer a foretaste of an adventure science says is just around the corner.

Recently, the nation's newspapers have carried story after story that informed the general public that space travel is out of the drawing board stage. And now the screen's most famous producer of science - fiction has integrated science's most up - to - date findings into a movie that advances space travel into the realm of science - fact.

"Conquest of Space" is the story of the courageous air force men stationed on The Wheel, a space station 500 miles above the earth's surface and circling our planet at tremendous speed. But more especially, it is the gripping story of one unit of these men — the group from which the crew of the interplanetary rocket will come. This group undergoes the most unusual and rigorous training possible, under the constant supervision of observers whose duty it is to spot the slightest defect in them. For these men are humans — humans who must face the unknown challenges and terrors of a flight never before undertaken by man. They must live closely together and fight together against the hostile forces of an unexplored universe. The choosing of this crew, the flight itself, and the interplay of personality under these extraordinary stresses promise some of the screen's most powerful and exciting entertainment.

'20,000 Leagues' Coming To Film At Local Theatre

Walt Disney's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," elaborate live-action CinemaScope - Technicolor production, with a distinguished cast, outstanding technical victories, and its famed origin has proved to be an underwater heaven for cast and crew.

Kirk Douglas, James Mason, Paul Lukas and Peter Lorre star in the Buena Vista release which Richard Fleischer directed.

Cinematographers Franz Planer and Till Gabbani worked on the underwater sequences at Nassau, where the major portion of the film was made far below the surface of the Caribbean Sea. Planer's crew included Bud Mautino, operator, with camera assistants Richard Johnson and Gene Farrell on the job of capturing the perilous underwater realm on film.

Harper Goff, designer for the production, John Meehan, art director and Howard Hollander, assistant art director made it possible for the cast to work underwater in specially developed diving gear as safe as modern engineering could make them yet sufficiently mobile so as not to interfere with the basic demands of movie production.

The entire drama — hailed as a miracle of screen entertainment— had a five month production schedule, exclusive of the year of preproduction planning. Eight weeks were spent on location in the Bahamas and Jamaica, where the major portions of the sequences were made.

Scenes shot in periods of moments complicated production, since only four dives a day were permitted, each one not more than 55 minutes. The estimated cost of $4,000,000 will probably be doubled before the physical film is shown all over.

Early Action Is Anticipated On Parity Measures

WASHINGTON, March 12 (Special) —Legislation which would reinstate 90 per cent of parity price supports for cotton, rice, corn, wheat and peanuts is headed for early House action, probably "within the next week or two," Rep. Otto E. Passman, of the Fifth Congressional District, said today.

The House Agriculture committee Tuesday approved a bill to support these five basic crops at the 90 per cent level. A provision was also added which would raise the price support floor for dairy products from the present level of 75 per cent of pairty to 80.

The Eisenhower administration succeeded last year in scrapping the fixed supports on "basic" commodities. Substituted was a measure providing a "flexible" system ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard of fixing farm prices, declared by law to give producers a fair return in relation to the price of things they buy.

Passman said he believed the House would reverse its action of last year and pass the 90 per cent support bill.

Rush Named Town Clerk, Collector

OAK GROVE, March 12 (Special) — W. I. (Bill) Rush was named by the Oak Grove city council recently as town clerk and tax collector.

Rush replaces the late E. E. Hurly.

He is a former member of the town council and has been associated with similar work for a number of years.

MANY RIVERS TO CROSS—Robert Taylor and Eleanor Parker are the stars of "Many Rivers to Cross," an M-G-M picture filmed in CinemaScope and color, opening today at the Jim Theater. This is the story of a woman-shy Kentucky trapper and a girl determined to win him as her husband. Victor McLaglen, Russ Tamblyn, Jeff Richards and James Arness have prominent supporting roles.

Employment In Labor Market Is Showing Gains

In the monthly report of the Monroe Labor market, C. T. Baird, manager, it was shown that employment edged upward from 23,975 workers in January to 24,225 in February. Gains were not widely scattered but centered in a limited number of industries, primarily in the non - manufacturing group. Expansion and seasonal factors are the principal reasons stated for the increases in employment. The total employment level still exceeds that of a year ago when 22,625 workers were gainfully employed.

In manufacturing, gains cetnered primarily in one industrial group where expansion boosted employment in paper goods. No fluctuations were noted in any of the other industries as their employment remained stable.

Employment in manufacturing has climbed from 5,040 in February, 1954, to 5,400 in February, 1955. The increase has resulted primarily from expansion and the opening of new industries.

Applicants for jobs are now available in most occupations, especially in those hard to fill in recent months. The offices are located at 405-A Louisville Avenue.

Wonderful for company: Oven or spit-roast a couple of frying chickens. Make a sauce using the drippings, chicken broth, curry powder and egg yolks for thickening. Serve the sauce over the carved chicken and accompany with shredded coconut, finely chopped salted peanuts and chutney. This dish needs steamed rice as a go-along, of course.

A pound can of corned beef hash can be turned into a small meat loaf if it is mixed with a lightly beaten egg, a quarter cup of milk, a cup of firmly packed soft bread crumbs and a little grated onion. Bake in a moderate oven until firm through.

Feminine Elegance Characterizes New In Shoes

Both Open And Closed Toes Shown

Both sides are winning in the open-and-closed battle of shoe fashions for this Spring and Summer. Most women are going to buy both. The open shoes are so pretty, so flattering, so seductive, let us say, that they are quite irresistible. And lots of women haven't even worn them yet. They are far from being out of the picture.

However, there is a trend toward a slight modification of the extremely naked look, an appearance of a little more shoe without in any way detracting from the delicacy of the pattern. Sometimes it's a closed back, sometimes a vamp which covers the toes but is opened up in a pretty pattern above it. Sometimes closed toe, with just a halter strap to keep the shoe in place.

There is also a slight indication of moving away from the very wide toe opening, or putting the opening on an asymmetric line which is still airy and graceful but hints at a little more shoe.

Slings, graceful fluid lines and T-strap sandals are the big favorites in open shoes, but in many the extremely wide toe opening has been modified.

On The Right Foot

The backless shoe refuses to be downed. In fact it is more popular than ever. The little magic gadget which makes the shoe cling to the foot has encouraged a lot of women to try the daring backless fashion. As a matter of fact, it's extremely smart and sophisticated on the right foot at the right time with the right costume. Otherwise, the less said the better.

The bareback is both tailored and dressy. Black patent is a favorite in the town backless shoe, suitable for wear with suits of silk or the fine linen-weave worsteds. The front may be simply crossed bands or narrow patent strippings knotted to form the vamp, but the effect is that of an elegant town shoe in the mood of the current season.

For dressier wear, draped or pleated kidskin, metallics, patent or suede take graceful lines in the new sandals or pumps—the height of feminine charm with afternoon or cocktail dresses. Sometimes these dress-maker shoes are just a matter of line and manipulation. In other cases they add a touch of decoration in buckle, bow or jewelled ornament.

In closed shoes the pump on slim and elegant lines is still the Easter shoe par excellence. Not pointed. Delicately tapered. With heels slimmer, more curved. There is a bit of perforation on many of the pumps. Sometimes a flat buckle. Sometimes an underlay of contrasting leather which suggests a buckle without interfering with the clean line of the vamp. In some instances a rising line, square, curved or point on the instep suggested by the court shoes worn by the ladies of Versailles.

Beautifully Tailored

The spectator pump is beautifully tailored this spring and is usually all in one color with polished leathers or reptile preferred. It may be in black, brown, deep or lighter navy—or in the new scarlet red or one of the lovely new softer browns. These are really high fashion. They have new names—Milk Chocolate, Coffee Frost, Penuche — names as tempting as the luscious colors themselves. They're divine with spring tweeds in light tones, and handsome foils for some of the darker town colors.

Here too are discreet touches of decoration. Perforations around the collar, a narrow tailored strap and buckle right across the vamp. Something new, different, sophisticated which makes the Spring '55 spectator a high fashion shoe and a far cry from the brown-and-whites and black-and-whites of other days.

There are some combinations in spectators, but they are news too. Two colors combine, but they're different, more subtle. Two materials combine—one of the muted spring shades perhaps in suede or reptile, with tip and fox of exactly matching polished leather.

Of course, when it comes to summer and resort shoes, the sky is the limit. Let your purse and your imagination be your guide. As little shoe as you want, as long as it stays on your foot. A chance to try all sorts of new things—in colors, in materials, in patterns. The very sight of a case filled with these delectable trifles is enough to make any woman throw caution to the wind.

They Make Conversation

These are shoes that make a costume—shoes that are conversation pieces. That stamp you as a woman in-the-know.

Colors may be pale as mist or a burst of brilliance—flame, hot orange, hot pink, royal purple. The off-whites are cool, sleek, sophisticated. There are wonderful exotic prints, crochets, straws, embroidered fabrics, vinylites and nylon laces. In fact, anything goes in the "New in Shoes" for Spring '55.

GLOWING ELEGANCE OF THE RENAISSANCE period is reflected in a fragile-looking late day pump of softly polished calf with distinctive black scrolling.

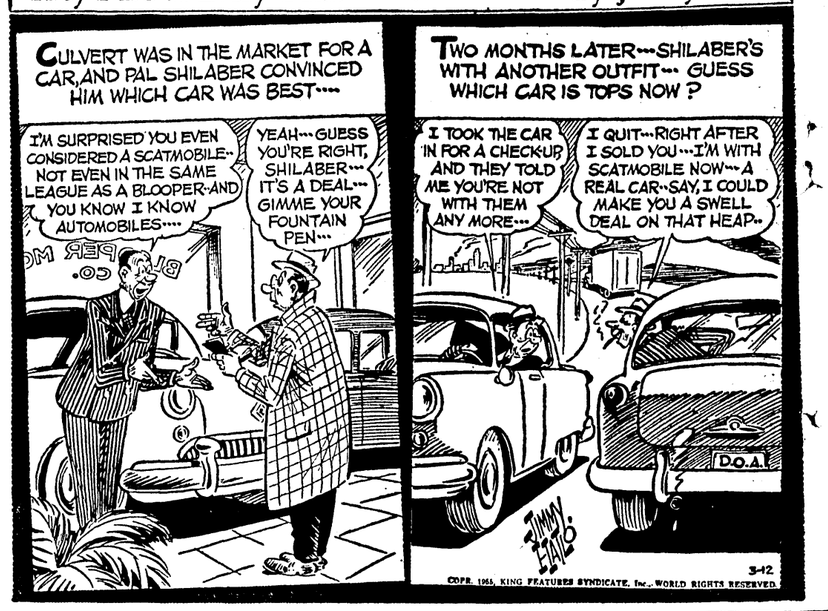
GAY SPRING ENTICEMENT, a "glass slipper" sling pump of clear vinylite over the toes, and a sparkling lucite flower-designed heel.

BOND SALES REPORTED

WASHINGTON—UP—The Treasury reported Thursday that Americans bought $1,038,000,000 worth of Series E and H government bonds during January and February—a 10-year record. The bonds cashed in totaled $747 million. Purchases exceeded pay-offs by $291 million.

In the last 10 years, use of coal by U. S. railroads has fallen from 132 million tons a year to 20 million tons.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo



In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

'The McConnell Story'

By GORDON DOUGLAS
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, March 12 — Being in the right picture at the right time in the right role is a fine formula for attaining Hollywood stardom in the space of time loosely defined as overnight.

Grace Kelly, Marlon Brando, Burt Lancaster, Clark Gable, Virginia Mayo are just a few cases in point.

As a director, I've often been asked such questions. It came up again the other day as I was megging "The McConnell Story." I have been requested, Jimmie, to put the thought into narrative form—and here it is.

In "High Noon" Grace Kelly was the prim and proper schoolmarm wife of Gary Cooper. Nobody paid her much mind and the same thing happened again in "Mogambo," when she romped through the African jungles with Clark Gable. Adequate, everybody said. A pretty little thing, but certainly not going places in a hurry.

Then along came "Dial M For Murder," directed by Alfred Hitchcock at Warner Bros. When this little gem of frustrated uxoricide, deftly done by Maestro Hitchcock, hit the nation's screens a whoop and a holler went up from movie fans from Aroostook, Maine, to San Ysidro, California. Miss Kelly, a sexpot of refined elegance, was suddenly the hottest property in Hollywood. Every producer began screaming for her services. All the national slick magazines did profile pieces and cover stories on her almost concurrently. Hitchcock got her again for "Rear Window" and now the name of Grace Kelly on a theater marquee is like 18K on jewelry.

Virginia Mayo was a Hollywood glamour doll being used by Sam Goldwyn as windowdressing for Danny Kaye pictures until she was cast as an amoral confection in "The Best Years of Our Lives." The picture made almost a clean sweep of Academy Awards. Virginia slipped away from Goldwyn and came over to Warners where she registered as a fine dramatic actress, her most recent stint of serious emoting having been done in "The Silver Chalice." She's equally at ease starring in musicals where she sings, dances and acts.

Right now the whole motion picture industry is talking about James Dean, an Indiana farm boy who came to Hollywood via the New York stage and makes his film debut in "East of Eden," a CinemaScope and WarnerColor feature directed and produced by Elia Kazan.

"Battle Cry," also from Warners, will probably go down in Hollywood history as a milestone in the careers of Tab Hunter and Dorothy Malone. In this stirring story of the Marine Corps making love and war on the home front and the battle front, Tab attains real starring stature.

As for Miss Malone, who had been more or less gliding through a succession of roles which neither retarded nor advanced her career, she breaks out in "Battle Cry" as a high-voltage temptress able to turn the head of any man in her approximate vicinity. The love scenes between Tab and Dorothy are as torrid as anything the screen has offered since the halcyon days of John Gilbert and Garbo.

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, both of them regarded as fair - to - good performers were farmed out by their home studios for a Columbia picture, "It Happened One Night." The public lapped up this one and Gable and Colbert were tops from then on.

Burt Lancaster was just another Hollywood newcomer from the New York stage with his film career at the see-saw stage; he could have gone up or down.

Mark Hellinger, then a producer at U-I, put Burt into "The Killers," from an Ernest Hemingway story and Burt's been a blue-chip star ever since.

When David O. Selznick chose Vivien Leigh to play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind" opposite Gable, most of the Hollywood pundits either praised or condemned him for putting an unknown into the part. Miss Leigh was not unknown around Hollywood, but GWTW zoomed her to vertigo heights. When she played in "A Streetcar Named Desire" she was one of the top stars of two continents.

For Broderick Crawford and Judy Holliday the picture with the magic lamp was "Born Yesterday," for Howard Keel it was "Annie Get Your Gun," for Eve Marie Saint it was "On The Waterfront," another Elia Kazan masterpiece.

Frank Sinatra's career was pointing downhill when he put on successfully a personal campaign to get himself the role of Maggio in "From Here to Eternity." The picture got him an Oscar and established him as a dramatic actor.

Once again, it was the right role in the right picture at the right time that did it.

Money Takes Strange Shapes Around World

WASHINGTON — Money—"what the other man takes for the things you want" — has rattled in strange shapes in curious transactions.

Cowrie shells, dog, pig and sperm - whale teeth have served as money. Fishhooks, hounds, snail shells and stone coins 12 feet in diameter have passed as francs and dollars do today.

Of all odd currencies, the cowrie, white and straw - colored inch-long product of the Indian Ocean has perhaps served more people than any other nonmetallic tender, the National Geographic Society says.

In Uganda a thousand cowries bought a 62-pound ivory tusk; 2,300 bought a cow; a bride was sold for two cowries. Sometimes a surplus of cowries brought inflation. Then tribal leaders hoarded quantities of the shells in an effort to control their value.

Traders Play Tooth Trick

Dog teeth found favor among distantly separated Solomon islanders of the Pacific and Shoshone and Bannock Indians of North America.

In 1890 the Indians valued a tooth at 25 cents. The islanders, trading among themselves, paid for canoes with teeth. When selling to outsiders, however, the islanders scrutinized the teeth, for traders a half century ago shook the economy with imports of porcelain counterfeits.

Yap, the Pacific Island, and Paraguay, the South America country, once stood at extremes in weight of currencies. The famed stone money of Yap weighed hundreds of pounds. With circulation nearly impossible, the enormous stones stood before the rich man's dwelling, bespeaking his resources.

In Paraguay natives cut snail shells to shirt button size as money. A hundred buttons bought a sheep while in Nicaragua the same number of cocoa beans bought a slave. Colored Amazon River stones resembling fish served the Caribs in Guiana as a medium of exchange.

The sperm whale's elusiveness, like gold, raised its teeth to enormous value in the Fiji islands. Generally owned by chieftains and hand - polished, a tooth bought a bride or a culprit's way out of trouble.

Other things hard to obtain have also passed for money in lands far apart — nails, for instance, were as good as cash at one time in Scotland and in pre-Revolutionary New England. Salt bars are still sound exchange mediums in some countries where the life-giving element is scarce.

Beads Passed As Money

Eye - appealing baubles similar to the cowries won widespread popularity. Just as North American Indians gave valued lands and skins for beads, the Araucanian Indians of Chile accepted green jadeite beads.

Apart from more ordinary patterns of currency, Antwerp gin became money in Tierra del Fuego a century ago.

In the Pacific, Loyalty Island purchases were made with red fur found under the ears of the flying fox. In the Gilbert Islands buyers once used fishhooks made of shells. Eggs became a limited currency on Nauru Island.

The main currencies of Alor, tiny East Indian island, are metal kettle drums and brass gongs. Arrows are considered as small change.

QualiCraft shoes with that $20.00 look! $5.99

the news in combination...color to inside, white to the out!

The spectator this year wears a dressy look . . . soft, feminine, flattering! Here QualiCraft brings you a cling-sling version in white with blue or brown, dainty, cut-out, sprinkled with nailheads. In sizes 4 to 10, AAAA thru C. MAIL ORDERS INVITED: Include 25¢—Post Office charges collected on C.O.D's.

Feminine Elegance Characterizes New In Shoes

Both Open And Closed Toes Shown

Both sides are winning in the open-and-closed battle of shoe fashions for this Spring and Summer. Most women are going to buy both. The open shoes are so pretty, so flattering, so seductive, let us say, that they are quite irresistible. And lots of women haven't even worn them yet. They are far from being out of the picture.

However, there is a trend toward a slight modification of the extremely naked look, an appearance of a little more shoe without in any way detracting from the delicacy of the pattern. Sometimes it's a closed back, sometimes a vamp which covers the toes but is opened up in a pretty pattern above it. Sometimes closed toe, with just a halter strap to keep the shoe in place.

There is also a slight indication of moving away from the very wide toe opening, or putting the opening on an asymmetric line which is still airy and graceful but hints at a little more shoe.

Slings, graceful fluid lines and T-strap sandals are the big favorites in open shoes, but in many the extremely wide toe opening has been modified.

On The Right Foot

The backless shoe refuses to be downed. In fact it is more popular than ever. The little magic gadget which makes the shoe cling to the foot has encouraged a lot of women to try the daring backless fashion. As a matter of fact, it's extremely smart and sophisticated on the right foot at the right time with the right costume. Otherwise, the less said the better.

The bareback is both tailored and dressy. Black patent is a favorite in the town backless shoe, suitable for wear with suits of silk or the fine linen-weave worsteds. The front may be simply crossed bands or narrow patent strippings knotted to form the vamp, but the effect is that of an elegant town shoe in the mood of the current season.

For dressier wear, draped or pleated kidskin, metallics, patent or suede take graceful lines in the new sandals or pumps—the height of feminine charm with afternoon or cocktail dresses. Sometimes these dress-maker shoes are just a matter of line and manipulation. In other cases they add a touch of decoration in buckle, bow or jewelled ornament.

In closed shoes the pump on slim and elegant lines is still the Easter shoe par excellence. Not pointed. Delicately tapered. With heels slimmer, more curved. There is a bit of perforation on many of the pumps. Sometimes a flat buckle. Sometimes an underlay of contrasting leather which suggests a buckle without interfering with the clean line of the vamp. In some instances a rising line, square, curved or point on the instep suggested by the court shoes worn by the ladies of Versailles.

Beautifully Tailored

The spectator pump is beautifully tailored this spring and is usually all in one color with polished leathers or reptile preferred. It may be in black, brown, deep or lighter navy—or in the new scarlet red or one of the lovely new softer browns. These are really high fashion. They have new names—Milk Chocolate, Coffee Frost, Penuche — names as tempting as the luscious colors themselves. They're divine with spring tweeds in light tones, and handsome foils for some of the darker town colors.

Here too are discreet touches of decoration. Perforations around the collar, a narrow tailored strap and buckle right across the vamp. Something new, different, sophisticated which makes the Spring '55 spectator a high fashion shoe and a far cry from the brown-and-whites and black-and-whites of other days.

There are some combinations in spectators, but they are news too. Two colors combine, but they're different, more subtle. Two materials combine—one of the muted spring shades perhaps in suede or reptile, with tip and fox of exactly matching polished leather.

Of course, when it comes to summer and resort shoes, the sky is the limit. Let your purse and your imagination be your guide. As little shoe as you want, as long as it stays on your foot. A chance to try all sorts of new things—in colors, in materials, in patterns. The very sight of a case filled with these delectable trifles is enough to make any woman throw caution to the wind.

They Make Conversation

These are shoes that make a costume—shoes that are conversation pieces. That stamp you as a woman in-the-know.

Colors may be pale as mist or a burst of brilliance—flame, hot orange, hot pink, royal purple. The off-whites are cool, sleek, sophisticated. There are wonderful exotic prints, crochets, straws, embroidered fabrics, vinylites and nylon laces. In fact, anything goes in the "New in Shoes" for Spring '55.

GLOWING ELEGANCE OF THE RENAISSANCE period is reflected in a fragile-looking late day pump of softly polished calf with distinctive black scrolling.

GAY SPRING ENTICEMENT, a "glass slipper" sling pump of clear vinylite over the toes, and a sparkling lucite flower-designed heel.

BOND SALES REPORTED

WASHINGTON—UP—The Treasury reported Thursday that Americans bought $1,038,000,000 worth of Series E and H government bonds during January and February—a 10-year record. The bonds cashed in totaled $747 million. Purchases exceeded pay-offs by $291 million.

In the last 10 years, use of coal by U. S. railroads has fallen from 132 million tons a year to 20 million tons.

'The McConnell Story'

By GORDON DOUGLAS
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, March 12 — Being in the right picture at the right time in the right role is a fine formula for attaining Hollywood stardom in the space of time loosely defined as overnight.

Grace Kelly, Marlon Brando, Burt Lancaster, Clark Gable, Virginia Mayo are just a few cases in point.

As a director, I've often been asked such questions. It came up again the other day as I was megging "The McConnell Story." I have been requested, Jimmie, to put the thought into narrative form —and here it is.

In "High Noon" Grace Kelly was the prim and proper schoolmarm wife of Gary Cooper. Nobody paid her much mind and the same thing happened again in "Mogambo," when she romped through the African jungles with Clark Gable. Adequate, everybody said. A pretty little thing, but certainly not going places in a hurry.

Then along came "Dial M For Murder," directed by Alfred Hitchcock at Warner Bros. When this little gem of frustrated uxorcide, deftly done by Maestro Hitchcock, hit the nation's screens a whoop and a holler went up from movie fans from Aroostook, Maine, to San Ysidro, California. Miss Kelly, a sexpot of refined elegance, was suddenly the hottest property in Hollywood. Every producer began screaming for her services. All the national slick magazines did profile pieces and cover stories on her almost concurrently. Hitchcock got her again for "Rear Window" and now the name of Grace Kelly on a theater marquee is like 18K on jewelry.

Virginia Mayo was a Hollywood glamour doll being used by Sam Goldwyn as windowdressing for Danny Kaye pictures until she was cast as an amoral confection in "The Best Years of Our Lives." The picture made almost a clean sweep of Academy Awards. Virginia slipped away from Goldwyn and came over to Warners where she registered as a fine dramatic actress, her most recent stint of serious emoting having been done in "The Silver Chalice." She's equally at ease starring in musicals where she sings, dances and acts.

Right now the whole motion picture industry is talking about James Dean, an Indiana farm boy who came to Hollywood via the New York stage and makes his film debut in "East of Eden," a CinemaScope and WarnerColor feature directed and produced by Elia Kazan.

"Battle Cry," also from Warners, will probably go down in Hollywood history as a milestone in the careers of Tab Hunter and Dorothy Malone. In this stirring story of the Marine Corps making love and war on the home front and the battle front, Tab attains real starring stature.

As for Miss Malone, who had been more or less gliding through a succession of roles which neither retarded nor advanced her career, she breaks out in "Battle Cry" as a high-voltage temptress able to turn the head of any man in her approximate vicinity. The love scenes between Tab and Dorothy are as torrid as anything the screen has offered since the halcyon days of John Gilbert and Garbo.

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, both of them regarded as fair - to - good performers were farmed out by their home studios for a Columbia picture, "It Happened One Night." The public lapped up this one and Gable and Colbert were tops from then on.

Burt Lancaster was just another Hollywood newcomer from the New York stage with his film career at the see-saw stage; he could have gone up or down.

Mark Hellinger, then a producer at U-I, put Burt into "The Killers," from an Ernest Hemingway story and Burt's been a blue-chip star ever since.

When David O. Selznick chose Vivien Leigh to play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind" opposite Gable, most of the Hollywood pundits either praised or condemned him for putting an unknown into the part. Miss Leigh was not unknown around Hollywood, but GWTW zoomed her to vertigo heights. When she played in "A Streetcar Named Desire" she was one of the top stars of two continents.

For Broderick Crawford and Judy Holliday the picture with the magic lamp was "Born Yesterday," for Howard Keel it was "Annie Get Your Gun," for Eve Marie Saint it was "On The Waterfront," another Elia Kazan masterpiece.

Frank Sinatra's career was pointing downhill when he put on successfully a personal campaign to get himself the role of Maggio in "From Here to Eternity." The picture got him an Oscar and established him as a dramatic actor.

Once again, it was the right role in the right picture at the right time that did it.

Money Takes Strange Shapes Around World

WASHINGTON — Money—"what the other man takes for the things you want" — has rattled in strange shapes in curious transactions.

Cowrie shells, dog, pig and sperm - whale teeth have served as money. Fishhooks, hounds, snail shells and stone coins 12 feet in diameter have passed as francs and dollars do today.

Of all odd currencies, the cowrie, white and straw - colored inch-long product of the Indian Ocean has perhaps served more people than any other nonmetallic tender, the National Geographic Society says.

In Uganda a thousand cowries bought a 62-pound ivory tusk; 2,300 bought a cow; a bride was sold for two cowries. Sometimes a surplus of cowries brought inflation. Then tribal leaders hoarded quantities of the shells in an effort to control their value.

Traders Play Tooth Trick

Dog teeth found favor among distantly separated Solomon islanders of the Pacific and Shoshone and Bannock Indians of North America.

In 1890 the Indians valued a tooth at 25 cents. The islanders, trading among themselves, paid for canoes with teeth. When selling to outsiders, however, the islanders scrutinized the teeth, for traders a half century ago shook the economy with imports of porcelain counterfeits.

Yap, the Pacific Island, and Paraguay, the South America country, once stood at extremes in weight of currencies. The famed stone money of Yap weighed hundreds of pounds. With circulation nearly impossible, the enormous stones stood before the rich man's dwelling, bespeaking his resources.

In Paraguay natives cut snail shells to shirt button size as money. A hundred buttons bought a sheep while in Nicaragua the same number of cocoa beans bought a slave. Colored Amazon River stones resembling fish served the Caribs in Guiana as a medium of exchange.

The sperm whale's elusiveness, like gold, raised its teeth to enormous value in the Fiji islands. Generally owned by chieftains and hand - polished, a tooth bought a bride or a culprit's way out of trouble.

Other things hard to obtain have also passed for money in lands far apart — nails, for instance, were as good as cash at one time in Scotland and in pre-Revolutionary New England. Salt bars are still sound exchange mediums in some countries where the life-giving element is scarce.

Beads Passed As Money

Eye - appealing baubles similar to the cowries won widespread popularity. Just as North American Indians gave valued lands and skins for beads, the Araucanian Indians of Chile accepted green jadeite beads.

Apart from more ordinary patterns of currency, Antwerp gin became money in Tierra del Fuego a century ago.

In the Pacific, Loyalty Island purchases were made with red fur found under the ears of the flying fox. In the Gilbert Islands buyers once used fishhoks made of shells. Eggs became a limited currency on Nauru Island.

The main currencies of Alor, tiny East Indian island, are metal kettle drums and brass gongs. Arrows are considered as small change.

WOVEN LEATHER SLIPPER

The slipper shoe, smart indoors or out, is now being done entirely in woven leather for men. Black or brown appear to be preferred

Shimmer And Sheen In Party Footwear Story

Moonlight, starlight, shimmer and sheen, that's the story of spring and summer party shoes. Nothing so pretty since Cinderella — and these can go on dancing after twelve o'clock!

The delicate pearlized leathers come in a wide range of pastel colors, with first honors apparently going to the ever popular pink, to delicate mauve and pale aqua. Other popular choices include the ice blues, greens and yellows, and white that glows like a pearl.

Then there are the pastel reptiles. And gold and silver snakes that are like molten metal. These, the slippers that can be worn with black, white and every cocktail and evening color. As a matter of fact the pastel tones are almost equally adaptable, looking smart and pretty with dark and light alike.

The favorite shoe of the moment is the highheeled sandal, backless or with slim halter, with open toe, plain draped or pleated vamp and usually a touch of ornament in jewel, buckle or bow.

Not so new, but still popular is the strip sandal, a mesh of metallic bands, very nude in effect, and smartest when worn with one of the new evening stockings which is sheer as a whisper and reflects the tint of the shoe.

Since resort and evening fashions have much in common, these dance shoes will certainly show up with informal warm weather dresses of linens, printed cottons and sheers as well as more formal party wear.

Of late, the green shoe has been largely noticeable by its absence. The mint and emerald green just didn't seem to fit the picture and red took over.

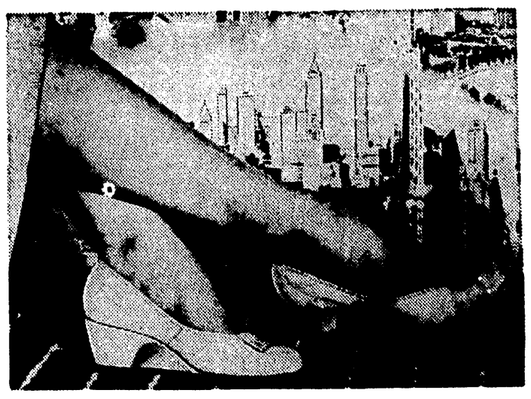
However, a soft and subtle green introduced several seasons ago under the name of avocado (because it's the color of an avocado pear, naturally) has by sheer merit risen to be a fashion color for spring.

Although somewhat exotic, it has an amazing faculty for going with lots of things in very pleasant harmony.

It can be worn nicely with grey, beige or black in the spring suit range. Here avocado in aniline, polished calf or reptile is the thing, in town pumps or sandals.

For dressier wear, in supple gleaming kidskin, it's wonderful in open sandal treatments with many of the new prints and silks. Perhaps the fact that avocado green is a feature of many of the smartest spring print patterns has enhanced the interest in the green shoe.

True, not everybody wants a green shoe. But this spring more women will wear them because of the adaptability of this special sort of custom-made color.



THE NEW SCOOP OF THE SEASON is the "hollowed" wedge. Most of them like the pair shown above, are exceptionally light and flexible, adding comfort to good looks.

Exciting Newer Wedgies Boast A Special Flair

Wedgies have come a long way from their utilitarian start. Today they're the shoe that you pick to highlight a special costume—the shoe that lends flair to everything from shorts to patio dance frocks.

There's a fine Italian hand around in the opened up look, the lighter construction, the dramatic handling of strap treatments, of colors and leathers. The platform is less cumbersome, a style feature making use of new materials, color contrast and other devices to add chic to the shoe . . . as well as the comfort for which wedgies were originally designed Colors are wonderful. Scarlet, bright cornflower blue or paler wedgewood, soft mauve pinks, pale greens and yellows in plain or lustred kidskin, the new creamy anilines, suedes, pastel dark or bright, polished leathers in beige to brown. In fact, in this particular category, shoes can really go the limit in fashion excitement.

Not all the wedgies are so frivolous. There's still a place for the classic ties and oxfords, on higher platforms, but these too combine smart styling with the maximum of comfort.

They come in basic black and navy, and there's a strong leaning toward the natural, beige or neutral brown shades. Here again red is a favorite, with the very bright spring shade in the lead.

Smart Tanners Give New 'Fabric Look' To Shoe Leathers

It's the new switch! We've had fabrics acting like leathers in shoes for quite some time. But who would have thought that smart tanners would toss the ball back by reproducing fabric designs and textures on some of their finest leathers.

Polka dots, stripes, plaids, flower patterns are reproduced with amazing clarity on smooth leathers by the new silk screen process. You can almost feel the texture of a tweed, a linen, a shantung.

Some of these exotic leathers are in the party feeling. Shoes for cocktail or dinner wear, to add that certain touch to the costume. Take for instance a high heeled, open toed sling of black leather, with matching bag, sparkled all over with white stars. Even the high spike heel wears its star decoration.

Stripes and polka dots are other popular patterns, both for casual and dress wear. Or you may have a sandal in softly muted plaid—you touch it to find that it doesn't have the feel of fabric!

A new trick, and a smart one to add to the most exciting spring and summer shoe fashions we've had in years.

SUITED FOR SPRING silhouettes, the "demi-beau" pump features a perky side tab that follows the slender, moulded lines of the shoe.

Brazil Breaks Open Wide New Frontier Lands

WASHINGTON — Brazil, colossus among Latin American nations, is bursting into an industrial future of opportunity.

With a large - scale map and article on eastern South America and a color - photographed profile of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil's seam-splitting capital, the National Geographic Magazine in its current issue describes this new frontier.

Low - flying planes have been fired at — and hit — with Indian arrows in a Brazilian west as "wild" as that of the young United States, the Geographic reports. The air has become a modern pony express route.

New airports spawn new towns so far in the interior that people become familiar with planes without ever having seen a railroad train. As the inland push has opened new farms and mines, the country's airports have doubled in number in five years.

Cities of Coffee

Brazil's burgeoning cities mirror its prosperity. The annual coffee crop accounts for more than half the world's total. The Territory of Amapa in the north recently reported large discoveries of manganese, essential to steel-making, as well as chromium and iron. From Minas Gerais already flow vast mineral resources.

Latin America's largest steel center has been built at Volta Redonda, 60 miles from Rio de Janeiro, to use the country's high-grade iron deposits. At capacity, the mills can produce 600,000 tons of rolled steel a year.

Brazil's textile industry supplies nearly all her needs. New businesses and factories are springing up with as much zeal as Rio's Cariocas give to their carefree pre-Lenten Carnival or to soccer, national sport of Brazil. Sao Paulo mushrooms at the rate of 35 new buildings a day; Rio completes 16 each 24 hours.

Crowded Coast

Despite westward pioneering, three - fourths of Brazil's 57,008,000 people still live within 100 miles of the coast.

Rio de Janeiro, "River of January," or simply the City Marvelous — Cidade Maravilhosa — to its 2,650,000 Cariocas, has become a tangle of factories and assembly plants, a distribution center and transportation terminal, as well as capital and cultural leader.

Below the bare - rock exclamation point of Sugar Loaf, 5,000 ships and 70,000 planes now land at and leave Rio annually.

Modern tower apartments line the Atlantic along Copacabana in almost solid phalanx. Yet on the curving beach beneath them fishermen still hand-haul their heavy nets, and black voodoo priestesses in flowing white robes walk to the ocean's edge each New Year's Eve to cast flowers upon the waves.

PIN - STRIPE PATTERN for Spring on screen printed leather, features open toes and a sling back louis heel.

Brilliantly Designed New Flats Show Color Variety

Lots of women have discovered that they like to wear flats. By necessity they bought them in the teen-age departments where they first came to fame. However, many women wanted a slightly sturdier flat, and one with a little more style than the classic ballet shoe which started the trend.

This spring and summer they have an almost limitless choice. Flats seem to be in the shoe picture for keeps, and the variety of new materials and trims, plus firmer soles and better fit makes them both more practical and more appealing.

Colors are wonderful. For casual and week-end wear, the hot shades, in shag, in suede, in smooth leather, in fabrics, to wear with slacks, Bermuda shorts and swirling cotton skirts.

Exquisite pastels in calf, kid kin or reptile are put the kinds with the sheer cottons, batistes, dimities and lawns, the "pretty baby" dresses which were such a hit with grown-ups last summer.

Heels Add Chic

Heels add greatly to the chic of many of the new flats. Tiny baby heels, either pancake or miniature French, very piquant especially with a slim platform to match. Typical example, a dress flat of palest mauve pink kidskin with narrow platform and baby Louis heel of black patent. Sparkling jet nailheads on the vamp pick up the theme.

Strawcloth makes some very smart midsummer flats — as for instance, one of white black or natural straw with square vamp, narrow contrasting sole, flat stacked leather heel and straw flower trim

Or a brilliant harlequin Basque cloth on rubber sole, one of the new washable flats for all-around sports wear introduced this season.

Gay terry cloth, spattered with big white polka dots, with carryall bag to match is a nice seashore or summer patio accessory.

Colorful fruit is a very popular trim for flats or casual wear — while dressier ones go in for pearl ornaments, clusters of fabric or plastic flowers or embroidered motifs.

Witty and Sophisticated

For wear with city suits, there are some wonderful witty sophisticated little flats that pick up the tricks of more formal shoes. They go in for backless designs, for T-straps and delicate cut-out vamp treatments. Colored, striped or printed linings are sometimes a feature of the more youthful models.

City flats come in suedes, in polished leather and reptile, or sometimes in combinations. Almost always the little heel and sole contrast either in color or material with the shoe itself. Black and navy polished leather are classics. Grey suede is a favorite. And there is interest in the honey or ginger browns or beiges with smart touch of black patent. Of course red, including the new spring flame, is a basic, again often with the black touch.

The Newest In Shoes For Men More Colorful

Will men wear pink shoes? They have accepted pink shirts, especially for wear with new and popular charcoal shades in clothing. The New in Shoes this season include not overall pink footwear, but pink with black, with navy and with charcoal.

Other newest style footwear highlights for men include black calf with green suede for a two eyelet oxford and yellow calf with red soles and piping in a blucher.

Soft shrunken grains are now very high style in black, navy, darkest brown and charcoal.

The new lower topline is being used on everything from footwear for active sports to town and dancing shoes.

Matching mesh in brown, black or navy is being used for wall last effects in slipons with the wall of mesh and the vamp and quarter of calf.

The pure white leather slipon, cut like a slipper and with punched cut-outs and with black sole and heel is here for men.

Pigskin is going high style on men's footwear in wing tip patterns and dark town colors. Charcoal polished calf with matching suede is an elegant town wing tip treatment.

Fashion Headlines Newest 'Off Whites' From Ivory To Grey

There'll be lots of navy shoes this season. There always are, come Easter. But luster leathers give a completely new style look to navy footwear. Lights up the classic coat or suit of navy silk or wool, and adds a pretty feminine touch to the paler colors, the neutrals and pastels which are appearing in spring tweeds and worsteds.

Thus the navy shoe moves from a staple to an appealing fashion in line with the most colorful season we have had in years.

It prolongs the life of the shoe too. Because these blue lusters, when made in the smart open patterns of sandal or pump can carry forward into summer, no longer restricted to just the Easter season.

Typical of summer styles in navy luster are such nude types as a three-banded mule, backless of course, with high heel, instep band, and two circlets making the vamp. Light enough in design to wear with any summer frock. Charming, too, a T-strap sandal, open toe, sides and back, with graceful curved heel, slim ankle strap, and pleated vamp of the luster leather. Another adaptable warm weather fashion for silk suits and spring dresses. Watch for luster navy to add new lightness and charm to a basic spring color that most women like.

DRAMATIC APPROACH TO A SPRING EVENING is a bare sling-back sandal of black satin, heeled and buckled with glittering rhinestones.

Lower Heel, High Style, Aid Posture

Shoe designers have really caught on for this Spring. Perhaps it's the new lengthened-torso silhouette that did it. A girl just can't teeter and tilt on spikes with these suave and elegant costume lines.

Whatever the reason, instead of tip-tilted noses at medium heels we now have the smartest of new designs, with just as much high-style thinking and know-how as ever went into the most extreme of the formal town shoes.

What a relief—to have pretty feet and able to walk with ease and grace at one and the same time. And there's a choice for every taste and every costume.

Closed Pump A Leader

The closed pump is a leader in this modified heel division — because every woman wants at least one pump for her spring town costume. Instead of looking clumsy on the lower heel, it has a slim, sleek graceful look of great elegance, due to the tapering of the toe, the slimming of the heel.

Practically every one has a distinctive touch of detailing, delicate, never intrusive. Typical, a town pump of black, blue or chestnut brown polished leather, the top delicately etched with stitching on either side of a fine pin-tucked row. Another in smooth calf with matching medium heel has contrasting luster trim around the throat, and a string vamp bow.

Patent is very important in the picture of the lower heel town pump. It's slightly dressier than the polished leathers, will go with silks as well as wools. The shaped slender heel complements the narrow slender look of the vamp. Most effective for Easter, the black patent pump with topline of white grosgrain, tied in a tiny pert bow at the back.

Really Dressed Up

Really dressed up, the medium heel patent leather sandal, in modified, T strap or open halter design, open toe, with touch of decoration, perhaps a flat ribbon bow, or a square or oval patent buckle with a sparkle of white nailheads to match crisp white glace gloves.

Black patent also combines with white suede in some new spectators that are smart indeed. Heel, quarter and tip of black patent low cut sides and vamp of white suede with over-laping rows of perforations for tailored trim. Something for the new black and white tweeds and suitings that are headliners this season.

ITALIAN INSPIRED black magic is a gleaming satin evening pump whose slim tapered heel is threaded with rhinestones and a teardrop pearl.

Flowers Now Trim Many Smart New Shoes For Spring

Right from Sunny California came the first rage for flower trims. Starting with flats and casuals, in fabrics and woven straws and straw cloths, their freshness and young look quickly caught on until the vogue for flower trims is nation wide.

It isn't restricted to casuals any more. Some of the prettiest party shoes, particularly the open sandal types, add a cluster of blossoms on the vamp for that new feminine look.

Some of the blossom trims are really wonderful — delicate ceramic blossoms in Dresden blues and pinks, with gleaming green leaves. Some are made all of jewels — rhinestones, fake sapphires and emeralds for dazzle. Pearl-finished blossoms match the shoe, pick up the new luster tints.

A far cry from these exquisite trifles, but just as smart in their place, are the flowers in the new hot colors, made of felt, exotic straws or what have you, in the blazing hot tones of orange, violet, pink or Oriental yellow. Sometimes it's just a single huge blossom planted on a wide open patio or cabana backless sandal in linen, canvas, cotton or straws.

VIVID SHADES OF LIZARD for a daring bare-heeled T-strapped sandal, add excitement to gay Spring fashions.

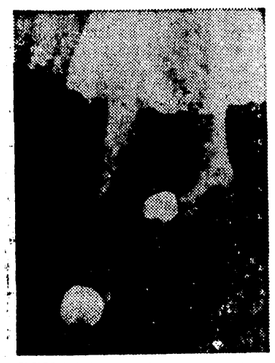
SLIPPERS WIN THE STRAW VOTE for around-the-house flattery. These in elasticized straw with white straw flower trim.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET provide a soft touch at home. The white straw flower accent is a key 1955 flower note.



SCUFFS OF THE YEAR are feminine and delicate, showing puffs and pom-pons on soft fabrics. These in denim.

A BIT OF OUTDOORS is the inside story on slippers, as artificial flowers bloom on comfortable straw shells.

AVOID ATHLETE'S FOOT

Best way to avoid athlete's foot, which has recently been declared not contagious, is to wear ventilated shoes during the warm months, according to advice from the medical research field. Changing shoes and socks frequently, also is recommended.

WORK SHOES SMARTER

With today's theme "dress smartly on the job," there's a revolution in the men's work shoe industry just as their is in the men work-clothing industry. New styling, new colors, new design aimed at attractive patterns in sturdy materials.

Designers Make Much Of Silk Prints For Shoes

Designer shoes are making much of prints for both spring and summer shoes—and some of them are most exciting. News is a grey and white tweed print in pure silk. In a slim pump bound with black patent it's an elegant suit shoe indeed.

Another favorite with one house is a white surah silk spattered with little bright red roses in place of the polka dots which have become a classic.

A navy silk with a fine thread tracery of royal blue is again the thing for a navy town costume, and a cotton print splashed all over with a flower print in red shading to pink, is perfect with a cabana or cocktail dress as the weather gets warmer.

Raw silks, both plain and patterned are leaders. These include shantungs, particularly good in off-linen-like weaves, tussahs, and whites, naturals and pale beiges. Twills, crepes and taffetas are dressier and will be worn earlier in pumps or sandals with the silk suits and coats which promise to be one of the biggest Easter fashions.

Not news, but still popular are the linens, piques, denims and hopsaking weaves plain, embroidered, pale, dark or bright add gaiety and spark to the summer shoe picture.

TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

Each year delegations of shoes industry executives from many foreign lands tour American shoe factories to see how the United States produces the best footwear in the world.

Hand stitching to give a mud-guard effect in a country blucher of glove soft shrunken leather is being shown among the new in shoes for men this season.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Partly because the healthy tend to marry the healthy. The death rate among bachelors in their best productive years is nearly twice that of married men. Much the same with women. However, psychiatrist Neil Dayton has shown that marriage itself, by the love, peace of mind, and mutual care that it brings, tends to prolong life and to prevent much mental breakdown.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Years ago the Atlanta Rotary Club, inspired by educator Dr. Willis Sutton, raised a fund of $40,000 for this purpose. All but 4 per cent has been repaid, but the fund has grown to $350,000 through gifts from students who became rich as a result of this aid. Just a tip to you bankers!

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, if possible. Verne Steward, personnel expert, says a full-length mirror enables mother to show children correct postures and gestures. He says we all should practice facial expression before a mirror and learn how we look to others, although it would give an awful shock to some of us.

Overcoming Self-Consciousness

TREND TO COMFORT

One of the most pronounced trends in footwear today is toward lighter weight, softer leather shoes, in response to popular demand. The answer from the leather industry is glove soft leathers that can be tanned myriad colors for use in building really easy-on-the-feet footwear.

Teen-agers used to ape grownup shoe styles. Now the same goes for little boys. Just as they have adopted slacks, waistcoats and jackets that are miniatures of the grown-ups, so they want their shoes styled as nearly as possible like the old man's.

Two-eyelet bluchers captured the fancy of the men a couple of seasons ago. Now they are the hot news for small boys. Masculine detailing and shoes that are light and flexible are in line with the trend. And the low top a big style feature.

Very mannish, hence very appealing are such shoes as a two-eyelet oxford in a soft grain leather with brown smooth leather outlining the tapered moccasin vamp and topline. The grain effect is also new looking on an amber tone two-eyelet oxford with a bit of dash in brass eyelets and brown mudguard welting with gold nailheads. This for a boy who likes a bit of paprika with his casual clothes. Another plain toe grain leather two-eyelet in toast brown has white stitching around the welting of the sole for a touch of contrast.

Even moccasin styles for sturdy everyday wear have picked up the two-eyelet theme, as witness one on a crepe rubber sole in reddish brown shrunken grain. This emphasizes the two-eyelet fastening with a ghillie tie effect with lighter brown leather lacing.

In addition to the moccasin two-eyelets there are lots of other styles copied from the men. The wing tip is now being shown for little boys. The U wing, a very big men's fashion, is catching on with the small fry. There are a few straight tips, although these don't seem to be so much in demand. But a bit of interest in the plain vamp, especially in the lowline two eyelet style. In the plain toe, brushed leathers in white or blue seemed to be very much liked, also cordovan colored smooth leather, especially with crepe soles.

The color story for two-eyelets in general adds the smoke greys and pale panama leathers as fashion notes along with the more regulation tans, browns, blue, black and white.

Smoke and camel shades also are important in boys' sandals which now repeat meticulously the styling which has made men's sandals popular country and week-end shoe styles. The tassal moccasin, another steal from the men, has also crept into the small boys' field in a limited way. Here it's considered more or less of a dress shoe, best in black or brown.

CHARCOAL GREY CALFSKIN strikes a high style note among men's shoes as reflected from this low cut, ventilated blucher with circular tip pattern. Casual, comfortable.

Newest In Slippers

SLIPPERS WIN THE STRAW VOTE for around-the-house flattery. These in elasticized straw with white straw flower trim.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET provide a soft touch at home. The white straw flower accent is a key 1955 flower note.

SCUFFS OF THE YEAR are feminine and delicate, showing puffs and pompons on soft fabrics. These in denim.

AVOID ATHLETE'S FOOT

Best way to avoid athlete's foot, which has recently been declared not contagious, is to wear ventilated shoes during the warm months, according to advice from the medical research field. Changing shoes and socks frequently, also is recommended.

WORK SHOES SMARTER

With today's theme "dress smartly on the job," there's a revolution in the men's work shoe industry just as their is in the men work-clothing industry. New styling, new colors, new design aimed at attractive patterns in sturdy materials.

Designers Make Much Of Silk Prints For Shoes

Designer shoes are making much of prints for both spring and summer shoes—and some of them are most exciting. News is a grey and white tweed print in pure silk. In a slim pump bound with black patent it's an elegant suit shoe indeed.

Another favorite with one house is a white surah silk spattered with little bright red roses in place of the polka dots which have become a classic.

A navy silk with a fine thread tracery of royal blue is again the thing for a navy town costume, and a cotton print splashed all over with a flower print in red shading to pink, is perfect with a cabana or cocktail dress as the weather gets warmer.

Raw silks, both plain and patterned are leaders. These include shantungs, particularly good in off-linen-like weaves, tussahs, and whites, naturals and pale beiges. Twills, crepes and taffetas are dressier and will be worn earlier in pumps or sandals with the silk suits and coats which promise to be one of the biggest Easter fashions.

Not news, but still popular are the linens, piques, denims and hopsaking weaves plain, embroidered, pale, dark or bright add gaiety and spark to the summer shoe picture.

TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

Each year delegations of shoes industry executives from many foreign lands tour American shoe factories to see how the United States produces the best footwear in the world.

HAND STITCHING

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Partly because the healthy tend to marry the healthy. The death rate among bachelors in their best productive years is nearly twice that of married men. Much the same with women. However, psychiatrist Neil Dayton has shown that marriage itself, by the love, peace of mind, and mutual care that it brings, tends to prolong life and to prevent much mental breakdown.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Years ago the Atlanta Rotary Club, inspired by educator Dr. Willis Sutton, raised a fund of $40,000 for this purpose. All but 4 per cent has been repaid, but the fund has grown to $350,000 through gifts from students who became rich as a result of this aid. Just a tip to you bankers!

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes, if possible. Verne Steward, personnel expert, says a full-length mirror enables mother to show children correct postures and gestures. He says we all should practice facial expression before a mirror and learn how we look to others, although it would give an awful shock to some of us.

REV. ROWLAND CROWDER

Noted Leader Will Preach Here Sunday

The College Place Baptist church will have as its speaker Sunday Dr. Rowland E. Crowder, consultant in the Church Architecture department of the Baptist Sunday School Board of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Crowder will preach at both the morning service at 10:55 a.m. and evening service at 7:30 p.m. on March 13.

Dr. Crowder is a native of Arkansas having finished high school in Fort Smith. He is a graduate of Ouachita College and Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary. Having served several pastorates in Arkansas, he came to Louisiana to serve as associate pastor of the First Baptist Church in Shreveport for five and one-half years. He left the pastorate of the Central Baptist Church of Springhill, La., to accept the position which he now holds.

The public is invited to hear this dynamic preacher who will thrill both heart and soul.

The College Place Baptist Church is located at 301 Sherrouse avenue.

Lowest recorded temperature in Canada was registered in the Yukon in 1947 — 81 degrees below zero.

W. S. C. S. Convention In L. Charles To Open

The Louisiana Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will convene in Lake Charles, La., on March 16, 17, 18. The president, Mrs. C. I. Jones, of New Orleans will preside over the three days' meeting.

The theme of the conference will be "For The Living of These Days."

Bishop Paul E. Martin, of the Louisiana-Arkansas area, will be the conference guest speaker on Wednesday evening when he will address the conference on "A World Order—For the Living of These Days."

Miss Margaret Billingsley, executive secretary of the Japan, Korea and Philippine mission field, of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, will direct the conference meditations and on Thursday she will speak on "Grant Us Wisdom," on Friday, "Grant Us Courage."

Other speakers of distinction will be: Mrs. W. E. Horton, president of the south central jurisdiction, who will speak at the 6:00 o'clock dinner Wednesday on "What Doth The Lord Require of Thee," emphasis being on the status of women, with Mrs. W. A. Barnwell, conference secretary of status of women, presiding. On Thursday morning Mrs. C. A. Meeker, editor of The Methodist Woman, will speak on "The Indispensable Woman," with Mrs. Wideman Watson, conference secretary of literature and publications, presiding. Miss Meeker will also speak on "Treasures for the Kingdom," with Mrs. Lee Tidwell, conference secretary of promotion, presiding. Miss Meeker will address the conference body at the evening session on "Certain Women." At the 6:00 o'clock dinner Thursday, Mrs. J. T. Harris, conference secretary of missionary personnel, will speak on "Mounting Opportunities In 1955" of which the emphasis will be on youth, with Mrs. D. V. Poole, conference secretary of youth presiding.

A sacrificial luncheon will be held on Thursday at 12:30 p. m. at which Mrs. Paul E. Martin, wife of Bishop Paul E. Martin, will speak on "The Abiding Presence," with Mrs. W. W. Paxton, conference secretary of spiritual life, presiding. Proceeds from the dinner will be directed to India.

One or two delegates from each local Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church of Louisiana will attend this annual meeting where they will gain much valuable inspiration and information for the following year's work.

BROTHERHOOD SECY GUEST—Nelson F. Tull of Arkansas will address Men's Brotherhood when it meets at College Place Church Monday at 7 p.m. He will discuss "Soul Winning Visitation." He will be introduced by George Vaughan. The address will be in preparation for the simultaneous revival starting March 27.

Baptist S. S. Conference Set Monday

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will sponsor a meeting of its Sunday School Organization Monday, March 14, 7:30 p.m. at the Faith Baptist Church in Monroe. The meeting will feature departmental conferences for each department of the Sunday School. Following the departmental conferences there will be a general assembly period.

Two guests will appear on the program, Mrs. A. L. New, state approved Sunday School worker, will lead the conference for the general officers.

Mrs. New is well fitted by training and disposition for this work. Mr. Melvin Bradley, Sunday school superintendent for District III and newly elected president of the State Sunday School convention, will bring the address at the general assembly period. In the course of his address he will bring interesting information from his recent trip to the Southwide Sunday School Clinic in the Los Angeles area.

'Forward With Christ' Will Be Rayville Program

The Rayville Presbyterian Church will participate in the Forward With Christ program of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. To do so, the Rev. William B. Lowrance, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Port Gibson, Miss., will conduct a revival in the Rayville church. These meetings begin this evening at 7:30 p.m. and will continue at the same hour each evening through Friday. Morning meditations will also be held.

Rev. Lowrance is a distinguished speaker and a successful pastor. He holds both the A. B. and the M. A. degrees from the University of South Carolina; a B. D. degree from Columbia Seminary. He was ordained in the Presbyterian church in 1939, and has served churches in Pickens, South Carolina; Madison, Tenn.; and Jennings, La., before going to Port Gibson, Miss., in 1950. During World War II he served as a chaplain in the army and holds a major's commission at the present time in the Corps of Engineers at Vicksburg.

Rev. William B. Krieg, Jr. the pastor of the Rayville Presbyterian Church, invites everyone in the area to attend these services.

Instruction Is Planned Each Sunday Here

Each Sunday morning during the month of March, the minister of the First Presbyterian Church, W. H. McFadden, will teach a course on "What Presbyterians Believe." The course will take the form of discussion and will be held from 10:00-10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary of the church.

This course will be of interest not only to those who are interested in church membership during the Easter season but also to anyone who would like to know more about the Reformed Faith and Christian beliefs in general. It is open to the public.

Bible Words for Today

PSALMS 34:6—"This poor man cried and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles." (RSV)

• • •

Prayer is the most universal religious custom, whether a man is a Jew, Christian, Mohammedan, Buddhist or pagan. At times all men pray. Prayer is the fundamental I-thou relation. Now men do not continue to do something that they have found ineffective. Unless prayer changed things men would long since have ceased to pray. Prayer gives spiritual power—and spiritual power is the most potent force in heaven or earth.

The greatest Man of prayer who ever lived was Jesus of Nazareth. By all odds He has had the greatest influence of any man who ever lived. Prayer is an active affirmation in the reality of God. It is an active affirmation in the personal nature of the universe. You do not pray unless you believe there is a God and that God is ready and willing to aid you.

Prayer can never be measured by earthly standards, but it does put the resources of heaven back of the man who prays. The writer of the marvelous 34th Psalm begins his prayer with adoration, and then goes on to searching of heart; not until then does he petition God for his needs.

Dr. Hillyer H. Straton

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. Jer. 6:16. Look and ask for the ancient paths, where the way is good, and walk in it.
1. Is. 43:18. Remember not the former things, nor consider the things of old.
2. II Pet. 1:19. You will do well to pay attention.
3. Prov. 20:5. The purpose in a man's mind is like deep water, but a man of understanding will draw it out.
4. Phil. 1:9. Your love may abound more with knowledge and discernment.

Inquirer Class For Episcopal Missions Meet

The inquirer's class of St. Thomas' and St. Alban's Episcopal Churches will meet this week. St. Thomas' class will meet Tuesday evening, March 15, in room 205 of the fine arts building at Northeast College, 7:30 p. m. St. Alban's class will meet Thursday evening, March 17, in the band room of the Plum Street School, 7:30 p. m.

The inquirer's class is an informal opportunity to learn about the Episcopal Church and completely without obligation. The doctrine, history worship, and discipline of the church will be discussed at the weekly meetings of the class. The topics for discussion will be presented by the Rev. Robert Ratelle, vicar of the two new Episcopal churches. There will be ample time at each session for questions and group discussion. Everyone who attends comes as an inquirer and is under no obligation. Coffee, or some light refreshment, will be served at the class each week.

Tracts, booklets, and film strips will be used as part of the teaching program. Maps and the blackboard will also be used to illustrate the topics under discussion.

Everyone is invited and cordially welcome to attend these informal and weekly meetings of the Episcopal inquirer's class.

Caddo Organist To Give Lenten Music Program

This Tuesday evening, March 15, Norman Fisher, organist - choirmaster of the First Presbyterian Church in Shreveport, will be the third in the series of organists being presented during the Lenten season each Tuesday evening at Grace Episcopal Church.

These Tuesday evening services begin at 7:30 and include a congregational rehearsal on the music of the church. Mr. Fisher will play works by Bach, Matthews and Titcomb.

Mr. Fisher is a graduate of the School of Sacred Music of Union Theological Seminary in New York. At Union he studied with Clarence Dickinson and Hugh Porter. Before assuming his position in Shreveport he held a similar post at the East Dallas Christian Church in Dallas.

QUESTION: You are always calling for a world wide revival. What would a spiritual revival do for America, and how does it fit into the world pictures? T. H.

AN

REV. ROWLAND CROWDER

Noted Leader Will Preach Here Sunday

The College Place Baptist church will have as its speaker Sunday Dr. Rowland E. Crowder, consultant in the Church Architecture department of the Baptist Sunday School Board of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Crowder will preach at both the morning service at 10:55 a.m. and evening service at 7:30 p.m. on March 13.

Dr. Crowder is a native of Arkansas having finished high school in Fort Smith. He is a graduate of Ouachita College and Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary. Having served several pastorates in Arkansas, he came to Louisiana to serve as associate pastor of the First Baptist Church in Shreveport for five and one-half years. He left the pastorate of the Central Baptist Church of Springhill, La., to accept the position which he now holds.

The public is invited to hear this dynamic preacher who will thrill both heart and soul.

The College Place Baptist Church is located at 301 Sherrouse avenue.

Lowest recorded temperature in Canada was registered in the Yukon in 1947 — 81 degrees below zero.

W. S. C. S. Convention In L. Charles To Open

The Louisiana Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will convene in Lake Charles, La., on March 16, 17, 18. The president, Mrs. C. I. Jones, of New Orleans will preside over the three days' meeting.

The theme of the conference will be "For The Living of These Days."

Bishop Paul E. Martin, of the Louisiana-Arkansas area, will be the conference guest speaker on Wednesday evening when he will address the conference on "A World Order—For the Living of These Days."

Miss Margaret Billingsley, executive secretary of the Japan, Korea and Philippine mission field, of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, will direct the conference meditations and on Thursday she will speak on "Grant Us Wisdom," on Friday, "Grant Us Courage."

Other speakers of distinction will be: Mrs. W. E. Horton, president of the south central jurisdiction, who will speak at the 6:00 o'clock dinner Wednesday on "What Doth The Lord Require of Thee," emphasis being on the status of women, with Mrs. W. A. Barnwell, conference secretary of status of women, presiding. On Thursday morning Mrs. C. A. Meeker, editor of The Methodist Woman, will speak on "The Indispensable Woman," with Mrs. Wideman Watson, conference secretary of literature and publications, presiding. Miss Meeker will also speak on "Treasures for the Kingdom," with Mrs. Lee Tidwell, conference secretary of promotion, presiding. Miss Meeker will address the conference body at the evening session on "Certain Women." At the 6:00 o'clock dinner Thursday, Mrs. J. T. Harris, conference secretary of missionary personnel, will speak on "Mounting Opportunities in 1955" of which the emphasis will be on youth, with Mrs. D. V. Poole, conference secretary of youth presiding.

A sacrificial luncheon will be held on Thursday at 12:30 p. m. at which Mrs. Paul E. Martin, wife of Bishop Paul E. Martin, will speak on "The Abiding Presence," with Mrs. W. W. Paxton, conference secretary of spiritual life, presiding. Proceeds from the dinner will be directed to India.

One or two delegates from each local Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church of Louisiana will attend this annual meeting where they will gain much valuable inspiration and information for the following year's work.

BROTHERHOOD SEC'Y GUEST—Nelson F. Tull of Arkansas will address Men's Brotherhood when it meets at College Place Church Monday at 7 p.m. He will discuss "Soul Winning Visitation." He will be introduced by George Vaughan. The address will be in preparation for the simultaneous revival starting March 27.

Baptist S. S. Conference Set Monday

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will sponsor a meeting of its Sunday School Organization Monday, March 14, 7:30 p.m. at the Faith Baptist Church in Monroe. The meeting will feature departmental conferences for each department of the Sunday School. Following the departmental conferences there will be a general assembly period.

Two guests will appear on the program. Mrs. A. L. New, state approved Sunday School worker, will lead the conference for the general officers.

Mrs. New is well fitted by training and disposition for this work. Mr. Melvin Bradley, Sunday school superintendent for District III and newly elected president of the State Sunday School convention, will bring the address at the general assembly period. In the course of his address he will bring interesting information from his recent trip to the Southwide Sunday School Clinic in the Los Angeles area.

'Forward With Christ' Will Be Rayville Program

The Rayville Presbyterian Church will participate in the Forward With Christ program of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. To do so, the Rev. William B. Lowrance, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Port Gibson, Miss., will conduct a revival in the Rayville church. These meetings begin this evening at 7:30 p.m. and will continue at the same hour each evening through Friday. Morning meditations will also be held.

Rev. Lowrance is a distinguished speaker and a successful pastor. He holds both the A. B. and the M. A. degrees from the University of South Carolina; a B. D. degree from Columbia Seminary. He was ordained in the Presbyterian church in 1939, and has served churches in Pickens, South Carolina; Madison, Tenn.; and Jennings, La., before going to Port Gibson, Miss., in 1950. During World War II he served as a chaplain in the army and holds a major's commission at the present time in the Corps of Engineers at Vicksburg.

Rev. William B. Krieg, Jr., the pastor of the Rayville Presbyterian Church, invites everyone in the area to attend these services.

Instruction Is Planned Each Sunday Here

Each Sunday morning during the month of March, the minister of the First Presbyterian Church, W. H. McFadden, will teach a course on "What Presbyterians Believe." The course will take the form of discussion and will be held from 10:00-10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary of the church.

This course will be of interest not only to those who are interested in church membership during the Easter season, but also to anyone who would like to know more about the Reformed Faith and Christian beliefs in general. It is open to the public.

Bible Words for Today

PSALMS 34:6—"This poor man cried and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles." (RSV)

* * *

Prayer is the most universal religious custom, whether a man is a Jew, Christian, Mohammedan, Buddhist or pagan. At times all men pray. Prayer is the fundamental I-thou relation. Now men do not continue to do something that they have found ineffective. Unless prayer changed things men would long since have ceased to pray. Prayer gives spiritual power—and spiritual power is the most potent force in heaven or earth.

The greatest Man of prayer who ever lived was Jesus of Nazareth. By all odds He has had the greatest influence of any man who ever lived. Prayer is an active affirmation in the reality of God. It is an active affirmation in the personal nature of the universe. You do not pray unless you believe there is a God and that God is ready and willing to aid you.

Prayer can never be measured by earthly standards, but it does put the resources of heaven back of the man who prays. The writer of the marvelous 34th Psalm begins his prayer with adoration, and then goes on to searching of heart; not until then does he petition God for his needs.

Inquirer Class For Episcopal Missions Meet

The inquirer's class of St. Thomas' and St. Alban's Episcopal Churches will meet this week. St. Thomas' class will meet Tuesday evening, March 15, in room 205 of the fine arts building at Northeast College, 7:30 p. m. St. Alban's class will meet Thursday evening, March 17, in the band room of the Plum Street School, 7:30 p. m.

The inquirer's class is an informal opportunity to learn about the Episcopal Church and completely without obligation. The doctrine, history worship, and discipline of the church will be discussed at the weekly meetings of the class. The topics for discussion will be presented by the Rev. Robert Ratelle, vicar of the two new Episcopal churches. There will be ample time at each session for questions and group discussion. Everyone who attends comes as an inquirer and is under no obligation. Coffee, or some light refreshment, will be served at the class each week.

Tracts, booklets, and film strips will be used as part of the teaching program. Maps and the blackboard will also be used to illustrate the topics under discussion.

Everyone is invited and cordially welcome to attend these informal and weekly meetings of the Episcopal inquirer's class.

Caddo Organist To Give Lenten Music Program

This Tuesday evening, March 15, Norman Fisher, organist - choirmaster of the First Presbyterian Church in Shreveport, will be the third in the series of organists being presented during the Lenten season each Tuesday evening at Grace Episcopal Church.

These Tuesday evening services begin at 7:30 and include a congregational rehearsal on the music of the church. Mr. Fisher will play works by Bach, Matthews and Titcomb.

Mr. Fisher is a graduate of the School of Sacred Music of Union Theological Seminary in New York. At Union he studied with Clarence Dickinson and Hugh Porter. Before assuming his position in Shreveport he held a similar post at the East Dallas Christian Church in Dallas.

M. I. A., 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.
Primary, 10:00 a.m., Saturday.
Thought for the day: Home is not a house, no matter how large or how grand it may be, but home is where love and contentment dwell, and to the Saints where the good Spirit dwells.
You are welcome to meet and worship with us.

ANSWER: It will st

Smart New Shoe Styling Designed For Younger Set

Little Girl Shoes Now Prettiest

Easter shoes for little girls were never prettier. The classic favorites — the pump, the shell - line one strap and the Mary Jane continue to be the smartest shoes for young wearers. But they have a new look this season, in line with the dainty feminine trend in little girl fashions.

Black patent, as always, is a big favorite. You can't have spring without black patent slippers for little girls. But this year it is being crowded by the popularity of whites, off - whites and pastels. The pink shoe, so smart for grown-ups, is the big news for children, too. And pink trim on black patent is a favorite. Pale blue and pearl luster grey are also used for decorative touches on patent.

Next to patent for general wear is a lighter, livelier navy in smooth leather. The little red shoe, always a spring fashion, is still important especially in the new bright scarlet. But the whites and paler tones are coming up fast, since they are charming with all the airy full skirted summer dresses.

Decorative Treatments

Just as grown - up shoes are going in for dressmaker touches, so the vamps on children's slippers show decorative treatments. There are white or colored nailheads, embroideries, the sparkle of jewel trims, pipings and stitchings. All for that pretty look which is the feature of children's dresses.

The patents and smooth leathers lead the field, although there are some suedes in navy, beige or pastel shades. Mesh is less in evidence than last year. When used, it is usually in trimming for whites and patents handled in a dainty and delicate way.

Fabrics in children's shoes are mostly linens and shantungs, which are good for late spring and summer wear and practical because they are easily dyed to match any costume.

For everyday wear, there are many attractive new patterns for little girls. The good old saddle oxford is still in there. But there are new colors in smooth leather for the saddle — reds, blues, green as well as tan. Newer is the side zipper step-in, a boy's favorite that the girls have taken over. This particularly desirable in black suede, apparently.

The one strap shows a wider strap, a little more sole for school and general daytime wear. Here the color story is the bright flame red, a lighter, livelier brown, white and blue. On the red and blue shoes a touch of white decoration frequently gives the light touch. Typical, a one - strap of navy calf with red, blue and silver thread twisted into a braid effect and used to trim the vamp for a shoe that can be either school or dress.

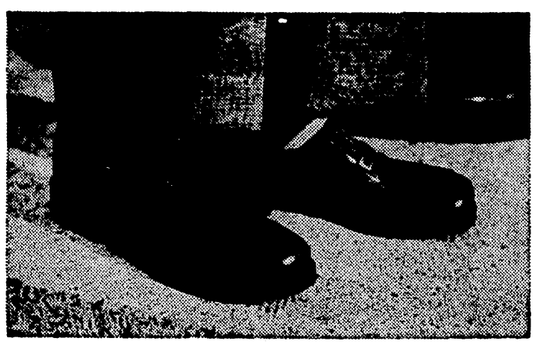
Soft For Sturdy Wear

There are any number of new treatments for the moccasin and slip - on shoes. The kiltie theme is good, as in the kiltie tongue slip-on of bright red leather. The gore which holds the shoe in place is concealed under the kiltie tongue of this high straight throatline design. In kilties and similar casual types brown or tan is the most popular color, followed by red and the new smoke tones.

Elk is a good leather, soft and sturdy, for these shoes for everyday wear, and there is rising interest in the soft glove leather types. Some suedes and bucko leathers, although these are more in line for fall.

There will be sandals, of course, as warm weather comes on. The casual sandal of leather with the adjustable buckle vamp is a good style that will continue to be important. It fits well. It's practical. Red, brown, navy, beige, tan — all good for these. A little more dressed up and sophisticated is the closed vamp sandal which may be in white, pastels, black patent or white.

TAN, TRIM AND STURDY, a go-everywhere pump for Spring with a decorated, cut-out vamp, a tasseled bow and long-wearing Interflex soles and rubber tap heels.



SNUG-HUG GORE LOAFERS that fit like an oxford, are hardy enough to take the same rugged daily wear, and emphasize this Spring's casual look in shoes.

After-School Shoe Also Is Important

Often there is so much concentration on so-called "school shoes" that it is sometimes forgotten the youngsters wear shoes after school as well, though shoes for each purpose actually lead two different "lives."

The reasons are clear on reflection. During school hours the child is much less active while in classrooms. But after school play is quite another matter.

Japan produced a record 10,633,000 tons of cement in 1954.

DARK AND LOW-SLUNG, a moccasin oxford with sturdy foam crepe outsoles and heavy white stitching on soles and uppers for a sharp Spring look.

EASTER OUTFIT SPICE this Spring is a licorice black patent shell strap shoe with nailheads accenting the cut-outs.

PARTY PERFECTS for Spring, of pink pearlized calf with a frothy pouff ornamenting the strap.

Giant Strides Taken In Shoe Comfort For Men

The effort to get men's feet out of leather cases and into something both smart and comfortable for warm weather goes on apace — and this spring it is really getting somewhere.

Mesh started the ball rolling. And the shoe of mesh and leather still has great popular appeal, with particular interest in the natural or wheat mesh combined with black or brown. This is a shoe for late spring or summer. A popular shoe, but one that no longer has any great style significance.

The smart man, who wants a good looking town shoe that he can wear early, and right through summer, is going for the new models in perforated or woven leathers which have a well-tailored smart air while allowing the foot to breathe.

Many of these shoes are American designs. Others originated in Italy or Spain, where men's footwear is a matter of great interest to all concerned.

If expense is no object, the hand-woven leather shoe, in which all fashioning and fitting is done in the handling of the leather without lasting is really a triumph. And it has inspired some very handsome shoes, in which all or the major portion of the vamp is of laced strips, so well styled that the shoe is a perfect accompaniment for town business suits

Tans and brown are favored in shoes of this type, but black is smart, especially with the charcoal and off - black green and brown flannels and worsteds for business wear. And there are also some good looking shoes in navy blue calfskin.

In perforated shoes, another way of getting ventilation plus style, the most popular models show a perforated section in the vamp with plain edge. Brown is the leading color, but two tone combinations are also popular.

In other models the entire vamp is perforated, with plain quarter, this perhaps having the style edge, since there is more and more interest in the plain toe effect.

While perforations and woven leathers were originally introduced for reason of coolness and comfort, they have caught on so rapidly that many shoes now simulate the effect with embossed leathers. These may be no cooler than regulation shoes, but they are riding on the fashion band wagon, showing how these new air-conditioned shoes have appealed to the public fancy.

In real summer styles, the classic tan and white spectator gets the new look in a two - eyelet blucher type with perforated vamp and quarter of white buck.

It's A Chore To Drive 1875 Car

VIENNA (AP)— Do you think you would really enjoy the scenery if you drove at five miles an hour on your Sunday outing?

Maybe in your car—but certainly not in the contraption housed in the Vienna Museum of Technology. Dr. Josef Nagler, museum director, says it's the world's oldest car still running and was built in 1875.

The top speed is just five miles an hour, and Nagler says you are too busy controlling it ever to look at the landscape. The last time he took it out, he exhibited it to a gaping Swedish crowd in Stockholm.

Against The Law

"When we landed in Sweden and took the car out of its box," he says, "a stern police official told us we wouldn't get permission to operate it in Sweden.

"You haven't a foot brake, and your clutch is operated by hand, which is against regulations'," he said.

"However, he relented when we said there probably were different also need hands to operate the clutch by pressing a hand lever and off we went.

"We covered about 15 miles in three hours. It was not easy. You have to handle the steering wheel with at least one hand, but you also need handst o operate the brakes and the gas wheel.

"One more thing: The clutch lever must be pressed on during the entire ride. There is no gear shift and in fact just one gear.

Refueling Job

"Other things the driver of 1875 had to do was to refuel the half-gallon gas tank and the water tank of the cooling system during the ride. In all, quite a job."

All this explains why the so-called Marcus car, named after its constructor Siegfried Marcus, is seldom taken out of the Vienna museum where it has been parked since 1918.

It has been taken out only twice for a ride since 1918.

Nagler does not know how many times Siegfried Marcus, who was born in 1831 and died shortly after completing the car, traveled in it.

It was the second Marcus attempt to create a "horseless buggy." Historical records show he built an earlier model in 1864, but it has disappeared.

When his second car was finished in 1875, it was considered a public nuisance by the Vienna police. He was told to keep it off the highways or he would be sent to jail.

Night Rider

Consequently, historians say, he took the car out only by night. The longest trip he made was from Vienna to the suburb of Klosterneuburg, about 10 miles.

Dr. Nagler said he did not change a thing on the car when he made it ready for operation in 1950. He could not be absolutely certain the car would run.

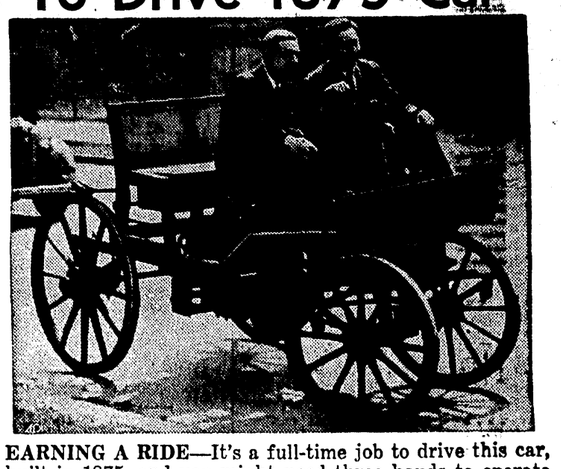
But it did. The car is a four-seater with wooden benches and big wheels. It has a four-cycle engine, spray brush carburator, and magneto snapper ignition. It is gasoline driven and weighs 1663 pounds.

Somet echnical data on the one-cylinder engine:

Bore: 3.9 inches.
Stroke: 7.8 inches.
Maximum rpm 500 per minute.
Minimum rpm 200 per minute.
Peak yield: 0.75 horse power.

SPENT FOR SHOES

It is estimated that about 1½ cents of the dollars spent by consumers goes for purchase of shoes annually.



EARNING A RIDE—It's a full-time job to drive this car, built in 1875, and you might need three hands to operate all the controls.

LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD—6

The End of the Story

The hunter opened the closet door and Grandmother rushed out. She was so glad to see Little Red Riding Hood safe that she hugged and kissed the little girl. And in return she received the basket of cookies and the flowers.

She invited her granddaughter and the hunter to stay and share the cookies. They talked and laughed and ate until all the cookies were gone.

The hunter said he would take Little Red Riding Hood safely home. Before they left, Grandmother looked wisely at the little girl and asked her to promise she would never talk to a wolf again.

The little girl nodded and said:

"Oh yes, Grandmother, I promise. I never will talk to a wolf again."

And Little Red Riding Hood never did!

After coloring the picture, paste it on stiff paper and cut the two parts out along the heavy outside lines. To make Grandmother stand fold under the flap at her feet along the dotted line. Fold back the section marked X and paste it behind the end of the bench on which you see a Y.

If you keep this set of cut-outs of Little Red Riding Hood, you can read and play the story as often as you like.

Smart New Shoe Styling Designed For Younger Set

Little Girl Shoes Now Prettiest

Easter shoes for little girls were never prettier. The classic favorites — the pump, the shell - line one strap and the Mary Jane continue to be the smartest shoes for young wearers. But they have a new look this season, in line with the dainty feminine trend in little girl fashions.

Black patent, as always, is a big favorite. You can't have spring without black patent slippers for little girls. But this year it is being crowded by the popularity of whites, off - whites and pastels. The pink shoe, so smart for grown-ups, is the big news for children, too. And pink trim on black patent is a favorite. Pale blue and pearl luster grey are also used for decorative touches on patent.

Next to patent for general wear is a lighter, livelier navy in smooth leather. The little red shoe, always a spring fashion, is still important especially in the new bright scarlet. But the whites and paler tones are coming up fast, since they are charming with all the airy full skirted summer dresses.

Decorative Treatments

Just as grown - up shoes are going in for dressmaker touches, so the vamps on children's slippers show decorative treatments. There are white or colored nailheads, embroideries, the sparkle of jewel trims, pipings and stitchings. All for that pretty look which is the feature of children's dresses.

This Spring It's The New 'Lower Line' Shoes For Men

Effect Seen On Formals, Casuals Too

Strange they didn't think of it long ago. The new low cut makes all the difference in the world with a look of men's spring footgear. It's graceful. It's easy. It's light looking, and this light look is complemented by lighter soles, finer detailing, a slimmer silhouette.

This is strictly in line with men's fashions which go in very definitely for natural shoulders, easy but not exaggerated body lines, narrower trousers. The whole effect is one of ease, style, let us even say elegance in the most conventional of town fashions.

And the "low-line" is not restricted to town fashions. It has affected the whole range of shoes from casual to formal. It makes the high cut shoe look almost as quaint as grandpa's congress gaiters, when worn with spring and summer clothes.

Some Good Examples

Here are a few examples to show how widespread is the vogue for the new low cut shoe.

The wing tip is still the big town and business favorite. Also the U and straight vamp. They are conservative, correct, in line with the trend toward a strict line of demarcation between leisure and town and formal shoes. However, they achieve a much smarter, more youthful, more up-to-the-minute look with the new low line. Cooler looking too, in line with summer suits.

This new styling prevails in all sorts of materials. Among the leaders in the field, men's shoes in lightweight calfskin, especially in two-eyelet design, is a big favorite all over the country. This perhaps a little more youthful than the wing tips.

Important also the cordovans which have advanced from utility to high fashion, partly because they are so smart with the blue or grey clothes of spring. These come in wing tips, U-wings, moc-overlays and plain toes.

There's news in two-eyelet low topline shoes with suede fronts and quarters in calfskin. To be really up-to-the-minute, these make use of such combinations as contrasting brown tones, or light grey with charcoal.

Campus Likes Fashions

There's a general feeling that the craze for dark clothes and accessories in the men's field has not yet reached its peak. Lots of men have not yet tried a suit in charcoal gray, black-brown or black-green.

Style-makers don't seem to feel that the approach of spring is going to see any let-up in this dark picture for spring town wear and black, charcoal, darkest brown and blue will all be featured. Perhaps it gives added excitement to the colorful casual clothes for casual and weekend wear.

Youth has adapted these staid fashions with a bang. Look at any college campus for low cut shoes, in black or dark colors, dark suits, black or charcoal raincoats or toppers. In fact, youth was the first to adopt these fashions, along with the low cut shoe.

AIR CONDITIONED COMFORT IS IN STORE for men this season with smart, new, ventilated, woven leather shoes such as the two eyelet bluchers shown above, for either town or casual wear.

DRESSY, U-WING MODELS PLUS wing-back feature move into the new season in smooth redwood leather. Here's a dressy shoe to wear with patterned hose.

The moccasin front is now a staple. It too features the new low lines and is most popular in polished leathers, although some prefer the cashmere-soft grains. There are also some suedes trimmed with alligator and lizard. The new moccasin types, like the more formal shoes, feature the slim, trim, tailored look rather than the more casual air.

On Youthful Side

Also on the youthful side is the plain blucher, a style which caught on several seasons ago and is now stronger than ever with youthful wearers. The low-line top has added to the style appeal of these shoes.

Laceless Shoe Continues Must In Men's Wardrobe

There's hardly a man today who doesn't boast a pair of laceless shoes in his wardrobe. In spite of the trend toward more conventional styling in town and business shoes, the ease and comfort of the slip-on continues to appeal. And with high school and college age it's highly popular, especially with novelty welting and crepe rubber soles.

Combinations of suede and smooth leather are no longer important. Smooth leathers or soft grains are the thing. The moccasin front and the "run-around" are the leaders in the slip-on field, although some copy the U and wing-tip styling of more conventional shoes.

The tassel moccasin is still a favorite, especially with younger wearers who seem to like it best in polished black (it can do duty as a party shoe, it seems). And there are wearers who like the laceless shoe with the zipper closing because of the neat trim line over the instep.

In the smooth leathers, black is important for early spring. Deep charcoal is considered smart with dark flannels. The browns and tans of this season are livelier in tone, and cordovan is a hit fashion.

In the cashmere-soft grain leathers the trend toward dark colors is also noticeable, although these are the leathers that appeal to the school and college set. Black, charcoal grey or brown and walnut are leaders. If it's purely a casual shoe, the maple and camel tones may be the thing. Of course, the new lowline look is a feature.

Leather Textures Add Personality

Advances in tanning of leathers for use in making shoes has brought some spectacular new textures and finishes to the field for use in shoes for women, men, boys and girls.

Probably newest are the woven leathers. Others are perforated leathers, cork grains, pebble grains, shrunken grains, llama grains, swirl effects, and soft crushed leathers. Each creates an opportunity for endowing shoes with fresh "Personality."

SHOE INDUSTRY BIG

More than half a million people are employed in the design, production and selling of shoes in this country.

FOR OLDER FOLKS

The shoes industry has given careful attention to styling new footwear for the folks over 65 who though of retirement age continue active instead of resigning to old-fashioned rocking-chair attitudes.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

4 clubs	Double	4 diamonds	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of clubs.

If, upon occasion, I offer in this space a hand involving the utmost in fundamentals, it is not that I have misjudged the intellectual level of my readers. Rather, it is because I have observed that it is a great source of comfort to most players to read of an occasional "blackout" on the part of some player in the big league.

Today's final contract was reached with reasonable assurance, as both players displayed each of their key cards. Observe that over the three spade bid, South bid four clubs rather than four hearts. This is known as showing the "easiest" ace. It anticipates that partner will show the ace of diamonds, and permits the heart ace to be shown at the level of four. If the ace of hearts is shown first, North would have to go beyond game to show the diamond control, and South would find himself in the stratosphere without having shown the club ace. North's bid of five hearts, of course, designates the king.

South, exhausted evidently by the effort in reaching slam, became the victim of a blind spot in the play of the cards.

When the king of clubs was opened, he decided he would have to guess the location of the king of diamonds in order to dispose of trumps he decided to play West for that card. He took the finesse and went down to defeat.

But for the affliction of the blind spot, South could have counted 12 tricks, namely, six spades, two hearts, one club, and three diamonds. After drawing trumps he plays the ace of diamonds, followed by the queen. If there is no cover, he simply sheds the losing club and if the trick loses, he claims the balance of the tricks. If there is a cover, he has 12 tricks with the chance for 13 if he can drop both heart honors.

The United States had 1,066,000 classroom teachers in elementary and high schools in the fall of 1954.

This Spring It's The New 'Lower Line' Shoes For Men

Effect Seen On Formals, Casuals Too

Strange they didn't think of it long ago. The new low cut makes all the difference in the world with a look of men's spring footgear. It's graceful. It's easy. It's light looking, and this light look is complemented by lighter soles, finer detailing, a slimmer silhouette.

This is strictly in line with men's fashions which go in very definitely for natural shoulders, easy but not exaggerated body lines, narrower trousers. The whole effect is one of ease, style, let us even say elegance in the most conventional of town fashions.

And the "low-line" is not restricted to town fashions. It has affected the whole range of shoes from casual to formal. It makes the high cut shoe look almost as quaint as grandpa's congress gaiters, when worn with spring and summer clothes.

Some Good Examples

Here are a few examples to show how widespread is the vogue for the new low cut shoe.

The wing tip is still the big town and business favorite. Also the U and straight vamp. They are conservative, correct, in line with the trend toward a strict line of demarcation between leisure and town and formal shoes. However, they achieve a much smarter, more youthful, more up-to-the-minute look with the new low line. Cooler looking too, in line with summer suits.

This new styling prevails in all sorts of materials. Among the leaders in the field, men's shoes in lightweight calfskin, especially in two-eyelet design, is a big favorite all over the country. This perhaps a little more youthful than the wing tips.

Important also the cordovans which have advanced from utility to high fashion, partly because they are so smart with the blue or grey clothes of spring. These come in wing tips, U-wings, moc-overlays and plain toes.

There's news in two-eyelet low topline shoes with suede fronts and quarters in calfskin. To be really up-to-the-minute, these make use of such combinations as contrasting brown tones, or light grey with charcoal.

Campus Likes Fashions

There's a general feeling that the craze for dark clothes and accessories in the men's field has not yet reached its peak. Lots of men have not yet tried a suit in charcoal gray, black-brown or black-green.

Style-makers don't seem to feel that the approach of spring is going to see any let-up in this dark picture for spring town wear and black, charcoal, darkest brown and blue will all be featured. Perhaps it gives added excitement to the colorful casual clothes for casual and weekend wear.

Youth has adapted these staid fashions with a bang. Look at any college campus for low cut shoes, in black or dark colors, dark suits, black or charcoal raincoats or toppers. In fact, youth was the first to adopt these fashions, along with the low cut shoe.

AIR CONDITIONED COMFORT IS IN STORE for men this season with smart, new, ventilated, woven leather shoes such as the two eyelet bluchers shown above, for either town or casual wear.

DRESSY, U-WING MODELS PLUS wing-back feature move into the new season in smooth redwood leather. Here's a dressy shoe to wear with patterned hose.

The moccasin front is now a staple. It too features the new low lines and is most popular in polished leathers, although some prefer the cashmere-soft grains. There are also some suedes trimmed with alligator and lizard. The new moccasin types, like the more formal shoes, feature the slim, trim, tailored look rather than the more casual air.

On Youthful Side

Also on the youthful side is the plain blucher, a style which caught on several seasons ago and is now stronger than ever with youthful wearers. The low-line top has added to the style appeal of these shoes.

4 diamonds	East	Pass	South
4 hearts	West	Pass	North
5 hearts	East	Pass	South
6 spades	West	Pass	North
Pass	East	Pass

Opening lead: King of clubs.

If, upon occasion, I offer in this space a hand involving the utmost in fundamentals, it is not that I have misjudged the intellectual level of my readers. Rather, it is because I have observed that it is a great source of comfort to most players to read of an occasional "blackout" on the part of some player in the big league.

Today's final contract was reached with reasonable assurance, as both players displayed each of their key cards. Observe that over the three spade bid, South bid four clubs rather than four hearts. This is known as showing the "easiest" ace. It anticipates that partner will show the ace of diamonds, and permits the heart ace to be shown at the level of four. If the ace of hearts is shown first, North would have to go beyond game to show the diamond control, and South would find himself in the stratosphere without having shown the club ace. North's bid of five hearts, of course, designates the king.

South, exhausted evidently by the effort in reaching slam, became the victim of a blind spot in the play of the cards.

When the king of clubs was opened, he decided he would have to guess the location of the king of diamonds in order to dispose of trumps he decided to play West for that card. He took the finesse and went down to defeat.

But for the affliction of the blind spot, South could have counted 12 tricks, namely, six spades, two hearts, one club, and three diamonds. After drawing trumps he plays the ace of diamonds, followed by the queen. If there is no cover, he simply sheds the losing club and if the trick loses, he claims the balance of the tricks. If there is a cover, he has 12 tricks with the chance for 13 if he can drop both heart honors.

The United States had 1,066,000 classroom teachers in elementary and high schools in the fall of 1954.

UNUSUALLY LOW CUT is this raised seam moccasin slated to be a style winner this season in smooth orange toned leather.

Laceless Shoe Continues Must In Men's Wardrobe

There's hardly a man today who doesn't boast a pair of laceless shoes in his wardrobe. In spite of the trend toward more conventional styling in town and business shoes, the ease and comfort of the slip-on continues to appeal. And with high school and college age it's highly popular, especially with novelty welting and crepe rubber soles.

Combinations of suede and smooth leather are no longer important. Smooth leathers or soft grains are the thing. The moccasin front and the "run-around" are the leaders in the slip-on field, although some copy the U and wing-tip styling of more conventional shoes.

The tassel moccasin is still a favorite, especially with younger wearers who seem to like it best in polished black (it can do duty as a party shoe, it seems). And there are wearers who like the laceless shoe with the zipper closing because of the neat trim line over the instep.

In the smooth leathers, black is important for early spring. Deep charcoal is considered smart with dark flannels. The browns and tans of this season are livelier in tone, and cordovan is a hit fashion.

In the cashmere-soft grain leathers the trend toward dark colors is also noticeable, although these are the leathers that appeal to the school and college set. Black, charcoal grey or brown and walnut are leaders. If it's purely a casual shoe, the maple and camel tones may be the thing. Of course, the new lowline look is a feature.

Leather Textures Add Personality

Advances in tanning of leathers for use in making shoes has brought some spectacular new textures and finishes to the field for use in shoes for women, men, boys and girls.

Probably newest are the woven leathers. Others are perforated leathers, cork grains, pebble grains, shrunken grains, llama grains, swirl effects, and soft crushed leathers. Each creates an opportunity for endowing shoes with fresh "Personality."

SHOE INDUSTRY BIG

More than half a million people are employed in the design, production and selling of shoes in this country.

FOR OLDER FOLKS

The shoes industry has given careful attention to styling new footwear for the folks over 65 who though of retirement age continue active instead of resigning to old-fashioned rocking-chair attitudes.

TAKE A BREATHER in airy, moccasin style shoes for spring. Here nylon and grain calf are blended to provide ease and comfort.

Little Orphan Annie

"NO SURE DUNGEON BUT THE GRAVE" -SCOTT
WELL, THIS OLD DUNGEON VERY WELL COULD BECOME THE GRAVE FOR TWO PEOPLE WE KNOW.....

KIDS ARE ALL ALIKE! ANNIE'S JUST EXPLORING... CAN'T BE OUTSIDE OF THE CASTLE...SHE'LL BE BACK BY BREAKFAST TIME...

I HOPE SO! BUT DID YOU SEE WHERE SANDY WENT, FOLLOWING HER TRAIL?

NONSENSE, GINI! HO-HO! PROBABLY FOLLOWING SOME CAT'S TRACKS! NO ONE HAS USED THAT PART OF THE CASTLE IN FIVE CENTURIES...

SO THE DUKE KEEPS SAYING...

DID YOU CATCH THAT CHILD'S INFERNAL DOG?

I THINK WE HAVE HIM CORNERED... HARK!

OW! WHY, YOU..... !!!!

WHY, THAT...!

LOOK AT HIM GO!

IF THE DRAWBRIDGE IS DOWN HE'LL ESCAPE!

LET HIM GO! THE FARTHER THE BETTER! DOGS CAN'T TALK!

YOU...YOU KNOW MY NAME? IN THIS HORRIBLE DUNGEON? BUT IT...IT CAN'T BE?

I'M AFRAID IT IS, ANNIE...

HAVEN'T GOT USED TO TH' DARK IN HERE YET...IF... IF... IF IT IS... YOUR VOICE...

THIS WAY, ANNIE...JUST A COUPLE MORE STEPS... HOLD OUT YOUR HANDS...

IT IS! IT'S YOU! "DADDY"!

ANNIE... MY DARLING LITTLE ANNIE!

FIRST ANNIE... NOW SANDY'S GONE! I'M...I'M SCARED! HAVE YOU BEEN SENDING REPORTS BACK TO YOUR BOSS, MR. PULSE?

I'VE GIVEN THEM TO THE DUKE'S SECRETARY EVERY DAY TO BE SENT...

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. Copr. 1955 by News Syndicate Co. Inc.

ODD THING, JOE... HAVEN'T HEARD A WORD FROM OUR "QUEEN", OR VIC VIOLET...

NO? WHY, THEY SHOULD BE BACK HERE BY NOW!

WHILE, FROM HIGH ATOP A RIDGE, ABOVE A FOREIGN SHORE, A BROODING FIGURE STARES DOWN!

HAROLD GRAY

Tales from the Great Book

THE UNSELFISH LOVE OF RUTH

by John Lehti

ESCAPING FROM BRIGANDS, RUTH'S HUSBAND - MAHLON - FINDS THE CITY GATES LOCKED FOR THE NIGHT AS HE ATTEMPTS TO SAVE HIS GOODS, THE RUFFIANS OVERPOWER HIM OUTSIDE THE WALLS...THIS MIGHT VERY WELL HAVE BEEN THE WAY HE DIED - FOR BRIGANDS WERE COMMONPLACE IN ANCIENT TIMES...

HE...HE IS DEAD!

MY HUSBAND!

SURELY THE LORD HAS SET HIS HAND AGAINST US THAT WE SHOULD BE VISITED WITH SO MUCH TRAGEDY!

AS SOON AS WORD OF THE CATASTROPHE SPREADS THROUGHOUT THE CITY, CREDITORS DESCEND UPON NAOMI AND HER DAUGHTERS-IN-LAW...

I LOANED YOU MONEY FOR FOOD AND CLOTHING.

AND I FOR THE CARAVAN!

MAHLON OWES ME FOR AN OLIVE PRESS!

AND WE CAN WAIT NO LONGER - WE MUST BE PAID!

WHAT I OWE I SHALL PAY — EVEN IF I MUST SELL MY LAST POSSESSIONS...

NO, NAOMI. PERHAPS MY FAMILY CAN HELP.

NO! IT IS NOT THEIR DUTY, RUTH.

WE MUST BE PAID!

YOU CAN GIVE ME THE OLIVE GROVES AS PAYMENT FOR WHAT YOU OWE ME!

THESE FURNISHINGS WILL SATISFY ME!

WHATEVER YOU SAY. I HAVE NO CHOICE.

BUT HOW WILL YOU LIVE, NAOMI -- WHERE?

I HAVE HEARD THE FAMINE IN ISRAEL IS ENDED...THERE IS NOTHING TO KEEP ME HERE NOW — SO I SHALL RETURN TO BETHLEHEM.

JOHN LEHTI

The PHANTOM

By LEE FALK and WILSON McCOY

THE GIBS BROTHERS ARE COMIN!

RUN FOR YOUR LIVES!

LEMME OUT!

OH, NO! HERE GOES MY PLACE!

WHO ARE THESE BROTHERS?

THE MEANEST AND TOUGHEST GUYS ON THE COAST. WHEN THEY'RE ON A TEAR THEY BREAK EVERYTHING IN SIGHT. RUN WHILE YOU CAN, MILK-DRINKER!

THE GIBS BROTHERS, BIG, MEAN, AND FULL OF FIGHT!

AW- THE JOINT'S ALMOST EMPTY!

SOMEONE MUSTA TOLD 'EM WE WAS COMIN'. THAT'S THE THIRD TIME TONIGHT IT HAPPENED!

LET'S PULL THIS PLACE DOWN!

WHAT YOU SAY, PAL? WANNA PAY US OFF, OR DO WE SMASH UP YOUR JOINT?

I'LL PAY-- I'LL PAY--!

DON'T BE FOOLISH. PAY THEM NOTHING.

?!

!!

!!!

WHAT'S THAT? HEY- THERE'S STILL A GUY HERE--

ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY! I DIDN'T NOTICE THE SAP!-- NOW- SAY THAT AGAIN, YOU!

TIM® TYLER'S LUCK

By LYMAN YOUNG and TOM MASSEY

RAIN'S LETTING UP, SIR!

GOOD! WE'LL GET READY TO TAKE AFTER BURT BURJETT AGAIN—

HIS WAGON'S PROBABLY MIRED DOWN IN THE MUD ON THE KILO TRAIL—

NO—HE HAD TIME TO REACH HIGH GROUND BEFORE THAT CLOUDBURST...

WAIT! I'M GOING ALONG—

YOU'RE REMAINING HERE ON DUTY AT OUR OUTPOST HUT, SPUD —

ONE HOUR LATER...

OUR MAN CAN'T BE MUCH FARTHER AHEAD OF US NOW!

BUT IF BURJETT IS SMUGGLING GUNS TO THE KILO NATIVES, SGT. EARLY, HOW COME WE FOUND ONLY ONE RIFLE, HIS OWN, WHEN WE SEARCHED HIS WAGON YESTERDAY?

HE NO DOUBT REMOVED AND HID THEM BEFORE APPLYING FOR THE TRAVELING PERMIT— AND THEN LATER RELOADED THE GUNS...

TROOPERS! TWO OF 'EM!

Copr. 1955, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

LATER...

TIM! WH-WHAT'S HAPPENED?

BURJETT AMBUSHED US, SPUD! HELP ME GET SGT. EARLY INTO THE HUT— HE'S GOT A BAD SCALP WOUND—

TO BE CONTINUED!
